Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 96-70, sec 1601

CFR Citation: 35 CFR 135

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In July 1982, 48 nations, representing more than 80 percent of world shipping, began implementing a new uniform method for tonnage determination in accordance with the International Convention on Tonnage Measurement of Ships, 1969. Final implementation is scheduled for July 1994. The present Panama Canal measurement system is based upon the old national tonnage measurement system. The Panama Canal Commission is currently studying the possibility of adapting its tonnage measurement system to one which is compatible with the 1969 Convention. This would eliminate the need for vessels to be measured twice, once under the new system and again under the old system for Panama Canal assessment purposes. While no timetable for rulemaking has been established, tentative plans are to target any possible change to the Panama Canal measurement rules to the July 1994 final implementation of the 1969 Convention by October 1, 1994.

Agenda of Regulations Under Development

AGENCY: Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (PBGC).

ACTION: Agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's regulatory agenda issued under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The agenda lists regulations that are currently under development or that PBGC expects to have under development during the next 12 months. The effect of this agenda is to advise the public of PBGC's current and future regulatory activities.

ADDRESSES: Office of the General Counsel, Code 22500, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, 2020 K Street NW., Washington, DC 20006.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact Harold J. Ashner, Assistant General Counsel, Office of the General Counsel, (202) 778-8850. For information about a specific regulation project listed on the agenda, contact the person designated in the agenda for that regulation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under the President's Order on Federal Regulation, Executive Order 12291, 46 FR 13193, each agency is required to publish, in April and October, an agenda of regulations currently or soon to be under development. The Executive order requires that the agenda also include those currently effective regulations that are being reviewed by the Agency pursuant to the Executive order. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, Public Law 98-354, 5 U.S.C. 601, has a similar agenda requirement. Under that law, the agenda must list any regulation that is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The Office of Management and Budget has issued guidelines prescribing the form and content of the regulatory agenda. Under those guidelines, the agenda must list all regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed in the next 12 months and provide certain specified information on each regulation. All of the items on this agenda are current or projected rulemakings.

4207. ANNUITY CONTRACTS DISTRIBUTED BY TERMINATING PLANS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b); 29 USC 1341(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2617

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4041(b) requires terminating plans to provide benefits that are payable in annuity form by purchasing and distributing to plan participants (or beneficiaries) irrevocable commitments from an insurer to pay the annuity benefits. Once the final distribution of assets in accordance with section 4041(b) is completed, PBGC's guarantee under ERISA section 4022 is extinguished. Under ERISA section 4041(b), the only specific requirement dealing with irrevocable commitments distributed upon plan termination is that they be purchased from a licensed insurance company. (Such purchases are, of course, subject generally to the fiduciary provisions of Title I of ERISA.) Recent publicity about financial problems within the insurance industry and, specifically, about the serious problems of a few insurers, has sparked concerns about the security of pension annuities that are being, or will be, paid by an insurer pursuant to an irrevocable commitment. PBGC (with the Department of Labor) has been studying this issue. (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: As part of this ongoing study, PBGC issued an ANPRM, in order to solicit comments and suggestions from the public on the following two broad issues: (1) Are current or future retirees, who are (or will be) receiving their benefits from an insurance company pursuant to the insurer's irrevocable commitments, at risk of losing some (or all) of their promised benefits because of the insurer's financial inability to pay the full benefits? (2) If such risk does exist, or can reasonably be expected to exist in the future, what actions, either Federal or nonfederal, can be taken to reduce this risk with respect to plans terminating under Title IV? After reviewing the public comments in response to this ANPRM, as well as the other information available to it, PBGC will decide whether to proceed with this rulemaking by issuing an NPRM.

PENSION BENEFIT GUARANTY CORPORATION (PBGC) — Proposed Rule Stage

4208. • MERGERS AND TRANSFERS BETWEEN MULTIEMPLOYER PLANS

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1411

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2672

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: ERISA section 4231 sets basic guidelines for mergers and transfers between multiemployer plans, including a provision for a 120-day notice to the PBGC. The PBGC's regulation on Mergers and Transfers Between Multiemployer Plans contains implementing rules. Neither the statute nor the regulation makes clear whether or how the merger and transfer rules apply where one or more of the plans involved is terminated. This regulation would amend 29 CFR Part 2672 to clarify its application to mergers and transfers involving one or more terminated multiemployer plans and to specify the criteria that a merger or transfer involving terminated plans must satisfy in order to protect participants and beneficiaries in the affected plans, as well as the PBGC, from risk of loss as a result of the merger or transfer. The regulation would also liberalize the 120-day notice requirement for all multiemployer mergers and transfers so that such transactions can proceed more expeditiously.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 552a

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2607

Abstract: The PBGC is dividing one of its systems of records that are subject to the Privacy Act into two systems, and therefore proposes to amend its regulations to describe accurately the pertinent exemption from statutory provisions under the systems of records as so modified. In addition, the PBGC is proposing regulatory amendments to reflect its current organization and to increase its standard copying fee (which has not been modified since 1975). The proposed rule would also include several editorial changes.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 31 USC 3701

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The PBGC currently does not have a program for the administrative offset of debts (i.e., for satisfying debts owed to the PBGC by withholding money that is payable to or held for the debtors by other agencies of the federal government). Administrative offset against moneys owed by other federal agencies might be an effective tool for collecting debts such as premium payment deficiencies, benefit overpayments, and employer liability for underfunding of terminated plans. This regulation would be part of an administrative offset program that would also include entering into agreements with other federal agencies and developing an internal system for selecting and preparing the debts to be collected by offset.

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2626

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 ("SEPPAA") added to ERISA (in section 4049) a requirement that a "4049 trust" be set up to provide unfunded benefits not guaranteed by the PBGC to participants and beneficiaries of terminated insufficient single-employer plans; SEPPAA also added section 4062(c) to provide for employer liability to a 4049 trust. These provisions were repealed by the Pension Protection Act ("PPA"), but still apply to plans that terminated while they were in effect (roughly 1986-87). PPA also added to section 4049 a requirement that employers liable to a 4049 trust provide funding for administrative expenses of the trust before the section 4062(c) liability is collected, in accordance with regulations to be issued by the PBGC. This regulation would provide a summary procedure for collection of such administrative funding by a 4049 trustee.

Abstract: The PBGC's regulation on Payment of Premiums (29 CFR Part 2610) currently requires plan administrators to retain, for six years, all records necessary to support or validate premium payments and to make those records available to the PBGC, upon request, for inspection and photocopying. The PBGC intends to propose an amendment to its premium regulation to provide for the submission to the PBGC of information in those records and for the supplementation of information submitted in premium filings. By improving the PBGC's ability to tailor its decision-making to the variety of situations presented by the administration of premium requirements, the PBGC expects these changes to increase the agency's efficiency and effectiveness.

Abstract: The most significant threat of future claims against the PBGC is from very large plans (both single-employer and multiemployer). This regulation would improve the PBGC's ability to estimate its potential exposure by requiring the plan administrator of each such plan to submit information annually about the plan's funding status (regardless of current funding level). In general, the required information would be readily available to the plan administrator from the plan's actuarial valuation report or the underlying workpapers. The information would be submitted (in most cases) at the same time as the annual premium payment with PBGC Form 1.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1322; 29 USC 1342

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2624

Abstract: When the PBGC assumes trusteeship of a terminated pension plan pursuant to sections 4041 and 4042 of ERISA, it pays benefits to participants pursuant to plan provisions and section 4022 of ERISA. Many of the rules and procedures for benefit payments, while of interest to participants, are inappropriate for inclusion in a regulation. The PBGC already provides much of this information to participants in other appropriate forms, such as letters and pamphlets, and will continue to do so. However, rules governing certain aspects of benefit payments are more appropriately established by regulation (or otherwise addressed through a Federal Register issuance). This regulation will enable the PBGC to process and administer PBGC-trusteed plans more efficiently with resultant cost savings by filling gaps in the rules and otherwise clarifying matters that had been handled on a case-by-case basis in the past.

4216. PAYMENTS BY PBGC OF UNFUNDED NONGUARANTEED BENEFITS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1322(c)

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Pension Protection Act repealed ERISA sections 4049 and 4062(c). Those provisions established new employer liability to plan participants and beneficiaries in the event of a distress termination or involuntary termination by the PBGC of a plan without sufficient assets to pay all benefit commitments; the section 4049 trust was the vehicle for collecting and distributing these liability amounts. This system proved flawed in several respects, however, and Congress therefore created a new scheme by which to channel employer liability recoveries to plan participants and beneficiaries (amended ERISA section 4022(c)).

Under section 4022(c), participants no longer have a direct claim for employer liability. Instead, the PBGC's claim covers both its shortfall (unfunded guaranteed benefits) and participants' losses (unfunded benefit liabilities in excess of guaranteed benefits). In turn, the PBGC is to pay a portion of its employer liability recovery to participants and beneficiaries. The amount to be paid is based on the PBGC "recovery ratio" (as defined in amended sec. 4022(c)(3)).(cont)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2619

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Retirement Equity Act of 1984 ("REA") requires plans to provide certain benefits, prohibits the elimination of benefit options and certain early retirement benefits and retirement type subsidies, and mandates the range of interest rates that may be used in calculating the amount of a non-consensual lump sum benefit. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 ("TRA '86") slightly modified the interest rate restrictions and extended them to the calculation of all lump sum benefits.

These rules necessitate several amendments to the PBGC's valuation of benefits regulation (29 CFR part 2619). The major changes will address the rules on determining the form of benefit to be valued on plan termination and the interest rate rules for lump sum payments in standard terminations.

Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2647 (Amendment)

Abstract: Under section 4207(a) of ERISA, the PBGC has issued a regulation (29 CFR part 2647) providing for the reduction or waiver of an employer's liability for complete withdrawal upon the employer's resumption of participation under the plan from which it withdrew. The statute also requires the PBGC to prescribe procedures and standards under which multiemployer plans may adopt their own rules abating complete withdrawal liability upon an employer's return to the plan (section 4207(b)).

The purpose of letting plans adopt their own abatement rules is obvious: a specific rule adopted by a plan may well work better under the facts and circumstances of that particular plan than the broad rules adopted by the PBGC. This regulation will permit a plan to fashion the rules it needs to encourage the return of withdrawn employers, while at the same time protecting the plan from the loss of withdrawal liability payments without a compensating resumption of contributions to the plan by a formerly withdrawn employer. Abstract: Under ERISA section 4303 and 29 CFR Part 2671, a plan that became a multiemployer plan solely as a result of the change in definition of such plans under the Multiemployer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1981 could elect to remain a single-employer plan. To do so, it had to be amended no later than September 26, 1981, to provide that it be treated as a single-employer plan, and had to file a written notice of its election with the PBGC no later than 60 days after the adoption of the amendment. This provision is now obsolete, and its repeal would simplify the PBGC's regulations.

Abstract: Under sections 4006 and 4007 of ERISA, the PBGC has issued its regulation governing the payment of premiums for pension plans subject to Title IV of ERISA (29 CFR part 2610). PBGC studies of ways to simplify premium calculation and filing and to improve premium processing and accounting by PBGC have yielded suggestions for changes in that regulation. As a result, the PBGC has issued a proposed regulation to implement certain changes, relating mainly to filing due dates, treatment of short plan years, simplification of the alternative calculation method, and premium payment requirements for large plans (including what plans are considered large plans for this purpose). The purpose of the changes would be primarily to simplify the premium payment system for plans and the PBGC.

Abstract: Section 4062 of ERISA provides that when a single-employer pension plan terminates with unfunded benefit liabilities, any contributing sponsor of the plan and any member of the contributing sponsor's controlled group shall be liable to the PBGC for the amount of unfunded benefit liabilities as of the plan termination date (and interest thereon). Current 29 CFR 2619 prescribes the rules, including the mortality and interest rate assumptions, to be used to value benefits. The interest and mortality assumptions are selected so that the calculated benefit values will be in line with the market costs for providing the benefits. Similarly, current 29 CFR 2676 prescribes the rules for valuing benefits under multiemployer plans following a mass withdrawal of employers. The PBGC proposes to amend 29 CFR 2619: (1) to update its mortality assumptions to reflect recent actuarial practice, (2) to uncouple the regulation's administrative expense ("loading") assumptions from its interest assumptions, and (3) to replace the interest rate structure with one based on the length of time between the valuation date and the date of each monthly payment. Abstract: The Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 ("SEPPAA") and the Pension Protection Act ("PPA") made several changes in Title IV rules and procedures that affect and, in some cases, override portions of several PBGC regulations. For this reason, these regulations--administrative review of agency decisions, trades or businesses under common control, certain reporting and notification requirements, employer liability, and benefit reductions in terminated plans--must be amended to conform them to current law. For example, because SEPPAA altered the determinations that the PBGC may make with respect to voluntary plan terminations, the list in 29 CFR 2606.1(b) of determinations subject to agency review must be amended.

Similarly, SEPPAA contained, for distress terminations, specific benefit cutback rules. These rules differ somewhat from those set forth in 29 CFR part 2623 and, therefore, conforming amendments to Part 2623 are required. (Updating the terminology in part 2623 will result in the need for one minor change in part 2616, i.e., the deletion of a sentence in section 2616.4(c).) Abstract: Section 4208 of ERISA provides for the reduction or elimination under certain circumstances of an employer's partial withdrawal liability arising from a 70 percent reduction in contribution base units. That section also authorizes the PBGC to prescribe rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability under other conditions. The regulation provides for the abatement of partial withdrawal liability arising from the cessation of the obligation to contribute under a collective bargaining agreement or with respect to a facility. Section 4208 also requires the PBGC to issue a regulation under which a multiemployer plan may adopt rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability. This regulation allows plans to ease the statutory partial withdrawal liability rules where, for example, the rules are harmful to the plan because they discourage an employer from increasing its participation under the plan, or where the statutory rules create administrative burdens which outweigh the protections afforded by the rules.

Abstract: Under section 4206(b) of ERISA, if an employer partially or completely withdraws from a multiemployer plan subsequent to an earlier partial withdrawal from that plan, the employer's liability for the second withdrawal must be reduced by the amount of its liability for the earlier partial withdrawal. The purpose of this credit is to avoid plans double-charging employers for the same unfunded liabilities. Section 4206(b) also requires the PBGC to prescribe regulations adjusting this credit to ensure that the employer's liability for its second withdrawal properly reflects the employer's share of liability with respect to the plan.

The need for this adjustment to the credit can be seen from the following example. In a plan that uses the rolling-5 allocation method, an employer's withdrawal liability is based on its last five years' participation in the plan. If an employer's second withdrawal occurs more than five years after its partial withdrawal, the liability for the second withdrawal is based solely on plan participation subsequent to the partial (cont)

Thus, there is no double-charging with respect to the old liabilities and no reason to give the employer a credit against its liability for the second withdrawal. However, without this regulation, the employer would get that credit under the statute. There are many other possible situations in which the employer's credit should similarly be reduced in order to ensure equitable treatment of the withdrawing employer vis-a-vis the other employers still contributing to the plan.

This regulation results in some shifting of liabilities among employers contributing to a multiemployer plan. An employer that has another withdrawal following a partial withdrawal may incur greater liability for the second withdrawal because of the reduction in the credit for the prior partial withdrawal. However, this increase in liability reduces the unfunded vested benefits allocable to other employers that withdraw thereafter. In the aggregate, the regulation imposes no new costs.

4225. DETERMINATION OF WITHDRAWAL LIABILITY FOLLOWING A MERGER

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1391(f)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2640; 29 CFR 2642 (Amendment)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The merger of two multiemployer plans creates a problem as to how the successor plan's unfunded vested benefits are to be allocated in order to determine withdrawal liability for post-merger withdrawals. Frequently, the two plans will have been using different allocation methods prior to the merger. Even if they were using the same method, if they had different plan years, that would create different allocations.

For this reason, section 4211(f) of ERISA requires the PBGC to issue regulations prescribing rules for the post-merger allocation of unfunded vested benefits. This regulation establishes rules that parallel the statutory allocation methods: i.e., there is a presumptive allocation method that applies to plans unless they choose otherwise, and plans are permitted to adopt certain modifications to this presumptive method without the PBGC's approval and other more significant modifications with the PBGC's approval. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: This regulation removes a significant impediment to multiemployer plan mergers by eliminating employers' concern and confusion over how their withdrawal liability is calculated after a merger. Plan mergers are generally to be encouraged since a larger plan is typically a stronger plan because of its broader contribution base, and because portability of benefits is increased. This regulation imposes no new costs.

Abstract: The Pension Protection Act added section 302(f) of ERISA and section 412(n) of the Internal Revenue Code to impose a lien on all assets of the contributing sponsor and each member of its controlled group for unpaid contributions totaling in excess of $1 million (including interest). The lien runs in favor of the plan, but can be perfected and enforced only by (or at the direction of) the PBGC. While the statute requires that the PBGC be given notice of payment failures, it does not specify the contents of that notice. This regulation prescribes the use of a specified PBGC form to provide the required notice.

4227. DISTRESS TERMINATIONS OF SINGLE-EMPLOYER PLANS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341(c)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2616

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 substantially revised ERISA section 4041 dealing with the voluntary termination of single-employer pension plans. Under amended section 4041, a plan may voluntarily terminate only if the termination satisfies the statutory conditions for a standard or distress termination. These rules were further modified by the 1987 Pension Protection Act, which increased the benefits that must be provided, or for which the employer maintaining the plan is liable, upon plan termination. Thus, under current law, unless a plan has sufficient assets to satisfy all plan benefit liabilities, it may voluntarily terminate only in a "distress" termination, i.e., a termination in which the plan sponsor and all members of its controlled group are able to demonstrate either such financial hardship or unduly burdensome pension costs that, as a practical matter, they are unable to continue to maintain the plan. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: The statutory rules and procedures for distress terminations are substantially different from the prior rules and procedures for terminating insufficient plans. Therefore, the PBGC's plan termination regulations have been revised to reflect these new rules and procedures. This regulation covering distress terminations and a companion rule covering standard terminations (codified in Part 2617) replace the PBGC's principal termination regulations on notices of intent to terminate and termination of sufficient plans (old Parts 2616 and 2617).

Although the notice of proposed rulemaking for this regulation was issued prior to enactment of the Pension Protection Act, the final rule reflects the relevant statutory changes from that Act.

4228. STANDARD TERMINATIONS OF SINGLE-EMPLOYER PLANS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341(b); 29 USC 1344

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2617

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under ERISA section 4041, as amended by the Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 and the Pension Protection Act, absent a showing of financial hardship or unduly burdensome pension costs that would satisfy the requirements for a distress termination, a single-employer plan may be voluntarily terminated only if it is sufficient for all benefit liabilities (i.e., all benefits provided under the plan on the termination date, whether or not vested). This is referred to as a "standard" termination. SEPPAA also modified many of the termination rules and procedures that applied under prior law, both to increase the protections afforded plan participants and beneficiaries and to simplify and expedite the PBGC's processing of these sufficient plan terminations. It has thus been necessary to promulgate this new regulation implementing the new rules and procedures for standard terminations. This regulation and its companion regulation covering distress terminations (codified in Part 2616) replace the PBGC's principal termination regulations on notices of intent to terminate and termination of sufficient plans (old Parts 2616 and 2617).

Part III, Final Rules, includes proposed rules which will be finalized during the period covered by the agenda. Part IV, Completed Actions, includes regulations completed or withdrawn and reviews completed since the preceding agenda.

Publication of the agenda does not impose any binding obligation on SBA with regard to any specific item in the agenda. Additional regulatory action not listed on the agenda is not precluded.

This proposed rule provides that SBA will not waive the statutory limit unless the major source of employment's damaged location(s) in the disaster area are out of business or in imminent danger of going out of business as a result of the disaster and the SBA loan is necessary to avoid substantial unemployment in the disaster area.

Abstract: Public Law 101-574, enacted November 15, 1990, permits SBA to require that a firm have been in business for a minimum period of time as a condition of 8(a) program eligibility only if SBA provides for a waiver to this requirement. The waiver criterion is provided in the statute. Current regulations provide that a firm must have been in business for two full years as evidenced by revenues shown on filed income tax returns in order to be eligible for the program.

This rule is an amendment to the program regulation governing the determination of potential for success as a condition of 8(a) program eligibility.

TENNESSEE VALLEY AUTHORITY (TVA) — Proposed Rule Stage

4316. PROTECTION OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESOURCES

Legal Authority: 16 USC 470aa to 470mm

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 1312

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The planned regulations will implement provisions of the Archaeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 by providing protection of archaeological resources on public lands in TVA custody and control. TVA will seek to protect such resources through permits authorizing excavation or removal of resources, through civil penalties for unauthorized excavation or removal, through preservation of archaeological resource collections and data, and through assuring confidentiality of information about resources when disclosure would threaten the resources. The planned regulations will supplement existing uniform regulations by assigning specific responsibilities within TVA.

Abstract: The regulation will set forth a complete revision of 22 CFR 514. Such revision is required as current regulations are dated, contradictory, and confusing and lack both clarity and comprehensiveness. The revision will enhance Agency oversight of the Exchange Visitor Program as well as clarify the duties and obligations of sponsors conducting exchange programs. This action is undertaken pursuant to a thorough review of the Exchange Visitor Program, its enabling legislation, and past history. The revision will ensure that Exchange activities conducted under the aegis of the J-visa conform to United States immigration and labor laws and are consistent with both the Fulbright-Hays Act of 1961 and the Smith-Mundt Act of 1948.

Procurement: This is a procurement-related action for which there is no statutory requirement. There is a paperwork burden associated with this action.

Additional Information: FAR 46.203 provides general criteria for selecting which quality requirements shall be applicable to a particular contract. The criteria to be considered include the technical description of the item, its complexity, and its intended application. Based on these criteria, Government reliance on contractor performed inspection and testing would be sufficient for many procurements of commercial or off-the-shelf supplies. However, FAR 46.301 and 46.302 indicate that Government inspection of such supplies is required when a procurement is expected to exceed the small purchase limit, without regard to the complexity or intended application of the supplies. The proposed changes would make reliance on contractor testing and inspection for commercial off-the-shelf supplies the general rule, with standard inspection or higher-level quality requirements being the exception.

On February 1, 1993, President Clinton signed EO 12836, Revocation of Certain Executive Orders Concerning Federal Contracting. Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

VOL 58 ISS 78 AP 26 1993 UMI

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION (CFTC)

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

17 CFR Ch. I

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda.

SUMMARY: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, is publishing a semiannual agenda of significant rules which the Commission expects to propose or promulgate over the next year. The Commission welcomes comments from small entities and others on the agenda.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be sent to: Gerry Smith, Special Assistant to the Executive Director, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street NW., Washington, DC 20581, (202) 254-6090.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq. (RFA), sets forth a number of requirements for agency rulemaking. Among other things, the RFA requires that:

(a) During the months of April and October of each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda which shall contain:

(1) A brief description of the subject area of any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities;

(2) A summary of the nature of any such rule under consideration for each subject area listed in the agenda pursuant to paragraph (1), the objectives and legal basis for the issuance of the rule, and an approximate schedule for completing action on any rule for which the agency has issued a general notice of proposed rulemaking; and

(3) The name and telephone number of an agency official knowledgeable concerning the items listed in paragraph (1).

5 U.S.C. 602(a). Accordingly, the Commission has prepared an agenda of significant rules which it presently expects may be considered during the course of the next year, irrespective of their potential impact on small entities.[1]

The Commission's agenda represents its best estimate of significant rules which will be considered over the next 12 months.[2] In this regard, section 602(d) of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 602(d), provides: "Nothing in [section 602] precludes an agency from considering or acting on any matter not included in a regulatory flexibility agenda or requires an agency to consider or act on any matter listed in such agenda."

The Commission is publishing its April 1993 regulatory flexibility agenda as part of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is coordinated by the Office of Management and Budget pursuant to Executive Order 12291. While participation by executive agencies in the Agenda is mandatory, independent agencies, such as the Commission, participate in the Unified Agenda on a voluntary basis.

Issued in Washington, DC, on March 24, 1993, by the Commission.

Jean A. Webb,

Secretary of the Commission.

[1] The Commission has published its definition of small entity to be used by the Commission in connection with rulemaking proceedings. 47 FR 18618 (April 30, 1982). Pursuant to those definitions, the Commission is not required to list many of the agenda items contained in this regulatory flexibility agenda. See 5 U.S.C. 602(a)(1). Moreover, the Commission has previously certified, pursuant to section 605 of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 605, that certain items contained in this agenda will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, listing of a rule in this regulatory flexibility agenda should not in any event be taken as a determination that a rule, when proposed or promulgated, will in fact require a regulatory flexibility analysis. However, the Commission hopes that the publication of an agenda, which includes significant rules, regardless of their potential impact on small entities, may serve the public generally by providing an early and meaningful opportunity to participate in and comment on the formulation of new or revised regulations.

[2] In addition to publishing the regulatory flexibility agenda, the Commission also makes available to the public, on a monthly basis, a calendar and, on a weekly basis, an advisory, which lists rules that the Commission is considering or will consider in the near future.

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION (CFTC) — Proposed Rule Stage

4401. PROPOSED REGULATION PROHIBITING DUAL TRADING BY FLOOR BROKERS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 6; 7 USC 6b; 7 USC 6c; 7 USC 6e; 7 USC 6g; 7 USC 6j; 7 USC 7; 7 USC 7a; 7 USC 12a

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 155.5

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, July 26, 1993.
270 days after enactment of the 1992 Act (October 28, 1992).

Abstract: The Commission is drafting a proposed new Regulation 155.5, consistent with the mandate of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992. Proposed new Regulation 155.5 would define dual trading as the execution of customer orders by a floor broker during the same trading session in which the floor broker executes a transaction in the same contract market for an account in which he has an interest. Dual trading would be prohibited in contract markets with average daily trading volume equal to or in excess of 8,000 contracts, subject to certain exceptions as permitted by contract market rules. The prohibition also would be subject to certain exemption procedures. These procedures would allow contract markets that meet specific trade monitoring standards, or that demonstrate the likelihood of harm to the public interest caused by the dual trading ban, to obtain an exemption from the dual trading prohibition.

Abstract: The regulation will implement the provisions of Section 206 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992 which require contract markets to provide for meaningful representation on the governing board of a diversity of interests, including various member categories, commercial interests, and non-members. The regulation also will address the requirement in Section 206 that there be a diversity of representation on major disciplinary committees sufficient to ensure fairness and prevent special treatment or preference for any person. Among other things, the regulation will provide guidelines on the diverse interests which must be represented on governing boards and persons who would qualify as public members. The regulation also will address the composition of disciplinary committees, including representation by non-members and persons in membership categories different from that of the subject of the proceeding. The action will potentially impact the selection and composition of contract market governing boards and disciplinary committees.

Abstract: The regulation will implement the provisions of Section 217 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992 which require contract markets to adopt rules to avoid conflicts of interest in deliberations and voting by members of the governing board and disciplinary and other oversight committees. The rulemaking will define the relationships between a named party in interest and a member of the governing board or committee which would require abstention from deliberations and voting. The rulemaking also will provide guidelines on situations which would require a member to abstain from voting on a significant action because of a substantial financial interest in the outcome of the vote based on positions held personally or at an affiliated firm, as well as other matters addressed by the statute. The action will potentially impact the selection and composition of contract market governing boards and committees.

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether to amend Rule 1.55, its basic rule with respect to risk disclosure by futures commission merchants and introducing brokers. Any such amendments would be designed to further simplify risk disclosure with respect to trading of domestic and foreign futures and options products so as to reduce the number of separate risk disclosure documents required by the Commission, the National Futures Association and other self-regulatory organizations (SROs), including foreign SROs. The CFTC will also review its disclosure requirements concerning futures and options transactions to identify potential means by which new trading systems can be accommodated without creating undue disclosure burdens. The Commission is also considering the necessity for new account documentation in connection with bulk transfers of accounts.

Abstract: Currently, regulation 1.35 (a-1)(3) exempts a member who receives an order from another member on the floor from the requirement that the member must prepare and time stamp an order ticket on receipt of the order. The member who receives the order must note on his trading card or other record the time of execution to the nearest minute. The proposed regulation would implement the statutory directive in Section 203 of the Futures Trading Act of 1992 by requiring that a contemporaneous written record be made, as practicable, of all orders for execution on the floor or subject to the rules of each contract market placed by a member of the contract market who is present on the floor at the time such order is placed.

Abstract: The Commission is proposing new paragraph (d) of Rule 4.20 which would prohibit a commodity pool operator from using funds or property of a commodity pool it operated to purchase assets of, purchase securities issued by, or to lend money or other property to such commodity pool operator or affiliated persons of such commodity pool operator as that term would be defined in new paragraph (d). Certain limited exceptions would be provided, including an exemption to allow a commodity pool operator to invest funds of a pool it operates in certain affiliated money market funds. The Commission also requested comment on several issues, including whether the proposed rule is warranted or whether the preclusion against self-dealing under basic fiduciary law, coupled with disclosure of transactions between commodity pool operators and affiliated persons thereof, is sufficient.

Abstract: Pursuant to Section 213 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992, the Commission is amending its regulation on contract market emergency actions to establish new emergency rule procedures. A contract market would have to make every effort practicable to give the Commission notice of its intention to implement, modify, or terminate a temporary emergency rule before taking action. The Commission then would make a determination either to permit the rule to remain in effect or to suspend the effect of the rule. These amendments would change the emergency rule process and would increase formal Commission involvement in the review of temporary emergency rules.

Abstract: Pursuant to Section 227 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992, the Commission may suspend or modify the registration of any person registered under the Commodity Exchange Act who is charged with the commission of or participation in a felony that would reflect on the honesty or the fitness of the person to act as a fiduciary, if the Commission determines that continued registration of the person may pose a threat to the public interest or may threaten to impair public confidence in any market regulated by the Commission. Abstract: Pursuant to Section 207 of the Futures Trading Practices Act of 1992, floor traders (i.e., persons who trade on exchange floors or through electronic trading systems solely for their own account) are required to register under the Commodity Exchange Act for the first time. The central goal of requiring registration of floor traders is to assure that these individuals who may be in a position to help abuse customer orders, are subject to the same background fitness checks as other futures industry professionals and to permit the Commission to act with respect to a floor trader's registration in appropriate cases. Persons currently operating as floor traders will be required to register since the 1992 Act made no provision to "grandfather" such persons. The Commission will amend its existing rules applicable to registration of industry professionals to incorporate floor traders generally under the standards applicable to other registrants.

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

16 CFR Ch. II

Regulatory Flexibility Act; Semiannual Regulatory Flexibility and Unified Agendas

AGENCY: Consumer Product Safety Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility and unified agendas.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires each Federal agency to publish, twice each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda listing the rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governmental units. In this document, the Commission publishes its semiannual regulatory flexibility agenda.

Additionally, although not required to do so, the Commission has elected to comply voluntarily with those provisions of Executive Order 12291 which require executive agencies to publish an agenda of regulatory actions expected to be under development or review by the agency during the succeeding 12 months and which further provide that such an agenda may be combined with an agency's regulatory flexibility agenda published in accordance with the RFA.

DATES: The Commission welcomes comments on each subject area of the agenda, particularly from small entities. Written comments concerning the agenda should be received in the Office of the Secretary by June 30, 1993.

ADDRESSES: Comments on the regulatory flexibility agenda should be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207, telephone (301) 504-0800, and should be titled "Regulatory Flexibility Agenda."

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact: Allen F. Brauninger, Office of the General Counsel, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207; telephone (301) 504-0980. For further information regarding a particular item on the agenda, consult the individual listed in the column headed "Contact" for that particular item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) (5 U.S.C. 601-612) contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small businesses, small governmental organizations, and other small entities. Section 602 of the RFA (5 U.S.C. 602) requires each agency to publish, twice each year, a regulatory flexibility agenda containing a brief description of the subject area of any rule expected to be proposed or promulgated which is likely to have a "significant economic impact" on a "substantial number" of small entities. The agency must also provide a summary of the nature of the rule and a schedule for acting on each rule for which the agency has issued a notice of proposed rulemaking. The regulatory flexibility agenda shall also contain the name and address of the agency official knowledgeable about the items listed. Further, agencies are required to provide notice of their agendas to small entities and to solicit their comments by direct notification or by inclusion in publications likely to be obtained by such entities.

Additionally, Executive Order 12291 requires executive agencies to publish, twice each year, a regulatory agenda of proposed regulations under development or current regulations under review and further states that such an agenda may be combined with the agenda published in accordance with the RFA. While the Commission, as an independent regulatory agency, is not required to follow Executive Order 12291, the Commission is complying voluntarily with those provisions concerning publication of a regulatory agenda.

The regulatory flexibility agenda published below lists, for a 12-month period, the regulatory activities expected to be under development or review. These include all such activities, not only those which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The agenda contains a brief description and summary of each regulatory activity, including the objectives and legal basis for each; an approximate schedule of target dates, subject to revision, for the development or completion of each activity; and the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable agency official concerning particular items on the agenda. All agency contacts have the same address: Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207.

Dated: March 5, 1993.

Sadye E. Dunn,

Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Abstract: Regulations codified at 16 CFR part 1507 establish requirements for fireworks devices, including requirements for the burning time of the fuse of such devices. Provisions of section 1507.3(a)(2) require fireworks to have a fuse that burns at least three seconds but no more than six seconds before ignition of the device. On March 20, 1991, John A. Conkling petitioned the Commission to request amendment

If Commission grants the petition, it will publish an advance notice of proposed rulemaking in the Federal Register to begin the requested rulemaking proceeding.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 553 Administrative Procedure Act; 15 USC 1261(q) Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.85

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Federal Hazardous Substances Act defines the term "banned hazardous substance" to include any toy or children's article containing a hazardous substance which is accessible to a child who may receive the product. Model rocket motors are children's articles which contain a flammable hazardous substance. Regulations codified at 16 CFR 1500.85(a)(8) exempt certain model rocket motors from classification as banned hazardous substances under specified conditions. Those conditions include a requirement that the fuel must be contained in a non-metallic tube and a limit on the total impulse of the model rocket motor to 80 newton-seconds. A petition from Aero-Tech, Inc. requests amendment of the exemption regulation to permit the use of metallic fuel containers and to increase the maximum total impulse to 160 newton-seconds. The Commission staff is scheduled to transmit a briefing package concerning this petition to the Commission in March, 1993. A decision by the Commission to grant or deny the petition is expected in April, 1993.

4429. LEAD IN PAINT; REGULATORY INVESTIGATION

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2051 et seq Consumer Product Safety Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1303

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On April 30, 1992, the Commission published a notice in the Federal Register to announce that it has begun a regulatory investigation to obtain information relevant to the issue of whether the maximum permissible level of lead in paint intended for consumer use should be reduced. The notice requested information and comments concerning the maximum allowable limit for lead in paint, exposure to lead-containing paint, and uses of lead containing paint that should be exempted from regulation. In 1977, the Commission issued regulations to ban the sale of paint intended for consumer use having a lead content in excess of 0.06 percent. The maximum level of lead content permitted by the regulations was recommended by the Committee on Environmental Health of the American Academy of Pediatrics in 1972, and affirmed by the National Academy of Sciences in 1973. Recently, the Commission staff has received information indicating that human beings, particularly young children and fetuses, may be more sensitive to adverse health effects from exposure to low levels of lead than was recognized in the early 1970s. In May, 1993, the staff plans to brief the Commission on (cont)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1615; 16 CFR 1616

Abstract: On January 13, 1993, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking to begin a proceeding which could result in amendments of the flammability standards for children's sleepwear garments in sizes 0 through 14, and to fabrics intended for use in such garments. The standards were issued to eliminate or reduce unreasonable risks of deaths and burn injuries to children associated with ignition of sleepwear garments. The regulatory alternatives under consideration include amendment of the standards to exclude tight-fitting sleepwear garments and sleepwear garments in infant sizes from the requirements of the standards.

Abstract: A petition from O'Keeffe's, Inc. requests the Commission to amend the Safety Standard for Architectural Glazing Materials to remove an exemption from the requirements of that standard for wired glass used in fire doors to comply with Federal, state, or local fire codes. The petition also requests amendment of the definitions of the terms "glass" and "glazing materials" as they are used in the standard to include certain transparent ceramic materials within the scope of the standard. Abstract: By letter dated August 27, 1992, the Consumer Federation of America and four other organizations petitioned the Commission to issue a rule to ban baby-walkers. A baby-walker is an article consisting of a seat suspended within a wooden or metal frame on wheels. An infant is seated in the baby-walker so that his or her feet can touch the floor. The infant is then able to move along a smooth, hard surface. The petition asserts that unreasonable risks of death and injuries to infants are associated with baby-walkers. These deaths and injuries have resulted primarily from falls down stairs and tip-overs. On March 15, 1993, the staff transmitted a briefing package to the Commissioners of the agency for their consideration when deciding whether to grant or deny the petition. A decision on the petition is expected in April, 1993. If the Commission grants the petition, it will publish an advance notice of proposed rulemaking to initiate the proceeding requested by the petition.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 Federal Hazardous Substances Act; 15 USC 1262 Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.12(a)(2)

Abstract: On August 20, 1986, the Commission proposed a rule to declare that household products containing methylene chloride are hazardous substances under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (FHSA). These products include some paint strippers and spray paints. The Commission's concern arises from animal tests showing that methylene chloride is a carcinogen by inhalation and studies indicating a significant human exposure as a result of reasonably foreseeable use of products containing methylene chloride. The initiation of this rulemaking proceeding granted one part of a petition (HP 85-1) from the Consumer Federation of America. The staff provided an analysis of the comments on the proposed rule to the Commission in June 1987. In August 1987, the Commission determined that there was no uncertainty as to the application of the FHSA to this substance that needed to be resolved by rulemaking. Therefore, the Commission suspended the rulemaking and issued a statement of enforcement policy stating the Commission's view that household products that contain methylene chloride and that expose consumers to significant levels (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2051 et seq Consumer Product Safety Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1210

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 17, 1992, the Commission published a proposed safety standard for disposable and novelty cigarette lighters containing requirements for resistance to operation by children. The proposed standard is intended to reduce risks of deaths and injuries associated with fires started by children younger than five years of age playing with cigarette lighters. The proposed standard includes requirements for labeling, testing, recordkeeping, and reporting by manufacturers and importers of lighters, and restrictions on stockpiling of noncomplying lighters. On October 21, 1992, the Commission conducted a hearing to receive oral presentations on the proposed standard. On February 16, 1993, the Commission published a notice in the Federal Register to announce the availability of a report on tests of child-resistant lighters and to invite submission of written comments on the report until March 18, 1993. In April, 1993, the staff is scheduled to transmit a briefing package to the Commission concerning issuance of final standard.

12 CFR Ch. VI

Unified Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Farm Credit Administration.

ACTION: Department unified agenda of regulations and review list

SUMMARY: The Farm Credit Administration (FCA), as an independent regulatory agency in voluntary compliance with Executive Order 12291, sets forth the following agenda of regulations which it will have under development and review during the period of April 1993 through October 1993.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Cindy R. Nicholson, Paralegal Specialist, Regulation Development Division, Office of Examination, Farm Credit Administration, 1501 Farm Credit Drive, McLean, VA 22102-5090, (703) 883-4498, TDD (703) 883-4444.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small entities. The FCA is an independent regulatory agency that is exempt from the provisions of Executive Order 12291. Additionally, FCA regulations which apply to Farm Credit banks and associations and certain other federally chartered entities generally do not and will not have a substantial impact on "small entities" as that term is defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

While FCA is an independent agency exempt from Executive Order 12291, we believe that participating in this joint publication will further the public interest by including FCA in a single source of information concerning current and projected rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations.

Dated: February 25, 1993.

Curtis M. Anderson,

Secretary, Farm Credit Administration Board.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations; April 1993

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Publication of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Twice a year, the Commission publishes a list in the Unified Agenda of those major items and other significant proceedings under development or review that pertain to the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The Agenda also provides the CFR citations and legal authorities which govern these proceedings. The Regulatory Flexibility Act (94 Stat. 1167: 5 U.S.C. 605) includes notations on the applicability of the Regulatory Flexibility Act to each item. The Unified Agenda will be published in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

ADDRESSES: Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street NW., Washington, DC 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Tom Sullivan, Office of Managing Director, (202) 632-0923.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Unified Agenda of Major and Other Significant Proceedings

The Commission encourages public participation in the FCC rulemaking process. To help keep the public informed of significant rulemaking proceedings, the Commission has prepared an agenda of important proceedings now in progress. OMB will publish the Unified Agenda in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

The following terms may be helpful in understanding the status of the proceedings included in this report:

A Docket Number - is assigned to a proceeding if the Commission has issued either a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking or a Notice of Inquiry in regard to the matter under consideration. Since January 1, 1978, the Commission has used docket numbers, which consist of the last two digits of the calendar year in which the docket was established plus a sequential number, which begins at 1 with the first docket initiated during a calendar year (e.g., Docket 80-1 or Docket 83-1). The abbreviation for the responsible Bureau usually precedes the docket number, as in "MM Docket 79-164," which indicates that the responsible Bureau is the Mass Media Bureau. When a docket number consists of only five digits (e.g., Docket 29622), this indicates that the docket was established before January 1, 1978.

Notice of Inquiry (NOI) - issued by the Commission when it is seeking information on a broad subject or trying to generate ideas on a given topic. A comment period is specified during which all interested parties may submit comments.

Further Notice of Inquiry (FNOI)

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) - issued by the Commission when it is proposing a specific change to the FCC Rules and Regulations. Before any changes are actually made, interested parties may submit written comments on the proposals.

Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (FNPRM)

Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O) - issued by the Commission to deny a petition for rulemaking, conclude an inquiry, modify a decision, or deny a petition for reconsideration of a decision.

Rulemaking (RM) Number - assigned to a proceeding after the appropriate Bureau/Office has reviewed a petition for rulemaking but before the Commission has taken action on the petition.

Report and Order (R&O) - issued by the Commission to state a new or amended rule or state that the FCC Rules will not be changed.

Donna R. Searcy,
Secretary,
Federal Communications Commission.

Abstract: In this stage of the proceeding, the Commission issued a Second Report and Order that modifies FCC rules and regulatory policy to enable local telephone companies to participate in the video marketplace through video dialtone. The FCC decided that local telephone companies may make available to multiple service providers, on a non-discriminatory common carrier basis, a basic platform that will deliver video programming and other services to end users. Such a policy will advance the FCC's goals of creating an advanced infrastructure, increasing competition in the video marketplace and enhancing the diversity of video services to the American public. The FCC also issued a Recommendation to Congress recommending that the statutory telephone company-cable television cross-ownership restriction be repealed. Further, the Commission solicited comments in a Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on the issue of whether the rural exemption to the telephone company-cable television cross-ownership restrictions should be raised to 10,000 persons.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 47 USC 303; 47 USC 553

CFR Citation: 47 CFR 25

Abstract: The Commission seeks to develop a record and to solicit comments on the proposed rules. These proposed rules are designed to implement recommendations made by the joint industry/government Advisory Committee on 2 degree satellite spacing; and they will codify basic applications requirements for satellite services. The proposed rules would apply to all entities including small entities who seek authorization under Part 25 of the Commission's rules to construct and operate Fixed-Satellite communications facilities. The proposed rules would establish operational and technical procedures designed to alleviate adjacent satellite interference and may increase the reporting and cost burdens on all satellite licensees. The rules codifying basic applications requirements are codifications of existing policies, will impose no additional burdens, and may, in fact, reduce the burden by eliminating several current requirements. In order to be effective, these rules must apply to all licensees and thus there is no significant alternative.

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, July 26, 1991. Other, Statutory, July 26, 1993.
Deadline for common carriers to provide TRS in their service areas.

Abstract: This Report and Order and Request for Comments implements Title IV of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA) which mandates that the Commission prescribe regulations not later than one year after the ADA's enactment date of July 26, 1990. The Report and Order requires each common carrier providing voice transmission services to provide, throughout the area in which it offers service, telecommunications relay services (TRS) for individuals with hearing and speech disabilities, not later than three years after the ADA's enactment. The Report and Order establishes TRS terminology and definitions, prescribes operational, functional, and technical minimum standards required of all TRS providers, and delineates the state certification process. In addition, the Commission asked for specific proposals on cost recovery, and afforded a 60-day comment period and a 30-day reply comment period.

Abstract: The Commission seeks to establish rules to govern the provision of low-Earth orbit mobile satellite services in frequency bands below 1 GHz. Several applications to implement such systems have been filed. Technical criteria, selection criteria, and qualification requirements are needed in order to license systems in this service. These systems will provide needed mobile data services to customers throughout the United States.

Abstract: This proceeding seeks to establish a means by which all radio emissions might be encoded with a distinct automatically transmitted identifier. Such a system would benefit the orderly management of the spectrum. It would be especially effective in preventing bogus maydays on VHF marine channels, phantom controllers on aircraft channels and general harassment on police and fire channels. While safety channels offer the most dramatic examples of need for automatic identification, other services, including all the land, mobile, and amateur services, have similar needs.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC)

AGENCY: Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) is hereby publishing items for the April 1993 regulatory agenda. The agenda contains information about FDIC's current and projected rulemakings, existing regulations under review, and completed rulemakings.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Persons identified under regulations listed in the agenda. Unless otherwise noted, the address for all FDIC staff identified in the agenda is Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, 550 17th Street NW., Washington, DC 20429.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Twice each year, the FDIC publishes an agenda of regulations to inform the public of its regulatory actions and to enhance public participation in the rulemaking process. Publication of the agenda is in accordance with both the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and the FDIC statement of policy entitled "Development and Review of FDIC Rules and Regulations" (44 FR 31007, May 30, 1979; 44 FR 32353, June 6, 1979; 44 FR 76858, December 28, 1979; 49 FR 7288, February 28, 1984).

The FDIC amends its regulations under the general rulemaking authority prescribed in section 9 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1819) and under specific authority granted by the Act and other statutes.

The Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA) and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA) contain reforms that significantly restructure Federal deposit insurance and the regulation of financial institutions. As a consequence, many of the regulations included in this agenda are in response to FIRREA and FDICIA.

Interested persons may petition the FDIC for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of any regulation by submitting a written petition to the Executive Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, DC 20429. Petitioners should include complete and concise statements of their interest in the subject matter and reasons why the petitions should be granted.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Hoyle L. Robinson,

Executive Secretary.

4545. • SUPPLEMENTAL REQUIREMENTS FOR STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

Legal Authority: 5 USC app Ethics in Government Act of 1978; 12 USC 1819; 26 USC 1043; EO 12674; EO 12731

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, February 4, 1994.

Abstract: A rule published by the Office of Government Ethics ("OGE") at 5 CFR 2635 will replace all agency ethics rules, including the FDIC's. OGE's rule permits supplemental rules on certain conflicts of interest unique to the FDIC. The FDIC plans to publish such supplemental regulations at 5 CFR 3201 relating to acceptance of gifts, extensions of credit, satisfaction of obligations, restrictions on holding the securities of federally insured depository institutions, restrictions on the purchase of the property of failed federally insured depository institutions, restrictions on the purchase of property from federally insured depository institutions, interest in FDIC decisions, and related matters.

This supplemental rule incorporates provisions from the FDIC Employee Responsibilities and Conduct regulation (12 CFR 336). Subpart C of 12 CFR 336 will remain in effect until February 4, 1994, or until this rule is published in final form, whichever occurs first.

Legal Authority: PL 102-242, Sec 302(a)

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, December 31, 1992. Final, Statutory, July 1, 1993.
The mandated effective date for the final rule is 01/01/94.

Abstract: This rulemaking establishes a risk-based assessment system, as required by section 302(a) of FDICIA. The assessment rate applicable to insured institutions would remain unchanged from the rete under the transitional system currently in effect. Other elements of the transitional system will be retained without substantial modification as well. However, this rulemaking does implement several amendments to the transitional system, including limited revision of the review procedure and clarifications regarding supervisory subgroup assignments, capital group assignments for new institutions, and financial data for insured branches of foreign banks.

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 1, 1993.
Final regulations must be promulgated by 08/01/93, with an effective date no later than 12/01/93.

Abstract: Section 132 of FDICIA requires federal financial institutions regulators, including the FDIC, to prescribe by regulation certain safety and soundness standards for insured depository institutions and depository institution holding companies. Standards must be prescribed in three principal areas: (1) operational and managerial; (2) asset quality, earnings, and stock valuation; and (3) employee compensation. If an insured depository institution does not meet one of these standards, the institution must establish a plan to achieve compliance with the standard that is acceptable to the primary regulator of the institution.

Legal Authority: PL 101-73

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 303

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposal would seek comment on whether the terms "serious risk" and "equity security" in 12 CFR 303 should be conformed to the definitions of those terms in 12 CFR 362. The changes would allow insured state savings associations to conduct activities and make investments without the FDIC's prior approval, provided that the activities and/or investments were permissible under an order or a written interpretation issued by the Office of Thrift Supervision. These changes would place insured state savings associations on a par with insured state banks under FDIC's regulations.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC) — Final Rule Stage

4552. • POWERS INCONSISTENT WITH PURPOSES OF FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE LAW

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 332

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC is eliminating Part 332 of its regulations (12 CFR 332) which, subject to certain exceptions, prohibits an insured state nonmember bank from doing a surety business; insuring the fidelity of others; engaging in the insuring, guaranteeing or certifying of titles to real estate; and guaranteeing the obligations of others. This action is taken because section 303 of FDICIA effectively covers the same area. That section limits the "as principal" activities of insured state banks to the activities permissible for national banks unless a state bank obtains the FDIC's consent.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 303

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 228 of FDICIA requires insured depository institutions to give advance notice of any proposed branch closing to their Federal regulator and the customers of that branch. It is unclear from FDICIA and its legislative history exactly what Congress meant by "branch closings" and exactly how an institution should identify the "customers of a branch." This policy interprets the language of the section to clarify when and how the branch closing notice requirements will apply, and to set forth the procedure that FDIC-insured institutions should follow to comply with the branch closing notice requirements when they do apply.

Abstract: This rulemaking eliminates section 333.3 of the FDIC's regulations, which makes certain prohibitions that are applicable to state chartered savings associations applicable to state banks that are members of the Savings Association Insurance Fund (SAIF). SAIF member banks will hereafter be subject to the restrictions in 12 CFR 362 in lieu of the restrictions that are eliminated with section 333.3. Abstract: The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the Office of Thrift Supervision, and the National Credit Union Administration, have formed an interagency task force to design a uniform criminal referral form. The form will facilitate compliance with financial institutions' criminal activity reporting requirements, enhance law enforcement agencies' ability to investigate and prosecute matters reported on the form, and develop and maintain a new interagency database. This form will replace referral forms now used by Federal regulatory agencies and by financial institutions. The purpose of this rule is to create a standardized reporting requirement and a single uniform reporting mechanism.

There is no legal deadline for publishing a final rule. However, FDICIA requires that the rule apply to the fiscal years of insured institutions beginning after December 31, 1992.

Abstract: Under section 112 of FDICIA, the FDIC must establish regulations requiring all insured depository institutions with assets of $150 million or more to file an annual report with the Corporation. This report will include financial statements audited by an independent public accountant and other statements relating to the institution's management. Institutions must have independent audit committees and notify the FDIC when their independent public accountant changes. Abstract: This rule revises the treatment of intangible assets under the FDIC's capital maintenance regulation (12 CFR 325). Limited amounts of purchased mortgage servicing rights and purchased credit card relationships are recognized for purposes of calculating Tier 1 capital. However, all other intangible assets are deducted in determining the amount of Tier 1 capital. The aggregate amount of purchased mortgage servicing rights and purchased credit card relationships that could be recognized for regulatory capital purposes is limited to no more than 50 percent of core capital. In addition, the amount of purchased credit card relationships is subject to a sublimit of no more than 25 percent of Tier 1 capital. Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 16 USC 792 to 823b

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is proposing to revise the billing procedures for assessing annual charges for administering Part I of the Federal Power Act, 16 USC 792-823b. Under the revised procedures, the assessment of annual charges would be based on an estimate of the costs that will be incurred by the Commission during the fiscal year in which the annual charges are assessed. After the end of the fiscal year, the assessment would be recalculated based on the costs that were actually incurred during that fiscal year; the actual costs would be compared to the estimated costs; and the difference between the actual and estimated costs would be carried over as an adjustment to the assessment for the subsequent fiscal year. The allocation of costs among the licensees would continue to be based on the data supplied by the licensees with respect to the preceding fiscal year.

The Commission is also proposing to adopt a comparable procedure of current-year billing of the annual charges for the use of tribal land on Indian reservations. (Docket No. RM93-5-000.)

AGENCY: Federal Maritime Commission

ACTION: Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 5 of E.O. 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Commission anticipates having under consideration, during the period from April 1, 1993, to March 31, 1994, actions in the areas listed below.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning Commission rulemaking proceedings or the status of any matter listed below, contact: Joseph C. Polking, Secretary, 800 North Capitol Street NW., Washington, DC 20573, (202) 523-5725.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires the publication of an agenda of items for which regulatory agencies may propose or promulgate a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Section 5 of Executive Order 12291 also requires executive agencies to publish a regulatory agenda; the Commission voluntarily complies with this section. The agendas include information on regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed during the succeeding 12 months by the Commission.

The following is the Commission's unified regulatory agenda. The agenda does not necessarily include all petitions for rulemakings which are under staff review.

In addition, the Commission maintains a compilation of the status of pending rulemaking proceedings and a listing of rules that have become final since the publication of the most recent regulatory agenda. This will be made available to the public, including the press and interested persons.

Joseph C. Polking,

Secretary.

4635. • REGULATION: A - EXTENSIONS OF CREDIT BY FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

Legal Authority: 12 USC 347; 12 USC 248

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 201

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, December 19, 1993.

Abstract: Section 142 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (Federal Reserve Discount Window Advances) modifies the Federal Reserve Act by placing limitations on Federal Reserve Bank liquidity lending to undercapitalized and critically undercapitalized depository institutions. Within the next four months, the Board will consider issuing for public comment revisions to Regulation A to reflect these changes. The regulations will apply to extensions of credit to all depository institutions (both large and small). The regulation will limit credit to undercapitalized and critically undercapitalized depository institutions, including small depository institutions.

4636. REGULATION: E - ELECTRONIC FUND TRANSFERS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1693 et seq Electronic Fund Transfer Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 205

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Board is conducting a review of Regulation E, which implements the Electronic Fund Transfer Act, and establishes the basic rights, liabilities, and responsibilities of consumers who use electronic fund transfer services and of financial institutions that offer these services (whether or not these institutions hold the consumer's account). The review will consider whether any provisions of the regulation are in need of updating, and whether any substantive changes are necessary because of technological and other developments. The Board will also consider whether to make any legislative recommendations for statutory changes. The Board's consideration of whether to propose special rules to govern the electronic delivery of government benefits is addressed in a separate entry on Regulation E.

Public comment will be requested on any regulatory proposals that may be developed following the review. It is not anticipated that the revisions would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banks.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 208; 12 USC 225

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 1831m

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 3, 1993.

Abstract: During 1992, the Board's staff consulted with the other Federal banking agencies regarding the implementation of section 112, the bank auditing requirements, of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991. The section includes requirements for insured commercial banks to receive audits of their annual reports by independent public accountants, requirements for banks and their auditors to report certain information to the Board, and requirements for independent audit committees for banks. In some cases, these requirements can be satisfied by comparable arrangements at the bank holding company level. The Act generally exempts insured depository institutions from these requirements when their total assets are less than $150 million.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) has primary responsibility for implementing this mandate through regulations, and it issued a draft regulation for comment last year. The FDIC is expected to finalize its regulation by March 31, 1993, which will apply to all FDIC-insured banks and thrifts.

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, December 19, 1992.

Abstract: During 1992, the Board's staff consulted with the other Federal banking agencies regarding the implementation of section 121, the bank accounting requirements, of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991. These requirements include the implementation of disclosures of the fair market value of assets, liabilities, and certain projects, which may result in the revision of reporting requirements for banks and bank holding companies. The accounting provisions of the Act do not include exemptions for small institutions. Thus, any changes to regulations and reporting requirements would likely affect smaller state member banks.

The Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council is expected to consider requesting public comment on any proposed reporting requirements within the next four months. During the next four months, the Board is expected to consider requesting comment on certain changes to its regulations in order to implement section 121.

Abstract: The Board is conducting a review of Regulation T, which regulates extensions of credit by and to brokers and dealers. The review will consider whether any provisions of the regulation are in need of updating and whether any substantive changes are necessary because of developments in the securities markets, including the development of new products and services and the expansion of global markets. In August 1992, the Board approved a general request for comments to aid in its review (57 FR 37109, August 18, 1992). Abstract: Sections 233 and 234 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 require the Board and other regulatory agencies to become involved in an effort to get banks to participate in certain types of lending activities in designated distressed communities. Banks that do the appropriate type of lending in the appropriate "distressed communities" will receive assessment credits for their FDIC insurance premiums. The law requires the Board to receive notice of the banks' intent to involve themselves in these activities, to assist the banks to define and locate the appropriate communities, and to define certain terms by regulation. To accomplish the mandates of the statute, it may be necessary to amend Regulation Y for purposes of receiving notice of the banks' and holding companies' intent to form the types of entities discussed in the law and to do the type of lending intended by the law. It may also be necessary to amend the regulation to Abstract: Within the next three months, the Board, in consultation with the Secretary of the Treasury, will consider action to implement a portion of section 202(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA) with respect to the criteria to be used in evaluating the operations of foreign banks that the Board has determined are not subject to comprehensive supervision or regulation on a consolidated basis. It is undetermined what economic impact this proposal would have on small institutions.

The Board recently implemented another portion of section 202(a) of FDICIA by issuing for public comment a proposed amendment to the Board's Regulation K with respect to the limitation on the Powers of State branches and agencies of foreign banks (see RIN 7100-AB46. Abstract: Section 401 et seq of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA) contains provisions to validate netting contracts between and among financial institutions for the purpose of improving efficiency and reducing systemic risk in the banking system and financial markets. The FDICIA defines "financial institution" to include securities brokers or dealers, depository institutions, futures commission merchants, and any other institution as determined by the Board, such as broker-dealer affiliates that engage in netting.

The Board will likely seek public comment within the next two months on the criteria under which an expansion of the "financial institution" definition should be made. Small entities will be affected only to the extent that they engage in netting activities in the financial markets and would benefit by being considered financial institutions for purposes of the FDICIA netting provisions.

Abstract: Section 232 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 requires the Board with the FDIC to establish minimum requirements for "lifeline" transaction accounts. An insured depository institution that chooses to offer accounts that meet these requirements will be assessed deposit insurance premiums on those deposits at a rate of 1/2 the maximum assessment rate. The Act sets forth factors that the Board and the FDIC must consider in setting the account requirements, such as whether the amount of the fee, if any, that is charged for routine transactions does not exceed a minimal level.

It is expected that the Board will seek public comment within the next six months on a proposal to implement section 232. It is not anticipated that implementation of the law, due to its voluntary character, will have a significant impact on a substantial number of small institutions.

Legal Authority: PL 102-242

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 208; 12 CFR 225

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, June 19, 1993.

Abstract: Section 305 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 requires each of the Federal banking agencies to revise its risk-based capital standards for the depository institutions it regulates in order to ensure that those standards take adequate account of interest rate risk, concentration of credit risk, and the risks of nontraditional activities. In June 1992, the Board approved an advance notice of proposed rulemaking that seeks comment on a proposed system for incorporating interest rate risk into risk-based capital standards, and seeks suggestions for developing means of incorporating concentration of credit risk and the risks of nontraditional activities (57 FR 35507, August 10, 1992). The proposed system for measuring interest rate risk would attempt to measure interest rate risk at each institution, and would assess a capital charge against institutions with risk that is greater than a threshold level set by the agency. The proposal, if adopted, would require every state member bank, regardless of size, to provide additional information sufficient to allow the Board to measure accurately its interest rate (cont)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR ch II

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 1, 1993.

Abstract: Section 132 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 requires each of the Federal banking agencies to prescribe by regulation certain safety and soundness standards for the insured depository institutions and depository institution holding companies for which it is the primary regulator. Standards must be prescribed in three principal areas: (1) operational and managerial; (2) asset quality, earnings, and stock valuation; and (3) employee compensation. If an insured depository institution does not meet one of those standards, the institution is required to establish a plan to achieve compliance with the standard that is acceptable to the primary regulator of the institution. In July 1992, the Board requested public comment on an interagency advance notice of proposed rulemaking (57 FR 31336, July 15, 1992). Subsequently, the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992 amended in three ways the requirement of section 132 that the agencies prohibit and define excessive compensation: (1) by prohibiting the agencies from establishing a level or range of compensation in defining what is excessive; (2) by providing that an institution that pays excessive (cont)

It is undetermined what economic impact these proposals would have on small institutions. Abstract: Section 223 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 amended the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (ECOA) to require that upon written request a creditor must provide a credit applicant with a copy of the appraisal report used in connection with an application for a loan secured by a lien on residential real property. In addition, the enforcement provisions of the ECOA are amended to require the Federal financial supervisory agencies responsible for enforcing the ECOA to refer certain matters involving credit discrimination to the Department of Justice or the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

In December 1992, the Board issued for public comment proposed revisions to Regulation B that would implement the ECOA amendments (57 FR 57697, December 7, 1992). In February 1993, the Board issued for public comment a proposal that would apply Regulation E to electronic benefit transfer (EBT) programs established by Federal, State, and local agencies to automate the delivery of government benefits to recipients (58 8714, February 17, 1993). EBT programs involve such benefits as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, food stamps, and Supplemental Security Income. Abstract: In January 1993, an interagency task force of the Federal financial institutions regulatory agencies designed a uniform interagency criminal referral form to facilitate compliance with financial institutions' criminal activity reporting requirements, to enhance law enforcement agencies' ability to investigate and prosecute the matters reported in the criminal referrals, and to develop and maintain a new interagency database. This uniform criminal referral form will replace the various criminal referral forms that are currently being used by financial institutions. The purpose of the proposed rule, which has been issued for public comment, is to create a uniform, criminal referral reporting requirement for all domestic and foreign financial institutions operating in the United States (58 FR 3235, January 8, 1993). The proposed regulation would codify existing Board policy and procedures and would not impose any additional regulatory burden. Abstract: In November 1990, the Board issued for public comment a proposed amendment to its real estate appraisal rule that would lower the dollar amount of transactions below which a certified or licensed appraiser would not be required (55 FR 49057, November 26, 1990). Currently, this amount is $100,000; the Board sought comment on a proposal to lower it to $50,000. At that time, the proposal would have conformed the Board's real estate appraisal rule to those of the other Federal financial institutions regulatory agencies. Since then, however, the other federal banking agencies have amended their rules to conform to the Board's $100,000 threshold level.

It is anticipated that the Board will take final action on this rule by April 1993. If the Board maintains the threshold level at $100,000, the impact on small businesses would remain unchanged as a result of final action on this rule. If the Board were to adopt a $50,000 threshold level, the change is expected to increase the costs of federally related transactions having a transaction value between $50,000 and $100,000. These costs will either have to be absorbed by the regulated institutions (cont)

Abstract: In December 1990, the Board, along with the other Federal financial institutions regulatory agencies, issued an interim common rule and request for public comment regarding those applicable provisions of the Uniform Standards of Professional Appraisal Practice (USPAP) that are required to be incorporated into each agency's real estate appraisal rules (55 FR 53609, December 31, 1990). The provisions were published as an interim rule because the agencies' existing appraisal regulations already require compliance with the USPAP, as mandated by Title XI of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989.

This change would place these assets in the 50 percent risk category under the Board's risk-based capital guidelines. It also would serve to implement section 618(a) of the RTC Refunding Act of 1991, which requires the Federal banking agencies to lower the risk weight on certain presold residential construction loans to 50 percent.

Abstract: In April 1992, the Board issued for public comment proposed modifications to its risk-based capital guidelines (57 FR 14362, April 20, 1992). The first proposed modification will implement section 618(b) of the RTC Refunding Act of 1991 requiring the Federal banking agencies to lower the risk weight for multifamily housing loans from 100 percent to 50 percent. The second proposed modification will lower the risk weight for certain collateralized transactions from 20 percent to 0 percent in order to better reflect the risk of such transactions. The latter proposal would place U.S. banking organizations on a more equal footing with foreign banks subject to the Basle Accord with regard to capital requirements for certain low-risk collateralized transactions.

Abstract: In February 1993, the Board issued for public comment a proposed limitation on deferred tax assets for risk-based and leverage capital purposes (58 FR 8007, February 11, 1993). This proposal is in response to the adoption, by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, of Statement No. 109 (FASB 109) which provides new accounting guidance on deferred tax assets. This proposal will affect the treatment of these assets for capital purposes for all State member banks and bank holding companies regardless of size. However, it is not expected that the proposal will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banking organizations, as the vast majority of small banking organizations currently have very limited amounts of net deferred tax assets as a component of their capital structures. Abstract: In January 1993, the Board issued for public comment proposed amendments to Regulation K implementing section 202(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA) with respect to the limitation on the powers of State branches and agencies of foreign banks (58 FR 513, January 6, 1993). Abstract: In December 1992, the Board issued for public comment a proposal to exempt three categories of collateralized loans from the aggregate insider lending limit under Regulation O and section 22(h) of the Federal Reserve Act (57 FR 61016, December 23, 1992). The exemptions are based on minimal risk of loss to the lending institution. The Board requested comments on these and other similar categories that might be exempted. The purpose of the exemptions is to make the aggregate insider lending limit more consistent with the single borrower lending limit, which contains the proposed exemptions and additional exemptions as well. The exemptions will apply to all member banks, regardless of size. However, for small banks, which may engage in substantial lending to directors, the exemptions may ease lending restraints more frequently. frequently.

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: Garn-St Germain Act and certain recent court decisions (53 FR 48915, December 5, 1988). The Board also held an informal public hearing on this matter on April 7, 1989. The Board has not proposed revising its current rule regarding subsidiaries of national banks in a holding company. A determination to reverse the Board's State bank rule could have an adverse impact on small banks that are subsidiaries of holding companies because they might be required to restructure their nonbanking activities or to take other action.

The issue of the validity of the Board's State bank rule was recently raised in litigation involving the permissibility of insurance activities of a nonbank subsidiary of Citicorp's Delaware bank. In that case, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit found that the Bank Holding Company Act does not apply to nonbank companies owned by holding company banks. The U.S. Supreme Court subsequently declined to review an appeal on this matter.

The Board has not determined what further action is appropriate.

Abstract: In February 1990, the Board approved issuing for public comment a proposed regulation, which implements section 914 of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989, requiring banks and bank holding companies to provide notice to the Federal Reserve System 30 days before adding any individual to the institution's board of directors or employing any individual as a senior executive officer under certain circumstances (55 FR 6787, February 27, 1990). Notice would be required if the institution is failing to meet minimum capital standards or is otherwise in a troubled condition, has undergone a change in control within the past two years, or has received a bank charter within the past two years. The regulation defines "senior executive officer," "troubled condition," and "change in control."

The proposal is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small business entities. State member banks and bank holding companies will be affected if they meet one of the criteria that triggers the notice requirements. Following review of public comments, the Board is expected (cont)

Abstract: In October 1992, the Board requested comment on a proposal to change the opening time for the Fedwire funds transfer service from 8:30 a.m. Eastern Time (ET) to 6:30 a.m. ET (57 FR 47080, October 14, 1992). The earlier opening time would facilitate changes to the settlement practices of the futures and options markets that would reduce risk in those markets, and it would also permit a reduction in the risk associated with the settlement of foreign exchange transactions.

The Board also requested comment on whether the Fedwire securities transfer service should open concurrently with the funds service at 6:30 a.m. ET and on the costs and benefits of extended Fedwire hours for depository institutions, their customers, and the financial markets.

Small entities should not be affected by this proposal, because they would be unlikely to choose to open their Fedwire operations earlier in the morning and would not incur increased costs. Following review of public comments, the Board is expected to take further action by mid-1993.

Abstract: In June 1989, the Board requested comment on several proposals that would modify its payments system risk reduction program including pricing and measurement of daylight overdrafts (R-0668). In January 1991, the Board issued a revised proposal on measuring daylight overdrafts (see Docket Number: R-0721). Following review of the public comments, the Board has adopted its pricing proposal, with minor variations, as well as an overdraft measurement procedure (57 FR 47084, October 14, 1992). In addition, in March 1989, the Board requested comment on changes in the way the Federal Reserve Banks treat automated clearing house transactions (ACH) (Docket Number: R-0661, 54 FR 8822, March 2, 1989). The Board is expected to take further action regarding ACH debit transactions and to seek public comment on a new ACH credit transaction proposal within the next four months.

It is not expected that these actions will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because small entities do not usually incur large daylight overdrafts, and many small entities are exempt from filing for an (cont)

Abstract: In May 1990, as part of its payments system risk reduction program, the Board requested comment on a proposed risk reduction policy that would prohibit bankers' banks and Edge corporations from incurring funds or book-entry overdrafts on Fedwire (55 FR 22086, May 31, 1990). The Board proposed that Reserve Banks assess a penalty fee when these or other institutions with imposed zero caps incur inadvertent daylight or overnight overdrafts on Fedwire.

It is not expected that these proposals would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because they do not usually participate in large-dollar wire transfer systems. Furthermore, this proposal is limited to a small subset of Fedwire participants.

Following review of the public comments, the Board is expected to take further action by mid-year.

Abstract: Section 224 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 changes the exemption provisions in section 309 of the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act. Section 224 eliminates the current exemption for nondepository mortgage lenders with assets of $10 million or less; and directs the Board, in consultation with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, to instead exempt nondepository mortgage lenders that are "comparable within their respective industries" to depository institutions that are exempt. In July 1992, the Board approved issuing for public comment proposed revisions to Regulation C to implement section 224. The Board proposed to amend Regulation C to cover any nondepository mortgage lender that originated 100 or more home purchase loans in the preceding calendar year, even if the lender's assets were $10 million or less.

In December 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted a final rule in substantially the form proposed, except that refinancing of home purchase loans is also included in calculating the 100-loan test (cont)

Abstract: In September 1992, as part of its program to reduce regulatory burden, the Board amended Regulation D to eliminate the requirement for member banks to obtain prior approval before issuing subordinated debt that is considered to be Tier 2 capital rather than a deposit (57 FR 40597, September 4, 1992). At the same time, in order to ensure that state member banks and bank holding companies fully understand the requirements that would permit subordinated debt and mandatory convertible debt to be considered Tier 2 capital, the Board issued an interpretation of its risk-based capital guidelines in Regulations H and Y. The revisions are not expected to have a significant economic impact on small entities.

Abstract: Section 308 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, which adds a new section 23 to the Federal Reserve Act, requires the Board to develop standards to limit the exposure of FDIC-insured depository institutions to other depository institutions. In July 1992, the Board issued for public comment a proposed rule that would have required insured depository institutions to develop and implement internal procedures to evaluate and control exposure to the depository institutions with which they do business. The proposed rule also would have established limits for daily overnight credit exposure to individual depository institutions, with different levels of exposure permitted based on the capital levels of the institutions to which the bank is exposed.

In December 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted a final rule that requires insured depository institutions to develop internal policies and procedures concerning exposure to other depository institutions (57 FR 60086, December 18, 1992). Abstract: Section 131 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 requires each Federal banking agency to take prompt regulatory action to address problems at the banks it regulates. Pursuant to statutory requirement, the Board, in July 1992, issued a notice of proposed rulemaking regarding application of prompt corrective action to State member banks. The proposed regulation adopts definitions of the capital measures and capital thresholds that trigger supervisory responses; establishes a schedule for filing and review of capital restoration plans required to be filed by undercapitalized institutions; and establishes procedures for administrative review of discretionary agency actions taken pursuant to prompt corrective action. In September 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted the proposal in substantially the form proposed. The other banking agencies adopted identical rules for the institutions that they regulate. This rule will apply to banks of all sizes, including small banks that have capital levels below the Board's minimum capital (cont)

Abstract: Section 304 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA) contains an amendment to the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and a conforming amendment to the Federal Reserve Act requiring the Federal banking agencies to adopt uniform regulations prescribing standards for real estate lending. The FDICIA defines real estate lending as extensions of credit secured by liens on interests in real estate or made for the purpose of financing the construction of a building or other improvements to real estate. The agencies may differentiate among types of loans as may be required by Federal statute, or as may be warranted by risk to the deposit insurance fund, or by safety and soundness considerations. In July 1992, the Board and other banking agencies issued a joint notice of proposed rulemaking. In December 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board and other agencies decided against adopting specific loan-to-value ratios or ranges in the final regulation. Instead, the agencies adopted a final rule that prescribes a number of standards with regard to real estate lending (57 FR 62889, December 31, 1992). (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: In order to supplement and clarify the standards stated in the final rule, the agencies adopted Interagency Guidelines for Real Estate Lending Policies. The Guidelines describe the criteria and specific factors that the agencies expect insured institutions to consider in establishing their real estate lending policies, including guidance on loan-to-value limits for various categories of real estate loans.

With respect to the impact on small institutions, the agencies concluded that the final rule will not have a disparate impact on smaller depository institutions, in part because such lenders are likely to make fewer loans, or a narrower range of loans, than larger institutions.

Abstract: In January 1992, the Board approved issuing for public comment proposed revisions to Regulation H, Appendix A and Regulation Y, Appendix A that will provide guidance on the regulatory capital treatment of identifiable intangible assets for State member banks and bank holding companies (57 FR 6563, February 26, 1992). The proposal, developed in coordination with the FDIC, OCC, and OTS, would implement section 475 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, which requires each Federal banking agency to determine the capital treatment of purchased mortgage servicing rights. The proposed revisions also are aimed at achieving uniformity in the treatment of identifiable intangible assets among the Federal banking agencies.

In December 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted the revisions in substantially the form proposed (58 FR 7973, February 11, 1993). It is not anticipated that the proposed revisions will have a significant impact on a substantial number of small institutions, the vast majority of which have few identifiable intangible assets.

Abstract: In January 1991, the Board requested comment on a proposed amendment to Regulation J to require paying banks that receive presentment of checks from a Federal Reserve Bank to make the proceeds of settlement for those checks available to the Reserve Bank by as early as one hour after receipt of the checks. Following review of the public comments, the Board adopted the amendment substantially as proposed (57 FR 46950, October 14, 1992). This amendment is necessary to implement the proposed daylight overdraft measurement procedure under the Board's payments system risk reduction program. (See Docket Number: R-0721.)

It is not expected that this action will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because small entities do not usually incur large daylight overdrafts, and many small entities are exempt from filing for an overdraft cap and will be exempt from pricing under the Board's pricing program.

Abstract: The Board's Rules require an applicant to publish public notice for a broad variety of applications, almost all of which are also subject to the Community Reinvestment Act. With few exceptions, notice is statutorily required to be published for these applications. Notice is generally given by publishing in a newspaper of general circulation in the affected community or communities on the

The proposed rule would effectively halve the cost of publishing notice of an application. In addition to the remaining notice of publication in the newspaper, the public would continue to be made aware of pending applications through various other sources including public announcement by the applicant, published notice in the Federal Register, and weekly publications by both the Board and each Reserve Bank which list, at a minimum, the applications received and acted upon involving banking organizations in the respective jurisdictions. Abstract: In February 1991, the Board published for comment a proposed amendment to Regulation CC to require paying banks to provide same-day settlement for checks presented by 8:00 a.m. local time at specified locations. The Board proposed to eliminate presentment fees for these checks and thereby facilitate their collection, consistent with the provisions of the Expedited Funds Availability Act Following consideration of the public comments, the Board adopted a modified version of its proposal (57 FR 46956, October 14, 1992).

As a secondary effect of the amendment, small banks may experience increased check collection fees, over the long run, as volume shifts from the Federal Reserve to the private sector. However, because the primary purpose of the amendment is to increase the efficiency of the check collection process, to exclude small banks from the requirement of making same-day settlement would be counter to the chief objective of the amendment.

Abstract: Sections 261-275 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (Truth in Savings Act) require depository institutions to provide a schedule of terms, rates and fees for deposit accounts offered by the institution. The law also sets forth rules for advertisements for deposit accounts. In April 1992, the Board published for comment a proposal to implement the law. In September 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted the regulations substantially as proposed, with certain technical modifications (57 FR 43337, September 21, 1992).

The regulations apply to all depository institutions (both large and small). 4675. PROPOSAL TO MODIFY THE PAYMENTS SYSTEM RISK REDUCTION PROGRAM (DOCKET NUMBER: R-0721)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 21 et seq

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In January 1991, the Board requested comment on a proposed method for posting debits and credits to depository institutions' accounts at Federal Reserve Banks in order to measure daylight overdrafts accurately under the Board's payments system risk reduction program. Accurate measurement of daylight overdrafts will be necessary in order to assess fees for daylight overdrafts. The overdraft measurement proposal was a revision of the proposal issued for comment in June 1989 (54 FR 26090, June 21, 1989). Following review of public comments, the Board adopted a variation of its 1991 measurement proposal (57 FR 47093, October 14, 1992).

It is not expected that this action will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because small entities do not usually incur large daylight overdrafts, and many small entities are exempt from filing for an overdraft cap and will be exempt from pricing under the Board's pricing program.

Abstract: In September 1992, following review of the public comments, the Board adopted a rule to exempt from section 23A of the Federal Reserve Act the transfer of assets and liabilities between affiliated insured depository institutions when the transfer is part of a merger, consolidation or purchase of all or substantially all of the assets of an affiliated insured depository institution (57 FR 41643, September 11, 1992). The proposed exemption would be available only for transactions that are approved by the resulting insured depository institution's primary regulator under the Bank Merger Act The final rule did not require that only one of the insured institutions continue to operate as was proposed in the initial rulemaking.

The proposal is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small business entities. The exemption is available by regulation to affiliated insured depository institutions, and transactions that meet the proposed criteria do not require additional Board review.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

16 CFR Ch. I

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The following agenda of Commission proceedings is published in accordance with section 22(d)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. 57b-3(d)(1), and section 610(c) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 610(c). Each projected date reflects an assessment by the FTC staff of the likelihood that the specified event will occur during the coming year. No Commission determination on the need for or the substance of a trade regulation rule or any other procedural option should be inferred from the notation of projected events in this agenda.

Several agenda items concern rulemaking proceedings that may affect a substantial number of small businesses as that term is used in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Whether any such proceeding is likely to have a significant economic impact on such entities will depend upon the Commission's final determinations respecting the need for and the substance of a trade regulation rule.

Except for notice of completed actions, the information in this agenda represents the judgment of Commission staff based upon information now available. These views should not be regarded as a final staff position nor should they be attributed to the Commission itself. The Commission will independently address the issues presented on the rulemaking record in each proceeding.

Agenda items include the projected timing of certain future actions. In most instances, the dates of future events are listed by month, not by a specific day. Acquisition of new information, change of circumstances, or changes in the law may alter the information set forth in this agenda.

In addition to these agenda items, the Commission has determined to conduct a systematic review of all current FTC regulations and guides on a recurring 10-year cycle. This review will be modeled on the review conducted under the Regulatory Flexibility Act Review process and will be a permanent feature of the Commission's regulatory oversight process.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Further details may be obtained from the agency contact person listed for each particular proceeding.

By direction of the Commission.

Donald S. Clark,

Secretary.

4677. AMENDED FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE ACT

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1811 et seq, Federal Deposit Insurance Act

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On December 19, 1991, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991, Pub. L. No. 102-242, 105 Stat. 2236, 12 USC 1811, was signed into law. This law assigns to the FTC new responsibilities for certain non-federally insured depository institutions (DIs) and private deposit insurers of such DIs. The law imposes certain disclosure requirements on DIs, requires private deposit insurers to obtain annual audits from independent auditors using generally accepted accounting techniques, and requires private deposit insurers to file copies of the annual audit reports with each DI they insure and with each state in which such DIs receive deposits. DIs must also provide copies of their insurer's audit reports to current or prospective customers upon request. The FTC is required to prescribe, by regulation or order, the manner and content of three affirmative disclosures required of DIs that lack Federal deposit insurance. Such DIs must: (1) include in all periodic account statements and certain other documents a notice that the institution is not federally insured and that the Federal government does not guarantee that depositors "will get back their money" if the institution (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: fails; (2) include such a notice that the DI is not federally insured in all advertising and at each place where deposits are normally received; and (3) receive deposits only for persons who have signed a written acknowledgment that the institution is not federally insured and that the Federal government does not guarantee that such persons "will get back their money" if the institution fails. However, on October 6, 1992, the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, The Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1993, Pub. L. No. 102-393, 106 Stat. 1828, was signed into law. This law, which contains the Commission's appropriation for fiscal year 1993, provides that none of the funds made available to the Commission shall be available for expenses authorized by Section 151 of the FDICIA, unless legislation amending Section 151 of FDICIA is enacted into law during fiscal year 1993 and only upon notification to the Appropriations Committees. As a result, at present, implementation and enforcement of FDICIA by the Commission are on hold. Section 151 of FDICIA nonetheless continues to be in effect with respect to all affected entities.

4678. ● REGULATORY REVIEW

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 41 et seq

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission is conducting a ten-year review of current rules and guides to identify any that should be modified or rescinded. At the beginning of each year, the Commission will publish a notice in the Federal Register listing the specific rules and guides to be reviewed during that year. See 58 FR 11554 (February 26, 1993). During the year, the Commission will publish separate notices in the Federal Register for each such rule or guide, soliciting comments about its costs and benefits and regulatory and economic impact. Where rulemaking timetables have been established for such items, they are included in this Agenda. However, no determination about whether to modify or rescind a rule, regulation, guide or interpretation or any other procedural option should be inferred from the Commission's decision to publish a request for comments. In certain instances, the reviews will also address other specific matters or issues, such as reviews mandated by the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45; 15 USC 46(g); 15 USC 57(a)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 453

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Funeral Industry Practices Rule, which became fully effective on April 30, 1984, seeks to increase consumer access to accurate information about prices and legal requirements prior to and at the time of purchase of funeral goods and services. The rule: (1) requires funeral directors to provide consumers with written itemized pre-sale disclosures; (2) prohibits misrepresentation of legal and cemetery requirements and the preservative or protective value of embalming, caskets, and vaults; (3) prohibits funeral directors from requiring a casket for cremations, or any other tie-in arrangements; (4) prohibits funeral directors from charging for goods and services not specifically ordered, such as embalming, unless required by law; and (5) requires funeral directors to give, on request, price information over the telephone. The Rule provides that no later than four years after its effective date, the Commission will begin a rulemaking proceeding to determine whether the Rule should be amended or terminated. (cont)

The staff's recommendations and presiding officer's report were published, and public comments on those reports were submitted. The staff submitted its final recommendation to the Commission, which heard oral presentations by interested parties. On January 28, 1993, the Commission tentatively approved the amended Rule. The Commission's action was made tentative to accommodate the staff's need to draft a Statement of Basis and Purpose for publication with the final rule. Once the Commission makes its final decision on the proposed amendments and approves the Statement of Basis and Purpose, they will be published in the Federal Register. The amendments will become effective six months after the date of publication.

4680. MAIL ORDER MERCHANDISE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 435

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission's Mail Order Merchandise Rule requires mail order sellers to possess a reasonable basis for any claims made concerning shipping dates and, in the absence of any specifically stated date, to ship the ordered merchandise within thirty (30) days of receipt of an order. In the event of delays in shipment, the rule establishes notification procedures whereby buyers have the option either to agree to the delay or to cancel the order and receive a prompt refund. On October 11, 1989, the Commission commenced a rulemaking to amend the rule to cover orders placed by telephone, and to change the rule's definition of "properly completed order" for credit sales to the time the seller receives sufficient information to charge the buyer's account. The Notice of Proposed Rulemaking was published on November 28, 1989. The deadline for filing written comments was January 29, 1990. Public hearings were held on March 28, 1990, and April 19, 1990. The record closed on September 10, 1991. Both reports recommended that the Commission amend the rule to cover telephone order merchandise and change the definition of "properly completed order" as proposed. On November 18, 1992, and March 1, 1993, the Commission determined to tentatively amend the Mail Order Rule to cover telephone-order merchandise; to define the term "telephone" to include any direct or indirect use of the telephone to order merchandise; to amend the definition of "receipt of a properly completed order" for credit sales to refer to the time sufficient information is received to charge the buyer's account; to increase the shipment or notice deadline for orders accompanied by applications for first-time credit from 30 to 50 days; to delete the rebuttable presumptions from section 435.1(b)(3); and to direct the staff to prepare within 120 days a draft Statement of Basis and Purposes.

4681. REVIEW OF THE PREMERGER NOTIFICATION RULES AND REPORT FORM

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 18a Clayton Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 801 to 803

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Premerger Notification Rules and the Antitrust Improvements Act Notification and Report Form were adopted pursuant to Section 7A of the Clayton Act. Section 7A requires firms of a certain size contemplating mergers or acquisitions of a specified size to file notification with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Department of Justice (DOJ) and to wait a designated period before consummating the transaction. It also requires the FTC, with the concurrence of the Assistant Attorney General for Antitrust, to promulgate rules requiring that notification be in a form and contain information necessary to enable the FTC and DOJ to determine whether the proposed acquisition may, if consummated, violate the antitrust laws. These rules are continually reviewed in order to improve the program's effectiveness and reduce the paperwork burden on the business community. The Commission plans to propose modifications to the Premerger Notification and Report form during the next fiscal year. In September 1985, The Commission proposed to amend the Rule's treatment of acquisition (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 419

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission's trade regulation rule concerning games of chance became effective on October 17, 1969. The rule establishes requirements for food and gasoline retailers in conducting and advertising games of chance by requiring disclosure of odds-of-winning and prize information in broadcast and print advertisements, as well as in point of sale information. In January, 1983, the Commission granted a temporary partial exemption to allow supermarkets and gas stations to advertise their games on radio and television without disclosing full information on prizes and odds-of-winning. In addition, the Commission also published an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on whether to make the broadcast exemption permanent. Finally, the Commission has proposed to reduce the recordkeeping requirements of the rule from three years to one year in keeping with the goals of the Paperwork Reduction Act, and requested public comment on other possible areas where amendments to the rule may be appropriate. The rule benefits consumers by allowing contestants to enter games of chance with full knowledge of all material information to enable equal competition for (cont)

Legal Authority: Sec 324 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act; PL 94-163 (1975)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 305

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The purpose of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act is to enable consumers to conserve energy by comparing the energy use of competing appliances and use that information in purchasing decisions. To achieve this goal, the statute requires the Commission to issue a labeling rule prescribing the disclosure of the estimated annual cost of operation (or another measure of energy use) for at least 13 categories of major household appliances. The statute also requires that the disclosures be based on standardized test procedures prescribed by the Department of Energy (DOE). In 1979, the Commission promulgated the Appliance Labeling Rule, which was amended in 1987 and 1990. The rule covers eight appliance categories: (1) refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers and freezers; (2) dishwashers; (3) clothes washers; (4) water heaters; (5) room air conditioners; (6) furnaces; (7) central air conditioners and heat pumps; and (8) fluorescent lamp ballasts. Five other product categories were exempted. The rule requires that specific energy costs or efficiency information for covered products be disclosed in catalogues and at the point of sale in the form of a (cont)

The Rule also mandates that energy-use-related advertisements be based on the DOE test procedures. The Commission is considering proposed amendments to the rule to make the rule's energy use disclosure scheme more efficient for consumers and businesses. A proposal to label a new category (pool heaters) and two new types of water heaters has been published for comment. The Energy Policy Act of 1992 requires the Commission to amend the rule to address certain plumbing products (shower heads, faucets, water closets and urinals) by October 24, 1993, and to address certain incandescent and fluorescent lamp products by April 24, 1994.

4684. FRANCHISE RULE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq.; Federal Trade Commission

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 436

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On December 21, 1978, the Commission issued a trade regulation rule applicable to franchises and other business opportunity ventures. The Franchise Rule took effect on October 21, 1979. The rule requires franchisors to give pre-sale disclosures to prospective investors before they pay money or become legally bound to pay. The disclosures provide material information and are designed to assure that potential investors have the information they need to investigate the franchise offer so they can make an informed investment decision. The Commission is considering whether to amend its trade regulation rule concerning franchises and business opportunity ventures. In particular, the Commission is considering whether to amend the rule's earnings claim and preemption provisions. On February 5, 1991, the Commission deferred this decision and continues to seek academic and other studies of the impact of streamlined earnings claim disclosure requirements and any inconsistencies in State franchise laws. The record was held open until August 6, 1992 for receipt of this evidence and related comments.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: Petroleum Marketing Practices Act, PL 95-297

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 306

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 203(c)(1) of the Petroleum Marketing Practices Act requires the Commission to prescribe, by rule, a uniform method by which the octane rating of automotive gasoline can be certified from the refiner through the chain of distribution, and a uniform method of displaying its octane rating at the point of retail sale. In 1979, the Commission issued the Octane Certification and Posting Rule, which fulfills these requirements. The Rule is intended to enable consumers to buy gasoline with an octane rating that is high enough to prevent inefficient and harmful "engine knock" and to help consumers to avoid buying a gasoline with an octane rating that is needlessly higher than the requirements of their automobiles. The Rule establishes standard procedures for determining, certifying and posting (by means of a label on the fuel dispenser) the octane rating of automotive gasoline intended for sale to consumers. The certification requirement may be satisfied by documents already in use in the industry (shipping receipts, delivery tickets, etc.), on which the octane rating was already being noted, or can be accomplished with a one-time letter of certification. CFR Citation: 16 CFR 500; 16 CFR 501; 16 CFR 502; 16 CFR 503

Abstract: The Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (FPLA) requires consumer commodities to be marked with statements of (1) identity, (2) net quantity of contents, and (3) name and place of the business of manufacturer, packer, or distributor. These requirements serve FPLA's stated purpose of "enabling consumers to obtain accurate information as to the quantity of the contents and ... [to] facilitate value comparisons." The FTC is responsible for FPLA enforcement regarding all consumer commodities other than foods, drugs, and cosmetics, and pursuant to Section 6(b) of FPLA, the Commission has promulgated the existing implementing regulations found in 16 CFR Parts 500, 501, 502, and 503. In 1992 FPLA was amended to require the statement of net quantity of contents to be expressed in terms of both customary inch-pound units and SI metric units; these amendments become effective on 02/14/94. Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 4401

Abstract: The Comprehensive Smokeless Tobacco Act of 1986 requires health warnings on all packages and advertising for smokeless tobacco. The initial regulations allowed the warning on promotional materials to be rotated on the basis of the date the materials were disseminated, or the date of order or manufacture. In 1991, the Commission amended its regulations to delete the exemption for utilitarian items, and decided to require that the warnings on utilitarian items be rotated according to the date of dissemination, rather than the date of order or manufacture. At the same time, the Commission determined to modify the rotation method for promotional materials to require that the warnings rotate according to dissemination date. On January 15, 1993, the FTC concluded that inadequate public comment was received on the amended rotational plan for promotional items. Thus, the Commission deleted the amended requirements for promotional items, and offered the identical rotational plan for a 30-day public comment period. On November 4, 1986, pursuant to the Comprehensive Smokeless Tobacco Health Education Act of 1986, the Commission issued final regulations implementing (cont)

On July 31, 1989, the Commission proposed a method for the display of warning labels on utilitarian items and invited comments. On March 20, 1991, the Commission issued a final rule amending the previous regulations by deleting the exemption for utilitarian objects for personal use. On May 14, 1991, the Coalition on Smoking Or Health petitioned the Commission to enforce the Smokeless Tobacco Act to require smokeless tobacco health warnings on sponsored racing cars, banners, flags and other related objects bearing smokeless tobacco product brand names, logos, or selling messages. Staff is considering this petition and will make an appropriate recommendation to the Commission.

FTC — Proposed Rule Stage

Abstract: The Telephone Disclosure and Dispute Resolution Act of 1992, Pub. L. No. 102-556, was signed into law on October 28, 1992. Titles II and III of the Act direct the FTC to promulgate, within 270 days of enactment, a rule governing the advertising and operation of, as well as billing and collection for, pay-per-call services. Pay-per-call services, most commonly provided through 900 telephone numbers, involve a charge to the consumer which is assessed on the basis of the completion of the call and for which the consumer generally is billed on the monthly telephone bill. Title II of the statute requires that disclosure of the cost of a pay-per-call service be made both in advertising and in a preamble message.-Advertisements for pay-per-call services that offer a prize must disclose the odds of receiving the prize. In the case of a pay-per-call service that provides information about a Federal program, both the preamble and advertising must disclose that the service is not authorized, endorsed, or approved by any Federal agency. Pay-per-call services, and advertisements for such services, cannot be directed at children under 12, unless the service is a bona fide (cont)

Advertisements primarily directed at individuals under the age of 18, and the preambles to all pay-per-call services, are required to state that persons under 18 must have parental consent to use the service. Pay-per-call services may not be provided through an 800 telephone number, or any other number designated by the FCC as a toll-free number. Moreover, pay-per-call providers are liable for refunds to consumers who have paid for services that violate regulations prescribed pursuant to the Act. In addition, the Commission is authorized to prescribe other regulations it deems necessary to prevent abusive practices or to prevent evasion of these requirements. Title III of the Act directs the FTC to prescribe rules establishing procedures for the correction of billing errors with respect to telephone-billed purchases.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Interstate Commerce Commission.

ACTION: Notice of semiannual regulatory agenda to be part of a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to instructions from OMB issued to implement the provisions of section 5 of Executive Order 12291 concerning regulatory agendas, the Commission is publishing an agenda of: (1) Current and projected rulemakings and (2) existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking. Listed below are the regulatory actions to be developed or reviewed during the next 12 months. Following each rule identified is a brief description of the rule including its purpose and legal basis.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: A contact person is identified for each of the rules listed below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A list of proceedings appears below containing information about subject areas in which the Commission is currently conducting rulemaking proceedings or may institute such proceedings in the near future. It also contains information about existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking.

The agenda also identifies regulations likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities." Accordingly, this information will satisfy the requirements of section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602.

Finally, this agenda will comprise part of a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations compiled by the Office of Management and Budget, which is to be published in a single issue of the Federal Register in April 1993. The purpose of the Unified Agenda is to provide the public with more comprehensive documentation of the Federal Government's current regulatory plans and to provide a systematic means of monitoring regulatory activity in each agency.

This notice is issued pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 10321 and 5 U.S.C. 553.

Decided: February 12, 1993.
By the Commission, Chairman Philbin, Vice Chairman Simmons, Commissioners Phillips, McDonald, and Walden.

Abstract: The Interstate Commerce Commission proposes to revise its standard licensing application form and corresponding regulations concerning application procedures at 49 CFR parts 1003, 1160, 1162, and 1166. The proposal would replace the comprehensive licensing form currently in use with six transportation mode-specific licensing forms to be used respectively by applicants for motor property carrier, motor property "fitness only," motor passenger, property broker, household goods freight forwarder, and water carrier authority. The recommended revisions to the licensing form and procedures are intended to rationalize and simplify the licensing process and will incorporate recent revisions to the Commission's safety fitness policy adopted in Safety Fitness Policy, 8 ICC 2d 123 (1991), petition to reopen denied (not printed), served December 26, 1991, 56 FR 67002 (December 27, 1991). The proposal is expected to reduce significantly the burden hours associated with the licensing application process.

ICC — Proposed Rule Stage

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, June 18, 1993.
49 USC 11506(c)(1) (enacted December 18, 1991) requires that not later than 18 months after enactment the Commission prescribe amendments to State registration regulations at 49 CFR part 1023.

Abstract: The Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991, Pub. L. No. 102-240, enacted December 18, 1991, as pertinent, requires the Commission, within 18 months after enactment, to prescribe amendments to the regulations at 49 CFR part 1023 governing registration of motor carriers by the States. The mandated amendments will replace the "bingo card" system presently in use with a simplified single-State insurance registration system. States no longer will be able to require carriers to register or identify specific vehicles operated. By a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, the Commission has proposed revised regulations and solicited comments thereon. The amended regulations are expected to reduce significantly the compliance burdens presently confronted by the trucking industry and the States under the existing "bingo card" system.

NATIONAL CREDIT UNION ADMINISTRATION

12 CFR Ch. VII

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to its ongoing policy of reviewing regulations, NCUA is publishing a list of current and projected rulemakings, reviews of existing regulations, and completed actions as of February 24, 1993. NCUA will also include this agenda in the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

DATES: This information is current as of February 24, 1993.

ADDRESSES: National Credit Union Administration, 1776 G Street NW., Washington, DC 20456.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For each regulation listed, the person(s) named in the listing at the above address, unless otherwise noted, or listed telephone number.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The purpose of this agenda is to enable credit unions and the public to follow regulatory development and review at NCUA and to enable interested parties to more effectively participate in that process. The agenda is divided into three parts: (1) Actions completed since the last agenda; (2) actions proposed but not completed; and (3) actions planned but not yet proposed by the NCUA Board.

The agenda is published pursuant to NCUA Interpretive Ruling and Policy Statement Number 87-2 ("Developing and Reviewing Government Regulations," 54 FR 35231; September 18, 1987). Executive Order No. 12291 does not require independent executive agencies such as NCUA to publish a regulatory agenda, but NCUA has voluntarily decided to do so by including this agenda in the Office of Management and Budget's next publication of its Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

Approved by the NCUA Board on February 24, 1993.

Becky Baker,

Secretary of the Board.

Nuclear Regulatory Commission

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

VOL 58 ISS 78 APR 26 1993 UMI

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC)

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual publication of NRC regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is publishing its semiannual regulatory agenda in accordance with Public Law 96-354 "The Regulatory Flexibility Act" and Executive Order 12291 "Federal Regulation." The agenda is a compilation of all rules on which the NRC has recently completed action or has proposed or is considering action. This issuance updates any action occurring on rules since publication of the last semiannual agenda on November 3, 1992 (57 FR 51002).

ADDRESSES: Comments on any rule in the agenda may be sent to the Secretary of the Commission, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555, Attention: Docketing and Service Branch. Comments may also be hand delivered to the One White Flint North Building, 11555 Rockville Pike, Rockville, Maryland, between 7:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m., Federal workdays. Comments received on rules for which the comment period has closed will be considered if it is practical to do so, but assurance of consideration cannot be given except as to comments received on or before the closure dates specified in the agenda.

The agenda and any comments received on any rule listed in the agenda are available for public inspection and copying for a fee at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Public Document Room, 2120 L Street NW. (Lower Level), Washington, DC 20555. Single copies of the NRC quarterly agenda can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Post Office Box 37082, Washington, DC 20013-7082. Customers may call (202) 512-2303 or (202) 512-2249.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning NRC rulemaking procedures or the status of any rule listed in this agenda, contact Michael Lesar, Chief, Rules Review Section, Rules Review and Directives Branch, Division of Freedom of Information and Publications Services, Office of Administration, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555; telephone (301) 492-7758. Persons outside the Washington, DC, metropolitan area may call, toll-free: (800) 368-5642. For further information on the substantive content of any rule listed in the agenda, contact the individual listed under the heading "Agency Contact" for that rule.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Although publication of the agenda is only required semiannually, in April and October, the NRC has chosen to update and publish its agenda each quarter. However, the information contained in this semiannual publication is updated to reflect any action which has occurred on rules since publication of the last NRC semiannual agenda on November 3, 1992 (57 FR 51002).

Within each group, the rules are ordered according to the Regulation Identifier Number (RIN).

The information in this agenda has been updated through February 26, 1993. The date for the next scheduled action under the heading "Timetable" is the date the rule is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register. The date is considered tentative and is not binding on the Commission or its staff. The regulatory agenda is intended to provide the public early notice and opportunity to participate in the NRC rulemaking process. However, the NRC may consider or act on any rulemaking even though it is not included in the regulatory agenda.

Rulemakings Approved by the Executive Director for Operations (EDO)

The EDO initiated a procedure for review of the regulations being prepared by staff offices that report to him to ensure that staff resources are allocated most effectively to achieve NRC's regulatory priorities. This procedure requires EDO approval before staff resources may be expended on the development of any new rulemaking. Furthermore, all existing rules must receive EDO approval prior to the commitment of additional resources.

The NRC agenda lists rulemaking actions. Of these, no rulemaking items are considered to be priority or major as defined in section 1(b) of Executive Order 12291.

Eleven rules potentially will have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" as defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Dated at Bethesda, Maryland, this 22nd day of February 1993.

For the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Michael T. Lesar,

Acting Chief, Rules Review and Directives Branch, Division of Freedom of Information and Publications Services, Office of Administration.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC)

Prerule Stage

4746. NIGHT FIRING QUALIFICATIONS FOR SECURITY GUARDS AT NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 73

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The rulemaking would ensure that security force effectiveness at nuclear power plants is not dependent on the time of day. Security guards currently are required to perform night firing for familiarization only. There is no requirement for standards to measure their effectiveness. The rule would require that security guards at nuclear power plants qualify for night firing. The only alternative to rulemaking is to retain the current status.

Part 73, Appendix B, Part IV, will be amended to require reactor security guards to qualify annually in an NRC-approved night firing course with their assigned weapons. The amendment will standardize training and qualification in night firing and prepare power reactor guard forces to respond more effectively in the event of an incident occurring in limited lighting conditions. The cost to industry should be relatively modest since licensees already operate daylight firing training and qualification facilities and programs.

4747. CODES AND STANDARDS FOR NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS (ASME CODE, SECTION XI, DIVISION 1, SUBSECTION IWE AND SUBSECTION IWL)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would incorporate by reference Subsection IWE, "Requirements for Class MC Components of Light-Water Cooled Power Plants," and Subsection IWL, "Requirements for Class CC Concrete Components of Light-Water Cooled Power Plants," of Section XI (Division 1) of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code (ASME Code). Subsection IWE provides the rules and requirements for inservice inspection, repair, and replacement of Class MC pressure retaining components and their integral attachments in light-water cooled power plants. Subsection IWL provides the rules and requirements for inservice inspection and repair of the reinforced concrete and post tensioning systems of Class CC components.

Incorporation by reference of Subsection IWE and Subsection IWL will provide systematic examination rules for containment structure for meeting Criterion 53 of the General Design Criteria (Appendix A of 10 CFR part 50) and Appendix J of 10 CFR part 50. (cont)

Timetable: Next Action Undetermined

Small Entities Affected: None

Government Levels Affected: None

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: Age-related degradation of containments has occurred, and additional and potentially more serious degradation mechanisms can be anticipated as nuclear power plants age.

If the NRC did not take action to endorse the Subsection IWE and Subsection IWL rules, the NRC position on examination practices for containment structure would have to be established on a case-by-case basis and improved examination practices for steel containment structures might not be implemented. The other alternatives of incorporating these detailed examination requirements into the American National Standard ANSI/ANS 56.8-1981 or into Appendix J are not feasible.

Incorporating by reference the latest edition and addenda of Subsection IWE and Subsection IWL will save applicants/licensees and the NRC staff both time and effort by providing uniform detailed criteria against which the staff can review any single submission. Adoption of the proposed amendment would permit the use of improved methods for containment inservice inspection.

4748. ACCEPTANCE OF PRODUCTS PURCHASED FOR USE IN NUCLEAR POWER PLANT STRUCTURES, SYSTEMS, AND COMPONENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) would develop regulations requiring enhanced receipt inspection and testing of products purchased for use in nuclear power plant structures, systems, and components. This ANPRM was published to solicit public comments on the need for additional regulatory requirements and to obtain an improved understanding of alternatives to regulatory requirements. Based upon comment analysis, the staff recommended to the Commission that this rule be withdrawn.

Recent inspections and discussions with the industry and licensees indicate that there is still some disagreement between industry and the NRC staff regarding commercial grade procurement and dedication. The NRC staff is currently conducting meetings with the industry and individual licensees to resolve the areas of disagreement. Final issuance of the notice of action will be issued following resolution of the areas of disagreement.

4749. CLARIFICATION OF EMERGENCY PREPAREDNESS REGULATIONS; EXERCISE REQUIREMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations by clarifying the linkage between the need for "reasonable assurance that adequate protective measures can and will be taken in the event of a radiological emergency" indicated in Section 50.47(a) and 16 planning standards outlined in Section 50.47(b). In addition, the rulemaking will clarify the term "range of protective" actions. Other issues to be clarified include monitoring of evacuees, actions for recovery and reentry, notification of the public, evacuation time estimates, and exercise frequency.

In a December 23, 1988, memorandum to the EDO from SECY, the staff was directed to review the "...NRC's emergency planning regulations and proposed revisions designed to eliminate ambiguity and clarify the regulations to include what constitutes the exercise scope prior to the full power licensing...." The staff outlined the proposed rulemaking in a

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations pertaining to specific Privacy Act exemptions. This proposed rule would add exemption (j)(2) of the Privacy Act to the regulations that describe exempt systems of records. These amendments would make NRC's regulations consistent with the majority of statutorily appointed Inspectors General and would clearly link each system of records to the specific exemptions(s) of the Privacy Act under which each system is exempt.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 039

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations governing well logging operations. The proposed rule would allow the continued use of sealed sources that were approved by accepted prototype testing before July 14, 1989. The proposed rule would also permit the continued use of previously evaluated and approved sealed sources by NRC well logging licensees. The proposed rule is necessary because the current regulations unintentionally excluded the use of sealed sources previously approved by prototype testing.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 032

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to reinstate the annual reporting requirement for transfer of products containing small quantities of radioactive material to persons exempt from licensing requirements. Submittal of transfer reports on a 5-year reporting basis has made it difficult for the NRC staff to identify trends in distribution of materials to persons exempt from licensing requirements. Reinstating the annual reporting requirement will provide the NRC with more complete and accurate information on exemptions granted under 10 CFR 30 and improve the Commission's capability to assess potential effects of aggregated exposures to the public from a number of exempted practices. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The NRC is considering amending its regulations to increase assurance that nuclear power reactor licensees will have adequate funds for decommissioning and other safety-related activities. This rulemaking will consider the need for amending the NRC's regulations to require power reactor licensees to either: (1) guarantee any unfunded decommissioning liability with a surety bond letter of credit, or other guarantee method currently allowed in 10 CFR 50.75(e)(1)(iii); (2) provide for a financial test guarantee mechanism similar to the one contained in 10 CFR Part 30, Appendix A; or (3) provide a certification to the NRC from the licensee's rate-making authority that it will allow unfunded decommissioning obligations to be collected in rates, notwithstanding the operating status of the facility.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC) — Proposed Rule Stage

4754. AMENDMENT TO 10 CFR 51.51 AND 51.52, TABLES S-3 AND S-4, ADDITION OF RADON-222 AND TECHNETIUM-99 RADIATION VALUES, AND ADDITION OF APPENDIX B, "TABLE S-3 EXPLANATORY ANALYSIS"

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2011; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 4321; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 51

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule amends the Table of Uranium Fuel Cycle Environmental Data (Table S-3) by adding new estimates for releases of technetium-99 and radon-222, and by updating other estimates. The proposed rule's Appendix B to Subpart A (narrative explanation), also describes the basis for the values contained in Table S-3, explains the environmental effects of these potential releases from the LWR Fuel Cycle, and postulates the potential radiation doses, health effects, and environmental impacts of these releases. The proposed rule also amends 10 CFR 51.52 to modify the enrichment value of U-235 and the maximum level of average fuel irradiation (burnup in megawatt-days of thermal power per metric ton of uranium). The narrative explanation also addresses important fuel cycle impacts and the cumulative impacts of the nuclear fuel cycle for the whole nuclear power industry so that it may be possible to consider these impacts generically rather than repeatedly in individual licensing proceedings, thus reducing potential litigation time and costs for both NRC and applicants. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: The proposed revision of 10 CFR 51.51 and the addition of Appendix B was published for public review and comment on March 4, 1981 (46 FR 15154). The final rulemaking was deferred pending the outcome of a suit (Natural Resources Defense Council, et al. v. NRC, No. 74-1486) in the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The U.S. Court of Appeals (D.C. Circuit) decision on April 27, 1982, invalidated the entire Table S-3 rule. The Supreme Court reversed this decision on June 6, 1983.

The proposed rule to provide an explanatory narrative for Table S-3 has been revised to reflect new modeling developments during the time the rulemaking was deferred. Final action on the Table S-3 rule was held in abeyance until new values for radon-222 and technetium-99 could be added to the table and covered in the narrative explanation. The rule is being reissued as a proposed rule because the scope has been expanded to include radiation values for radon-222 and technetium-99 and the narrative explanation has been extensively revised from that published on March 4, 1981 (46 FR 15154).

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would update and revise the 1973 criteria for preoperational and periodic pressure testing for leakage of primary containment boundaries of water-cooled power reactors. Problems have developed in application and interpretation of the existing rule. These result from changes in testing technology, test criteria, and a relevant national standard that needs to be recognized. The proposed revisions would make the rule current and improve its usefulness.

The revision is needed to resolve continuing conflicts between licensees and NRC inspectors over interpretations, current regulatory practice which is no longer being reflected accurately by the existing rule, and endorsement in the existing regulation of an obsolete national standard. The proposed rule would eliminate inconsistencies and obsolete requirements and provide a higher degree of confidence in the leak-tight integrity of containment system boundaries under post-loss of coolant accident conditions.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2210; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 140

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the criteria for an extraordinary nuclear occurrence (ENO) to eliminate the problems encountered in the Three Mile Island ENO determination. The revised criteria should be established in the event they are needed.

There are no alternatives to this rulemaking, as the current ENO criteria are already codified in Subpart E of 10 CFR Part 140. The only way to modify these criteria, as this rule seeks to do is through rulemaking.

There is no safety impact on public health or safety. The ENO criteria provide legal waivers of defenses. Industry (insurers and utilities) claims that a reduction in the ENO criteria could cause increases in insurance premiums. The final rule will also respond to PRM-140-1.

Abstract: The proposed rule would shorten and simplify existing Commission procedural rules applicable to domestic licensing proceedings by comprehensively restating, revising and reorganizing the statement of those rules to reflect current practice. The changes in this proposed rule would enable the Commission, directly and through its adjudicatory offices, to render decisions in a more timely fashion, eliminate the stylistic complexity of the existing rules, and reduce the burden and expense to the parties participating in agency proceedings. In 1987, the Commission deferred consideration of this proposal which would have revised the Commission's procedural rules governing the conduct of all adjudicatory proceedings other than export licensing proceedings under 10 CFR part 110, pending consideration of other, more limited revisions to the rules of practice. In 1989, former Chairman Zech requested that this proposed rule be updated and resubmitted for reconsideration by the Commission.

4758. ELIMINATION OF INCONSISTENCIES BETWEEN NRC REGULATIONS AND EPA HLW STANDARDS

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would eliminate several inconsistencies with the EPA standards to be developed for the disposal of HLW in deep geologic repositories. The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 (NWPA) directs NRC to promulgate criteria for the licensing of HLW geologic repositories. Section 121(c) of this Act states that the criteria for the licensing of HLW geologic repositories must be consistent with these standards. The proposed rule is needed in order to eliminate several inconsistencies with the EPA standards, thus fulfilling the statutory requirement.

Because the NWPA directs NRC to eliminate inconsistencies between Part 60 and the EPA standard, the alternatives to the proposed action are limited by statute.

The public, industry, and NRC will benefit from eliminating inconsistencies in Federal HLW regulations. NRC resources needed would be several staff-years but will not include contract resources.

Because the Federal Court invalidated the EPA standards, action on this rule is undetermined.

This amendment informs the public of three additional circumstances where information will not be returned to the applicant, i.e., information which has been made available to an advisory committee or was received at an advisory committee meeting, information discussed at an open Commission meeting under the Government in Sunshine Act and information that is subject to a pending Freedom of Information Act request.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) sought comments on a proposal to amend NRC regulations to address disposal of radioactive wastes that contain sufficiently low quantities of radionuclides that their disposal does not need to be regulated as radioactive.

The NRC has already published a policy statement providing guidance for filing petitions for rulemaking to exempt individual waste streams (August 29, 1986; 51 FR 30839). It is believed that generic rulemaking could provide a more efficient and effective means of dealing with disposal of wastes below regulatory concern. Generic rulemaking would supplement the policy statement which was a response to Section 10 of the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1985 (Pub. L. 99-240). The public was asked to comment on 14 questions. The ANPRM requested public comment on several alternative approaches that the NRC could take. The evaluation of public comment together with the results from a research contract and a Below Regulatory Concern consensus building effort will help to determine whether and how NRC should proceed on the matter.

Abstract: The proposed rule would, in conjunction with a corresponding rule change by the U.S. Department of Transportation, update the United States Federal regulations for the safe transportation of radioactive material to incorporate new licensing information developed since 1972. The proposed rule would respond to the need for a: 1) new crush test; 2) new deep immersion test; and 3) new limit on low specific activity material shipments. The action will be handled as a routine updating of NRC transportation regulations. There is no reasonable alternative to rulemaking. Proposed changes to 10 CFR Part 71, based on current IAEA regulations, have been issued for public comment.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 35

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) would amend the Commission's regulations to require a comprehensive quality assurance program for medical licensees using byproduct materials. The purpose of this rulemaking action is to address each source of error that can lead to a misadministration. An ANPRM was published to request public comment on the extent to which in addition to the basic quality assurance procedures (being addressed by another rulemaking action, entitled "Basic Quality Assurance Program for Medical Use of Byproduct Material"), a more comprehensive quality assurance requirement is needed and invites advice and recommendations on about 20 questions that will have to be addressed in the rulemaking process.

4764. LOW-LEVEL WASTE MANIFEST INFORMATION AND REPORTING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 020; 10 CFR 061

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to: (1) improve information contained in manifests accompanying shipments of waste to low-level waste (LLW) disposal facilities licensed under Part 61; (2) develop a uniform manifest for national use; (3) require that operators of these disposal facilities store manifest information in electronic recordkeeping systems; and (4) require that operators submit, on a machine-readable medium, reports of shipment manifest information.

To ensure safe disposal of LLW, the NRC must understand the mechanisms and rates by which radioactivity can be released from LLW and into the environment. To do this, the NRC must understand the chemical, physical, and radiological characteristics of LLW. This task is greatly complicated by the heterogeneous nature of LLW; it exists in a variety of chemical and physical forms and contains roughly 200 different radionuclides in concentrations that can range from a few microcuries to several hundred curies per cubic foot. Each year there are thousands of shipments to LLW disposal sites. (cont)

Government Levels Affected: None

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: The rulemaking would facilitate the eventual development of a complete, detailed national LLW computer data base, if appropriate, that contains information about waste disposed in all LLW sites, those regulated by NRC as well as by Agreement States. The rulemaking, through development of a uniform manifest, would also improve safe and expeditious movement of LLW from generators through processors or collectors to disposal facilities. Emergency accident procedures would be enhanced through use of a single uniform manifest.

The NRC does not expect that the rulemaking will increase disposal costs. The final rule is dependent upon a coordinated rulemaking effort with the Department of Transportation.

4765. IMPORT AND EXPORT OF RADIOACTIVE WASTES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 110

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's licensing requirements to strengthen the Commission's controls over radioactive waste coming into and leaving the United States by requiring specific NRC licensing of radioactive waste imports and exports. The proposed rule would help ensure that the transactions are subject to the approval of the U.S. Government and the consent of other involved parties. The proposed amendment would conform U.S. policies with the decision of the General Conference of the International Atomic Energy Agency in September 1990, approving a voluntary Code of Practice to guide Nation States in the development and harmonization of policies and laws on the transboundary shipments of radioactive waste. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 073

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to require periodic updates of FBI fingerprint checks for reinvestigation of individuals granted unescorted access to nuclear power plants or access to safeguards information. The proposed rule would require that licensees who operate a nuclear power plant submit fingerprint cards for applicable personnel to the NRC for criminal history checks every 5 years. Authorization for unescorted access would be retained by an individual pending results of the criminal history check on that individual's fingerprints. The NRC staff has recommended that this rulemaking be terminated.

4767. DESIGN BASIS EVENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 060

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations concerning additional preclosure regulatory requirements for high-level waste geologic repositories. Several issues associated with preclosure regulatory requirements have been raised due to different interpretations of the rulemaking record for 10 CFR Part 60. These involve: (1) the lack of clearly prescribed requirements for the establishment of a controlled use area intended to protect public health and safety in the event of a postulated radionuclide release and (2) the definition of structures, systems, and components important to safety for which certain design and quality assurance criteria apply. In order to meet the milestones mandated by the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, as amended, and milestones pertaining to DOE's production schedule in the Mission Plan amendments, guidance is needed from NRC on these matters to enable DOE to proceed with the siting of a geologic repository. 4768. FRACTURE TOUGHNESS REQUIREMENTS FOR LWR PRESSURE VESSELS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations concerning fracture toughness requirements to resolve issues that have resulted from technological improvements and from other issues. The "Pressurized Thermal Shock (PTS) rule" (10 CFR 50.61), was modified in 1991 to be consistent with the embrittlement correlations given in Regulatory Guide 1.99, Revision 2. However, the need for further clarifications to the PTS rule has been identified.

Appendix G to 10 CFR Part 50 provides fracture toughness requirements for feritic materials of pressure-retaining components of the reactor coolant boundary of light-water nuclear power reactors.

Appendix H to 10 CFR Part 50 contains requirements for RPV material surveillance programs that are intended to monitor fracture toughness property changes in RPV materials due to irradiation embrittlement.

4770. RADIOLOGICAL CRITERIA FOR DECOMMISSIONING OF NUCLEAR FACILITIES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 020

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to codify the basic principles and radiological criteria which would allow decommissioned lands and structures to be released for unrestricted public use. In the final rule on General Requirements for Decommissioning Nuclear Facilities (53 FR 24018) dated June 27, 1988, the need and urgency for guidance with respect to residual contamination criteria was expressed. At that time, it was anticipated that an interagency working group organized by the Environmental Protection Agency would develop necessary Federal guidance. However, in the absence of significant progress by the interagency working group, the Commission has directed that the NRC expedite rulemaking because the requirements, once final, will provide licensees with an incentive to complete site decommissionings. The rule would establish basic radiological criteria for release of lands and structures. Measurables, in the form of surface and volume radioactivity concentrations and site radioactivity inventory values, would be provided in supporting regulatory guidance. (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 034

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations on licenses for radiography and radiation safety requirements for radiographic operations. The proposed rule would revise 10 CFR Part 34 to clarify the requirements in section 34.27 and conform Part 34 with the approach developed by the Conference of Radiation Control Program Directors, Inc. (Part E of the "Suggested State Regulations for Control of Radiation"), and the State of Texas in Part 31 of the Texas Regulations for Control of Radiation. Comments and suggestions from regulatory groups, users, and manufacturers will be considered in the overall revision and Canadian atomic energy control regulations that relate to radiography will be consulted. The proposed rule is necessary because of frequent misinterpretations of the provisions of Part 34 and the need to clarify the requirements of 10 CFR 34.27. The staff is currently preparing an options paper which will examine the issues, set priorities, and provide direction for the proposed rulemaking.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 021

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations concerning the reporting of defects and noncompliance to clarify the applicability of these provisions to materials and fuel cycle licensees. Because of the wide diversity in the types of licensees covered under these regulations, the requirements have been misinterpreted by the licensees. The proposed rule would clearly define the applicability of these provisions to the different types of licensees and would take into account the differences between different classes of licensees. The proposed rule is being developed in response to an NRC internal audit and to a parallel review of these regulations as they apply to materials licensees. The proposed rule would relax certain requirements on small licensees and, therefore, would result in some cost savings to them.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations for reactor, material, fuel cycle, and independent spent fuel storage licensees. The proposed rule would establish a regulatory framework containing the procedures and criteria that will apply to on-site storage of low-level radioactive waste (LLW), beyond January 1, 1996. The Commission has determined, under the authority of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, that these charges are required because of potential health and safety concerns associated with the increased reliance upon on-site storage of LLW. The proposed rule is intended to support the goals that have been established by the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1985.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to add incident reporting requirements to Part 72 to make it consistent with other regulations in 10 CFR Chapter I. On August 16, 1991 (56 FR 40757), the Commission published a final rule that deleted certain incident reporting requirements from Part 20 and replaced them with new incident reporting requirements in Parts 30, 40, and 70. However, incident reporting requirements were not added to Part 72. The only alternative to this rulemaking that would assure that the specified incidents are reported is to impose these reporting requirements by order or license condition. However, establishing reporting requirements by rulemaking is necessary to provide consistency throughout the Commission's regulations.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) would amend the Commission's regulations to decouple source term and dose calculations from reactor siting and to permit the use of updated source term insights for future light water reactors. The NRC is presently in the process of reviewing advanced reactor designs. The DOE has also indicated that it intends to seek review for an early site permit, as permitted by 10 CFR Part 52, by early 1993. The only alternative to rulemaking would be to continue present staff practice utilizing an outdated source term formulation derived from Technical Information Document (TID) 14844, issued in 1962, coupled with the use of the guideline dose values in 10 CFR Part 100, not only for reactor siting, but for plant design as well. This rulemaking action comprises two phases. The first phase is described in the proposed rule titled, "Reactor Site Criteria; Including Seismic and Earthquake Engineering Criteria for Nuclear Power Plants (3150-AD93)." The second phase will consist of the issuance of an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM), followed by a final revision of 10 CFR Part 50 to incorporate updated source term and severe accident research insights into plant design requirements for future light water reactors. The intent of this second phase of rulemaking is expected to provide additional requirements for future light water reactors regarding severe accident prevention and mitigation, and is expected to substantially reduce the risks from these events.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 055

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to: (1) delete the requirement that each licensed individual pass an NRC-administered requalification examination during the term of license; (2) require that facility licensees submit to the NRC their annual requalification operating tests and comprehensive requalification written examinations 30 days prior to the conduct of these tests and examinations; and (3) include facility licenses in the "Scope" of Part 55. The proposed rule would also improve operational safety at each facility by redirecting NRC examiners to inspect and oversee facility requalification programs rather than conducting requalification examinations, while reducing both licensee and NRC costs to administer the program.

4787. • CLARIFICATION OF ASSESSMENT REQUIREMENTS FOR THE SITING CRITERIA AND PERFORMANCE OBJECTIVES

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 060

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations concerning regulatory requirements for licensing of high-level waste geologic repositories. The relationship described in Section 60.21 of the siting criteria in Section 60.122 (defined in terms of potentially adverse and favorable conditions) and the performance objectives in Sections 60.112 and 60.113 has been the subject of conflicting interpretations. The proposed rule would resolve the conflicting interpretations of the terms "adequately investigated" and "adequately evaluated" which are used with reference to the potentially adverse conditions in Section 60.122. In addition, the proposed rule would resolve the conflicting interpretations of the relationship of performance assessment and potentially adverse conditions. (cont)

The proposed rule would also revise Sections 60.21 and 60.122 by removing the analysis requirements from Section 60.122 and placing them in Section 60.21. This would be consistent with other technical aspects of 10 CFR Part 60. These sections would also be revised to clarify that siting criteria must be appropriately considered in the compliance demonstration for the performance objectives of Sections 60.112 and 60.113. Separate acceptability assessments for individual potentially adverse conditions are not required.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 020; 10 CFR 035

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to revise the patient release criteria contained in 10 CFR 35.75, and the applicability of the dose limits for members of the public in 10 CFR 20.1301. The Commission has received two petitions for rulemaking, PRM-20-20 and PRM-35-10, to amend its regulations regarding radiation exposure that members of the public may receive from patients who have been medically administered radioactive materials, and the criteria under which this patient may be released from confinement. The petitioners believe that the current requirements of Parts 20 and 35 would cause patients to be confined unnecessarily beyond the time needed for medical reasons. Therefore, if the Commission concludes that the dose limits and other restrictions should be relaxed, it will proceed with this rulemaking.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations by revising certain sections to conform with the nuclear whistleblower protection provisions of the Energy Policy Act of 1992. The new nuclear whistleblower protection provisions of the Energy Policy Act of 1992, which was enacted on October 24, 1992, amend Section 210 of the Energy Reorganization Act of 1974. The legislation extends the period in which to file a claim and extends protection to new classes of employees and employers. Because there were two Section 210's in the Energy Reorganization Act, the new legislation renumbers the whistleblower protection provision as Section 211. In addition, the new legislation requires that employers post the whistleblower protection provisions in a prominent place at the work site. The additional requirements and the expanded scope of protection are reflected in the proposed rule.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to include a standardized physical fitness training program and fitness standards for security personnel. Current regulations specify that security personnel have no physical weaknesses that would adversely affect their performance of assigned job duties. However, regulatory standards ensuring that security personnel are physically fit to perform their duties do not exist. Requirements for a physical fitness program and fitness standards at Category I fuel cycle facilities for security personnel need to be added to the regulations in order to provide a uniform, enforceable program. 4797. • SAFETY REQUIREMENTS FOR REACTOR COOLANT PUMP SEALS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to require PWR plants to treat reactor coolant pump (RCP) seal assembly as a component of the safety-related reactor coolant pressure boundary. The proposed rule would provide RCP manufacturer-recommended instrumentation and procedures for monitoring RCP seal performance and detecting incipient RCP seal failures. The proposed rule would also provide RCP seal cooling during off-normal conditions such as station blackout and loss of component coolant water (CCW) or service water (SW) or provide full scale test results verifying acceptable seal performance under worst case loss of all seal cooling conditions.

Excessive leakage resulting from a RCP seal failure may occur as a result of loss of seal cooling or mechanical failures. In addition to the mechanical failures caused by the lack of adequate seal cooling, mechanical failures may result from other causes such as excessive pump vibration; defective parts; introduction of contaminants; secondary seal failure; pressure, temperature or flow transients; improper maintenance; and faulty assembly, installation, or adjustment.

The RCP seal failures which have occurred to date have not resulted in a direct threat to the health and safety of the public. However, the potential does exist for seal failures which could have significant safety consequences. Seal failures have occurred in which the loss of primary coolant to the containment was greater than the normal make-up capacity of the plant. The potential, therefore, exists for seal failures which can result in a small loss-of-coolant accident.

Alternatives to the rulemaking would be to allow the status quo to continue.

In addition to development of a rule, the NRC staff intends to prepare a regulatory guide that will provide the methods acceptable for complying with the proposed RCP seal rule.

4798. PROCEDURES INVOLVING THE EQUAL ACCESS TO JUSTICE ACT: IMPLEMENTATION

Legal Authority: 5 USC 504

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 001; 10 CFR 002

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would implement the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA) by providing for the payment of fees and expenses to certain eligible individuals and businesses that prevail in agency adjudications when the agency's position is determined not to have been substantially justified. This proposed regulation is modeled after rules issued by the Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS) and has been modified to conform to NRC's established rules of practice. The proposed rule would further the EAJA's intent to develop government-wide, "uniform" agency regulations and would describe NRC procedures and requirements for the filing and disposition of EAJA applications. A draft final rule was sent to the Commission in June 1982, but Commission action was suspended pending a decision by the Comptroller General on the availability of funds to pay awards to intervenor parties. This issue was also the subject of litigation in Business and Professional People for the Public Interest v. NRC, 793 F.2d 1366 (D.C. Cir. 1986). (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 073

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to include day firing qualification courses for each type of required weapon for security personnel. Current regulations require day firing qualification using a national police course or equivalent for handguns and an NRC or nationally recognized course for semi-automatic weapons. The firing course specified for shotguns is in need of revision. Recent amendments to Part 73 added a requirement for night firing qualification using specific, designated firing courses. To ensure uniformity, the current day firing requirements should be compatible.

Alternatives to the rulemaking would be to allow the status quo to continue. Standardization of day firing courses to be consistent with those established for night firing would be of negligible cost to the affected licensees and to the NRC because day firing qualification using a variety of firing courses is already being done.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations for the possession of industrial devices containing byproduct material to require device users to report to the NRC initially and then on a periodic basis. The report would indicate that the device is still in use or to whom the device has been transferred. The proposed rule would be the most efficient method, considering the number of general licensees and the number of devices currently in use, for assuring that devices are not improperly transferred or inadvertently discarded. The proposed rule is necessary to avoid unnecessary radiation exposure to the public that may occur when an improperly discarded device is included in a batch of scrap metal for reprocessing. The proposed rule would also avoid the unnecessary expense involved in retrieving the manufactured items fabricated from contaminated metal. The proposed rule would impose a small burden on device users and the NRC.

Abstract: The final rule would amend the Commission's regulations dealing with discrimination against persons who, on the grounds of sex, are excluded from participation in, denied the benefits of, or subjected to discrimination under any program or activity licensed by the NRC. The Commission has decided that Section 401 of the Energy Reorganization Act, which prohibits sex discrimination, applies only to the Commission and does not apply to NRC licensees and/or applicants. Because this decision invalidates 10 CFR 19.32 and 10 CFR 2.111, action is being taken to amend these sections and to incorporate appropriate language to clarify that these sections do not apply to licensee employees.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 026

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to include Category I material licensees and transporters in the fitness-for-duty programs. This action is necessary to ensure fitness for duty of employees: (1) who have direct access to large quantities of special nuclear material; (2) who are responsible for the protection of the material; and (3) who transport the material. The proposed rule is expected to lead to compatibility with equivalent DOE programs.

The central issue for Category I material licensees and transporters is the risk of theft or diversion of highly enriched SNM due to drug-related causes which, in turn, could pose a significant risk to the health, safety, or security of a large population. Current regulations only cover nuclear power plants and need to be expanded to include Category I material licensees and transporters with requirements reflecting the differences between the nuclear power plants and the Category I material licensees and transporters. Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to require timely decontamination and decommissioning of materials facilities within a fixed period of time (e.g., 2-3 years) after cessation of operations. This requirement would be accompanied by a provision that the licensee seek a variance if completion of decontamination or decommissioning within the required time is not technically achievable or if delaying decontamination or decommissioning would reduce risk to public health and safety or the environment.

The rulemaking would result in publication of specific criteria for timeliness in the decontamination and decommissioning of material facilities. This rulemaking would provide a more substantial planning base for the industry and result in timely decontamination and decommissioning of material facilities. The resulting timely decontamination and decommissioning of materials facilities will reduce the potential radiological risk to the public and the environment from contaminated materials sites. The rulemaking is not expected to substantially affect licensee costs.

4806. REACTOR SITE CRITERIA; INCLUDING SEISMIC AND EARTHQUAKE ENGINEERING CRITERIA FOR NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050; 10 CFR 052; 10 CFR 100

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to update the criteria used in decisions regarding power reactor siting, including geologic, seismic, and earthquake engineering considerations for future nuclear power plants. The proposed rule would allow NRC to benefit from experience gained in the application of the procedures and methods set forth in the current regulation and to incorporate the rapid advancements in the earth sciences and earthquake engineering. The proposed rule primarily consists of two separate changes, namely, the source term and dose considerations, and the seismic and earthquake engineering considerations of reactor siting.

A second phase of this rulemaking action is described in the proposed rule titled, "Acceptability of Plant Performance for Severe Accidents; Scope of Consideration in Safety Regulations (RIN 3150-AE38)."

The Commission is also proposing to deny the remaining issue in a petition for rulemaking (PRM-50-20) filed by Free Environment, Inc., et al. (cont)

4807. DECOMMISSIONING RECORDKEEPING AND LICENSE TERMINATION: DOCUMENTATION ADDITIONS

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 030; 10 CFR 040; 10 CFR 050; 10 CFR 070; 10 CFR 072

Abstract: The proposed rule, in conjunction with the decommissioning rule published on June 27, 1988 (53 FR 24018), would modify the Commission's decommissioning regulations to make them more specific and more easily implemented. Current regulations require recordkeeping provisions as well as termination plans or their equivalent to be filed with the Commission at cessation of operations. However, the current rules do not specify a listing of the land, structures, and equipment of the licensed facility or the submittal of an operating history of the facility. This type of information is important to ensure that all features and aspects of the facility and its attendant activities that could have the potential for resulting in radioactive contamination have been dealt with in the decommissioning process and that a record exists that can be stored for future reference which contains the relevant features of the license termination process requirements. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: There does not appear to be any reasonable alternative to rulemaking action. However, based on the recordkeeping requirements contained in the June 27, 1988 final rule, it is expected that most of the information explicitly required in in the proposed amendments will be available with minimal effort. While proposed amendments would affect all licensees, it is anticipated that the requirements would place minimal burden on them. Moreover, ensuring that the information is explicitly available should help expedite NRC approval of licensee decommissioning activities and may reduce the overall licensee and NRC efforts required to terminate a license.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 061

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to require the applicant for a low-level radioactive waste (LLW) disposal facility license to provide information on the "quality assurance (QA) program, tailored to LLW disposal," that is planned for the facility instead of the "quality control (QC) program." The proposed rule would also amend Part 61 to clarify that above-ground disposal methods such as above-ground vaults are included within the regulatory scope of Part 61. The rulemaking will also correct an administrative error in section 61.80(i)(1) which directs licensees to submit copies of the required annual report to the Director, Division of High-Level Waste Management, rather than the Director, Division of Low-Level Waste Management and Decommissioning. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: The Commission has determined that these changes are needed to reduce regulatory uncertainty or confusion in the current regulation. These amendments will codify existing NRC positions or correct administrative errors and are not extensive. The proposed changes should simplify LLW disposal facility licensing interactions for NRC, the Agreement States, and potential applicants for LLW disposal licenses.

4809. LIST OF APPROVED SPENT FUEL STORAGE CASKS: ADDITIONS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 072

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations governing the storage of spent fuel at nuclear power reactor sites in NRC-certified casks under a general license. Four spent-fuel storage casks have been certified and are currently listed in 10 CFR 72.214. The proposed rule would approve and list two additional casks: Cask TN-24 from Transnuclear Inc. and Cask VSC-24 from Pacific Sierra Nuclear Associates. A Safety Evaluation Report has been completed for each of these casks. An operating nuclear power reactor licensee may choose from any of the listed casks to store spent fuel at the reactor site under a general license.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 030; 10 CFR 040; 10 CFR 050; 10 CFR 070; 10 CFR 072

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations by revising the current decommissioning financial assurance requirements to allow non-electric utility reactor licensees who meet stringent financial criteria tests to provide self-guarantee as a means to comply with the decommissioning regulations. Under the current decommissioning regulations, non-electric utility reactor licensees are permitted to provide financial assurance of decommissioning funds through (1) prepayment or external sinking fund in the form of a trust, escrow account, government fund, certificate of deposit, or deposit of government securities; (2) surety method or insurance in the form of a surety bond, letter of credit, or line of credit; or (3) parent company guarantee. These funding methods do not permit non-electric utility reactor licensees to provide financial assurance by submitting a self-guarantee that meets or exceeds the criteria for a qualifying parent company guarantee.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations to ensure that the presence of NRC safeguards inspectors at certain fuel cycle facilities is not announced or otherwise communicated to licensees and contractor personnel without the expressed request to do so by the inspector. Affected sites are limited to fuel cycle facilities using or possessing formula quantities of strategic special nuclear material The purpose of this amendment is to increase the effectiveness of unannounced safeguards inspections and to enable an inspector to get a more accurate view of normal operations at affected facilities.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 035

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission has voted to override the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) disapproval of the information collection requirements imposed in the final rule entitled, "Quality Management Program and Misadministrations" (July 25, 1991; 58 FR 34104). As part of this final rule, the Commission is amending its regulations to reflect OMB's assignment of a new control number to these information collection requirements. The Commission reevaluated the need for this final rule and the information collection requirements it contains. The Commission continues to believe that its requirements for written quality management programs and misadministration reports, if complied with, have a reasonable likelihood of decreasing misadministrations (e.g., wrong dose or wrong patient) with a small incremental cost to licensees. Without the reporting requirements, it would not be possible to implement and enforce these regulations effectively.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 110

Abstract: The final rule amends the Commission's regulations in Subparts A through E of Part 110 governing the import and export of nuclear equipment and material. The Commission has reviewed its processing of nuclear export license applications and has determined that the following do not raise issues that require Commission review: (1) license applications for the export of any quantity of heavy water to Canada, and (2) license applications for the export of low-enriched uranium to EURATOM and Japan for enrichment to no more than 5% U-235. The Executive Branch agencies also reviewed their processing of nuclear export license applications and have determined that Executive Branch review will not be required for these license applications. Iran, Iraq, and Libya would be added to the list of embargoed destinations.

In addition, the NRC has identified other minor changes that are warranted. These proposed changes would:'(1) permit the expedited import and export of certain nuclear material where no significant proliferation risks are involved, (cont)

To recognize this functional distinction and to provide for service of process on those RTC officials who are most likely to be able to facilitate a prompt and constructive response, the regulation designates RTC's agents for service of process when acting in its various capacities. The action will impose no cost upon the public or the agency, since legal process must already be served upon some agent. It will confer a benefit by clarifying the manner of serving RTC in its various capacities and facilitating a prompt response.

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda.

SUMMARY: The Securities and Exchange Commission is publishing an agenda of its open and anticipated rulemaking actions, pursuant to chapter 6 of the Administrative Procedure Act and according to guidance given by the Office of Management and Budget. The agenda is a general announcement to the public intended to provide advance notice of rulemaking actions which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Information in the agenda is believed to be accurate as of February 25, 1993, the date on which compilation of the data was completed for transmittal to the Regulatory Information Service Center. The Commission invites questions and public comment on individual agenda entries.

DATES: Public comments are due by June 30, 1993.

ADDRESSES: Persons wishing to submit written comments should file three copies of their comments with Jonathan G. Katz, Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street NW., Room 6184, Stop 6-9, Washington, DC 20549. All submissions should refer to File No. S7-10-93 and will be available for public inspection and copying at the Commission's Public Reference Room, Room 1026, at the same address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Kevin M. Kirchoff, Senior Counsel, Office of the General Counsel, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street NW., Room 6148, Stop 6-6, Washington, DC 20549, (202) 272-2428. Each specific item on the agenda indicates the names and addresses of persons to contact with regard to such item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA)[1] requires each Federal agency, during April and October of each year, to publish in the Federal Register an agenda identifying rules which the agency expects to propose or adopt that are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.[2]

The RFA specifically provides that publication of the agenda does not preclude an agency from considering or acting on any matter not included in the agenda and that an agency is not required to consider or act on any matter which is included in the agenda.[3] The inclusion of a rule in the Commission's agenda reflects only its staff's preliminary judgment that the rule, if adopted or as it exists, may have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.[4] This preliminary judgment may be changed after further analysis.

The Commission's staff completed the compilation of data for this edition of the agenda in February 1993, immediately prior to transmittal of the data to the Regulatory Information Service Center for inclusion in the Unified Agenda. Information in the Commission's agenda, therefore, is believed to be accurate as of February 26, 1993. The agenda includes new entries, entries carried over from previous publications, and rulemaking actions which have been completed (or withdrawn) since publication of the October 1992 agenda. New entries are indicated with a bullet next to their Sequence Number. Priority items are identified under the heading "Significance," followed by the words "Agency Priority."

The Commission's April 1993 regulatory flexibility agenda is set forth below. The Commission invites public comment on the individual entries in its agenda.

Dated: March 9, 1993.

By the Commission.

Margaret H. McFarland,

Deputy Secretary.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposals would address the problems caused by developments in the money markets since 1983. The Division of Investment Management will be reviewing the conditions of Rule 2a-7 applicable to tax exempt funds and considering whether any recommendations should be made to the Commission to modify those conditions. In connection with this project, the Division will also make a recommendation to the Commission concerning proposed amendments to Rules 134, 436, and 482 under the Securities Act of 1933. The amendments, if adopted, would permit money market funds to use in their prospectuses a security rating assigned by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization (NRSRO) without first obtaining the NRSRO's consent to being named pursuant to section 7 of the Securities Act.

Abstract: The Division of Market Regulation anticipates recommending that the Commission propose amendments to Rules 17a-3 and 17a-4 that would require records relating to customer brokerage orders and dealer transactions to be marked to reflect whether they are "solicited" or "unsolicited." The proposed amendments would provide the Commission and securities self-regulatory organizations with information that would facilitate the enforcement of cases involving penny stock fraud and serve generally to promote compliance with customer suitability requirements and facilitate supervision by securities firms of sales practices.

Abstract: The Commission proposed for comment Rule 17Ad-16 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Rule 17Ad-16, if adopted, would require a transfer agent to provide written notice to securities depositories when terminating or assuming transfer agent services on behalf of an issuer or when changing its name or address. The proposed rule would address a continuing problem affecting prompt securities certificate transfer and increase the efficiency of the National System for the Clearance and Settlement of Securities Transactions as set forth in section 17A of the Act. Transfer agents with no name or address changes and with no change in the issues for which they provide services will not be affected by this rule and will not need to file a notice. The Division expects a majority of small transfer agents and in-house transfer agents to fall into this category. Compliance costs would be minimal for transfer agents even when the rule applies. A transfer agent that changes its name or address or terminates or assumes transfer agent services on behalf of an issue need only file a short notice with one of three registered securities depositories explaining the change.

Abstract: The Division of Market Regulation anticipates recommending to the Commission amendments to Rule 19h-1, which requires self-regulatory organizations ("SROs") to submit to the Commission filings whenever a person subject to a statutory disqualification, as defined in section 3(a)(39) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, seeks to become associated with or to continue his/her association with a broker-dealer that is a member of an SRO. Congress recently amended the definition of statutory disqualification to include, among other things, convictions for any felony within the last ten years and disciplinary actions taken by foreign governmental entities and SROs. The proposed amendments will address the recent changes in the definition of statutory disqualification and other areas of the rule that experience has shown can be simplified and improved

Abstract: Rule 10b-6 prohibits persons engaged in a distribution of securities from bidding for or purchasing, or inducing others to purchase, such securities, any security of the same class and series as those securities, or any right to purchase any such security, until they have completed their participation in the distribution. On October 29, 1992, the Commission proposed for public comment a new exception to Rule 10b-6 and a new companion rule, Rule 10b-6A(T) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 to permit "passive market making" in connection with certain distributions of securities quoted on NASDAQ during the period when Rule 10b-6 would otherwise prohibit such activity. The new provisions would apply to a firm commitment distribution of securities that qualify for the two business day "cooling-off" period of Rule 10b-6 and are designated as "national market system" securities. A passive market maker's bids would be limited by the level of bids of market makers who are not participating in the distribution. The proposal was made in response to a petition for rulemaking filed by the National Association of Securities Dealers.

In view of the significant changes that have taken place in the securities markets since the rule's adoption and the coverage of other antifraud and anti-manipulation provisions of federal securities laws, particularly Rules 10b-5 and 10b-6 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the Commission proposed that Rule 10b-2 be rescinded.

Rule 10b-7 governs stabilizing activities to facilitate distributions of securities and Rule 10b-8 governs certain activities during distributions of securities through rights. The Commission has proposed a comprehensive review of Rules 10b-6, 10b-7, and 10b-8. This review will examine both the domestic application of those rules and well as the extraterritorial effect of their application on multinational securities distributions. This review also would address such issues as distribution and stabilization practices in the U.S. and abroad, and the impact of the rules on activities that are customary and lawful in foreign jurisdictions.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 15(c)(6)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.15(c)(6)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule is designed to reduce the risk inherent in settling securities transactions by reducing the number of trades to be settled; enhancing the liquidity of the corporate securities markets by permitting sellers to move from these to other markets on a more timely basis; bringing the market for corporate securities into closer conformity with the government securities and derivatives markets; and increasing harmonization with international markets. Among several alternatives, the following were considered: retaining T+3 settlement but requiring a daily mark-to-market; and requiring their participants to settle trades by T+3. Although these alternatives were considered, the gravity of the change to T+3 requires an affirmative statement by the Commission. The change to T+3 may result in an increase in a broker-dealer's cost of financing the purchase of customer securities until the broker-dealer receives payment from its customers, and conversion to T+3 will require large and small broker-dealers to upgrade their computer systems.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION (SEC) — Proposed Rule Stage

4860. SIMPLIFICATION OF REGISTRATION STATEMENTS FILED BY, AND ADVERTISING RULES FOR, UNIT INVESTMENT TRUSTS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-8; 15 USC 77g; 15 USC 77j

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 239.16; 17 CFR 274.12

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On March 9, 1987, the Commission reproposed for public comment Form N-7, a new form for registering unit investment trusts (UITs) and their securities under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933. Form N-7 was originally proposed by the Commission on May 14, 1985. Adoption of Form N-7 would: (1) codify the disclosure requirements for UITs into one form; (2) codify the disclosure standards that have been developed for UITs; and (3) shorten and simplify the prospectus used in connection with the sale of units in both the initial offering and in the secondary market maintained by the sponsor. The requirement for audited financial statements would be eliminated under certain circumstances. Under the reproposal, the requirement that registrants include certain third-party financial statements in the registration statement would be extended to insurers as well as guarantors of portfolio securities of the trust.

The Division of Investment Management is also undertaking to develop for recommendation to the Commission a rule proposal setting forth a uniform method of computing UIT yields. (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: Currently, UITs advertise their performance by means of an "estimated current return," which shows estimated cash flow. However, in a market environment characterized by fluctuating interest rates, estimated current return may not accurately convey the yield of UITs. A uniform method of computation would permit investors to make more informed investment decisions by enabling them to compare the performance of different trusts. The staff is studying a proposal for a uniform method of computing UIT yields submitted by the Investment Company Institute.

Abstract: Absent an exception, every solicitation of a proxy, authorization or consent with respect to any security issued or to be issued by a registered investment company is subject to rules adopted pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Investment Company Act of 1940 concerning solicitations of proxies. Solicitations to which the rules apply may not commence unless each person solicited is furnished or has previously been furnished with a proxy statement containing specified information prepared in accordance with certain rules and the material has been filed with the Commission. The existing proxy rules were adopted in piecemeal fashion and have been the subject of frequent changes. This has led to some duplicative and, in certain cases, complex requirements. To the extent that a proxy statement contains repetitive material or is overly complicated and difficult to read, it may not effectively perform its intended function of communicating meaningful information to security holders in order that they may make informed voting decisions. In order to update the proxy regulations and, in doing so, improve the (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: readability of proxy statements and eliminate unnecessary disclosure costs, the Division of Investment Management has commenced a comprehensive review of the proxy regulations as they relate to investment companies. There does not currently exist a basis upon which to quantify the reduced costs and burdens of the revisions, if any, that might result from the staff review. However, if revisions were proposed that applied to all registered investment companies soliciting proxies, unless the solicitation is excepted, such revisions could have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Abstract: The Division of Investment Management is considering whether to recommend that the Commission propose a rule that would codify many exemptions from provisions of the Investment Company Act granted to two-tier real estate limited partnerships. Exemptions pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act have generally been granted where: 1) The two-tier partnership invests in limited partnerships engaged in the development and building of housing for low- and moderate-income persons; 2) the limited partnership interests are sold only to suitable investors; and 3) requirements for fair dealing by the general partner of the issuer with the limited partners of the issuer are included in the basic organizational documents of the partnership. The regulation would reduce the number of exemptive relief applications received by the Office of Investment Company Regulation.

Abstract: The Division of Investment Management is considering whether to recommend that the Commission propose (i) a rule that would define the conditions under which an open-end management investment company may issue multiple classes of securities representing interests in the same portfolio, and (ii) certain related disclosure requirements. The Commission granted several exemptions from provisions of the Investment Company Act to permit open-end investment companies to issue multiple classes of securities, with each class subject to a different distribution arrangement. The Division is considering whether to codify elements of prior exemptive orders. The rule, if adopted, might reduce the number of exemptive relief applications received by the Office of Investment Company Regulation.

The proposed amendments to rule 12b-1 would clarify and enhance standards for the approval or continuation of Rule 12b-1 distribution plans, place limits on certain practices that have developed under the rule, and prohibit funds using these plans from holding themselves out as no-load funds. The proposed amendments to rule 17d-3 would allow a mutual fund, under certain conditions, to enter into joint distribution agreements with affiliated funds, other affiliated persons, and the fund's principal underwriter. The Division of Investment Management withdrew the proposal from the Unified Agenda to consider it in the context of a comprehensive study of the Act. The Division now is reconsidering the proposal, in light of the study's recommendations, as a separate rulemaking proposal.

Abstract: Because the borrowing of government securities plays an important role in the government securities market, the Commission believes that, for purposes of the customer protection rule, the categories of instruments that broker-dealers can provide to customer lenders of government securities should be expanded to include certain instruments currently not listed in the rule. Therefore, the Commission has proposed an amendment to the customer protection rule that would allow broker-dealers to provide, in addition to the instruments currently listed in the rule, certain other securities as the collateral in government securities borrowings.

Abstract: In response to the October 1987 market break and as a part of its comprehensive market break study, the Division of Market Regulation examined the specialist financial responsibility rules and specialist financial surveillance systems of the various exchanges. As a result, the Commission has proposed amendments to the net capital rule that, among other things, will make the rule applicable to certain specialists that are now exempt from the rule. In addition to the consequential overall financial accountability and discipline that results from the application of the net capital rule, the Commission believes it would be desirable to have a uniform measure whereby it may review the financial health and liquidity of all specialists at all exchanges.

Abstract: In response to the October 1987 market break and as a part of its comprehensive market break study, the Division of Market Regulation examined the appropriate levels of minimum net capital required of registered broker-dealers. As a result, the Commission has proposed amendments to the net capital rule that, among other things, would raise the minimum net capital required of various classes of registered broker-dealers. The Commission believes that these higher levels of required net capital are justified based upon the risks posed by undercapitalized firms to customers and to the securities system as a whole. On November 24, 1992, the Commission amended the net capital rule to raise the absolute minimum net capital required of certain registered broker-dealers. The increases to the minimum net capital levels are to be implemented over a period of eighteen months. In addition, the two methods of computing deductions for equity securities positions, or haircuts, were standardized. Certain changes were also made to the computation of aggregate indebtedness.

Abstract: Rule 15c2-11 governs the submission or publication of quotations by brokers or dealers for certain over-the-counter securities. Currently, the rule applies principally to the initiation or resumption of quotations in the National Daily Quotation Service, which is also known as the "pink sheets." The Commission has proposed amendments to the rule that would substantially narrow the piggyback exception so that self-piggybacking would be excepted under defined conditions and every broker-dealer generally would be required to obtain and review the specified information before submitting a quotation for a covered security. An additional amendment would encourage the creation of one or more central information repositories by permitting broker-dealers, under certain conditions, to rely on the presence of required issuer information in such a repository instead of maintaining those files internally. The amendments would further the Commission's efforts to combat fraud and manipulative conduct in the penny stock market.

Adjustments of stabilizing bids based on exchange rate fluctuations between the currencies of the markets on which the security is being stabilized would also be permitted. The amendments would also deem foreign stabilizing transactions during an offering of a foreign security in the United States made in compliance with comparable foreign regulations not to be in violation of Rule 10b-7.

Abstract: The Commission had proposed, and received comments on, amendments to Rule 12d3-1 that would facilitate the acquisition by investment companies of the equity securities of foreign securities firms. The Division of Investment Management withdrew the proposal (RIN 3235-AD19) from the Unified Agenda to consider it in the context of a comprehensive study of the Investment Company Act of 1940. After again considering the proposal as a separate rulemaking proposal, the Commission has proposed revised amendments to Rule 12d3 1 that would

Abstract: The proposal provides an exemption from the payment of fees for certain securities transactions. Many transactions occurring after regular trading hours involve portfolio trades. These transactions when executed overseas, currently may be exempt from section 31 transaction fees pursuant to Rule 31-1(e). The amendment to Rule 31-1, as proposed by the Commission, would provide a limited exemption from the payment of section 31 fees for sales involving 15 securities or more at one aggregate price occurring on or off an exchange in listed securities after regular trading hours. By aligning the fee exemption for after-hours portfolio trading to match the treatment for overseas trading, the proposal should promote the public interest and equal protection of markets because it will remove an incentive for executing these trades overseas.

Abstract: The Commission had proposed, and received comments on, new Rule 6c-10 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 which would provide a registered open-end management investment company, other than a registered insurance company separate account, and certain related persons with exemptions from the Act to the extent necessary to permit the fund to impose sales loads on a deferred basis. The Commission had also proposed amendments to Form N-1A, the registration statement for funds, to accommodate the deferred sales loads that would be permitted if Rule 6c-10 is adopted. The Division of Investment Management withdrew the proposal (previous RIN: 3235-AD18) from the Unified Agenda to consider it in the context of a comprehensive study of the Act. The staff is now reconsidering the proposal as a separate rulemaking proposal.

Abstract: The Commission proposed rules providing, under appropriate conditions, comparable treatment for investment companies organized as limited partnerships as for investment companies organized as corporations. Proposed Rule 2a19-2 would exempt certain general partners of an investment company organized as a limited partnership from being considered "interested persons" of the investment company, its investment adviser, or its principal underwriter, solely on the basis of their status as partners or co-partners. Proposed Rule 2a3-1 would exempt certain limited partners of an investment company organized as a limited partnership from being considered "affiliated persons" of the investment company, other partners of the investment company, its investment adviser, or its principal underwriter, solely on the basis of their status as partners or co-partners. This item is a reconsideration of an item that was previously on the Unified Agenda and withdrawn (see prior RIN 3235-AD83). Abstract: The Commission proposed new rules and rule amendments under the Investment Company Act to provide that closed-end investment companies may repurchase their shares at periodic intervals at net asset value and that open-end investment companies and registered separate accounts may take up to 31 days to pay redemption proceeds and/or may redeem only at periodic intervals. Amendments to rules and a new rule under the Securities Exchange Act would apply to closed-end periodic repurchases. The proposals would permit greater investment in less liquid securities than is permitted for open-end companies and would permit insurance companies to use investment vehicles that are more consistent with the long-term nature of variable insurance contracts.

Abstract: The Commission has proposed for public comment amendments to rules 10f-3, 17a-7, 17e-1, 17f-4, and 22c-1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940. The proposed amendments would eliminate requirements in these rules that directors annually review certain arrangements and procedures, and require instead that directors make and approve changes only as the board deems necessary. The proposals are intended to substitute more meaningful requirements for the current annual review requirements, which are not necessary to further the purposes of the rules or to protect investors.

Abstract: Form N-2 is the registration statement form under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933 for closed-end management investment companies other than small business investment companies and companies that issue periodic payment plan certificates or are sponsors or depositors of companies issuing such certificates. Included within the registration statement are the companies' prospectuses used in offering their securities to the public. The Commission approved a simplified three-part form because prospectuses had become too cumbersome for the average investor to understand and requirements resulted in the disclosure of much information that was not necessarily material to an investment decision.

The revisions expand the availability of Form S-3, the short-form registration statement under the Securities Act, to additional issuers and classes of transactions. The changes also result in the extension of Rule 415, the shelf registration rule, to a greater variety of offerings, including investment-grade asset-backed securities. Abstract: The Division of Market Regulation anticipates recommending that the Commission publish for comment a release proposing amendments to Rule 10b-7, which governs stabilizing to facilitate an offering. The release would also codify certain interpretive positions regarding the persons who may rely on the rule and the type of offerings covered by the rule. Finally, the provisions of the rule would be restructured and simplified.

Abstract: In connection with the Commission's plan to coordinate the broker-dealer registration process with the Central Registration Depository (CRD), the Commission has adopted amendments to Rules 15b1-2, 15Ca2-2 and 15Ba2-2(b) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. The amendments eliminate the requirement that applicants for broker-dealer registration file a statement of financial condition and representations regarding their financial resources as part of their applications on Form BD. The rules of the self-regulatory organizations currently require broker-dealers to file a statement of financial condition (or to otherwise demonstrate their financial ability to conduct business as a broker-dealer) with their applications for membership. To implement the CRD plan, the Commission also has adopted several amendments to its broker-dealer registration and reporting rules, including amendments to Form BD.

Abstract: Rule 144A, which was adopted in 1990, provides a safe harbor exemption from the registration requirement of the Securities Act of 1933 for offers and sales of securities exclusively to "qualified institutional buyers," the rule's term for substantial institutional purchasers. The Commission has adopted amendments that recognize several categories of such purchasers that are in legal forms not previously recognized within the relevant definition. These are commingled trust funds holding employee benefit plan monies and unregistered insurance company separate accounts. The amendments also allow the inclusion of U.S. government securities in the calculation of qualifying amounts of securities investments.

4928. MINIMUM STANDARDS OF COMPETENCE, EXPERIENCE, INTEGRITY, AND FITNESS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1441a(a)(13); 12 USC 1441a(n)(6)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 1504

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Oversight Board is required by statute to provide regulations establishing procedures for ensuring that any individual who is performing, directly or indirectly, any function or service on behalf of the Resolution Trust Corporation meets minimum standards of competence, experience, integrity, and fitness. Existing regulations are included in rules governing employee responsibilities and conduct, which were superseded for the most part, effective February 3, 1993, by the governmentwide rule issued by the Office of Government Ethics. Although the existing minimum standards, codified at 12 CFR 1505.40, remain in effect, the Thrift Depositor Protection Oversight Board will prescribe a new separate rule under its independent statutory authority.

INDEX TO ENTRIES THAT MAY AFFECT SMALL ENTITIES

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601) requires that agencies publish regulatory agendas identifying those rules that may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Agencies meet that requirement by including the information in their submissions for the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

The following index lists the regulatory actions that agencies in the Unified Agenda believe may have effects on small businesses, small governmental jurisdictions, or small organizations. The Sequence Number (Seq. No.) of the entry identifies the location of the entry in this edition of the Agenda. For further information, see the Regulatory Information Service Center's Introduction to the Unified Agenda in Part II of this issue.

INDEX TO ENTRIES THAT MAY AFFECT GOVERNMENT LEVELS

Executive Order 12612 of October 26, 1987, entitled "Federalism" (3 CFR 1987 Comp., p. 252) directs Executive departments and agencies to identify proposed regulatory provisions that have significant federalism implications. As part of this effort, agencies include in their submissions for the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations information on whether their regulatory actions have an effect on various levels of government.

The following index lists the regulatory actions that agencies in the Unified Agenda believe may have effects on local, State, or Federal levels of government. The Sequence Number (Seq. No.) of the entry identifies the location of the entry in this edition of the Agenda. For further information, see the Regulatory Information Service Center's Introduction to the Unified Agenda in Part II of this issue.

Title 3—

The President

National Credit Education Week, 1993

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Consumer credit is an integral part of the free enterprise economy of the United States. The vast array of credit products has expanded opportunities for consumers. At the same time, this trend has increased consumers' need for simple, understandable information about their options. Informed consumers who know their choices, rights, and responsibilities are better able to choose and use credit wisely. The prudent use of credit increases economic stability and enhances market competition.

The theme of this year's observance, "Good Credit—Unlimited Opportunities," recognizes that consumers, with careful budgeting and planning, can benefit from increased choices and opportunities in today's marketplace. Credit education is crucial to helping the public use credit wisely and responsibly. A good credit record can help a consumer obtain a job, finance a child's education, and obtain a mortgage to buy a home.

Tests of adults and high school students across the Nation show that consumers in the United States are not prepared adequately to deal with complex consumer credit choices. Even though the rights of consumers in credit transactions are guaranteed in Federal and State laws, most consumers have little understanding of their rights or of the agencies responsible for protecting these rights. Consumers clearly can benefit a great deal from expanded consumer credit education efforts.

In recognition of the importance of the prudent use of credit, the Congress, by Public Law 102–483, has designated the week beginning April 18, 1993, as "National Credit Education Week" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning April 18, 1993, as National Credit Education Week. I encourage all Americans—particularly business people, educators, public officials, consumer advocates, community organizations, and members of the media—to observe this week with appropriate programs and activities to educate and inform consumers about their credit rights and responsibilities and about the benefits of the wise use of credit.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-second day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and ninety-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and seventeenth.

William J. Clinton

Proclamation 6548 of April 23, 1993

Nancy Moore Thurmond National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week, 1993

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

On April 14, 1993, the promising life of Nancy Moore Thurmond was taken in an auto accident. In the heartbreaking moments after her death, Nancy's parents, Senator Strom Thurmond and his wife Nancy, made the decision that their daughter's organs should be donated to others. Through this selfless act, the Thurmonds redeemed the promise of Nancy Moore Thurmond's youth and helped to sustain the lives of other human beings. In memory of Nancy, we commit ourselves this week to understanding what the donation of organs can mean.

In the history of medicine, few advances have been more awe-inspiring than successful organ and tissue transplants. In recent years we have seen the miracle of terminally ill patients receiving a second chance at life with a new heart, liver, lung, or kidney. We have seen children with leukemia regain their health through bone marrow transplants; we have witnessed the restoration of sight to the blind through new corneas; and we have seen thousands of Americans resuming normal lives after receiving a transplanted organ or tissue. But many others still wait, and many die waiting for a suitable organ to become available.

Today there are more than 30,000 patients on the national transplant waiting list, and a new patient is added to the list every 20 minutes. The need for organs far surpasses the number donated each year. We must increase public awareness of the successes of transplantation and the urgent need for increased donation. The American public needs to know that by completing an organ donor card and carrying it, and by making their families aware of their wishes to donate, they may give the gift of life to others.

Americans are a caring and giving people. Many Americans who have lost their loved ones in tragic accidents have found some measure of comfort in knowing that despite their loss, others may live. The Thurmond family can take solace in the knowledge that their beautiful daughter, Nancy Moore Thurmond, gave life to others.

To honor Nancy Moore Thurmond, and to focus public attention on the desperate need for organ donors, the Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 66, has designated the week beginning April 18, 1993, as "Nancy Moore Thurmond National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week" and has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation in observance of this week.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week of April 18 through April 24, 1993, as Nancy Moore Thurmond National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week. I urge all health care professionals, educators, the media, public and private organizations concerned with organ donation and transplantation, and all Americans to join me in supporting this humanitarian action. In the memory of their loved ones, and in the life they have shared with others, Nancy Thurmond and all other organ donors will live on.

Cancer Control Month, 1993

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Last year, more than 1.1 million Americans were likely to develop cancer. Another 520,000 were likely to die from the disease.

Cancer remains the second leading cause of death among women in the United States, accounting for approximately 245,000 deaths in 1992. Breast cancer is now the leading cause of death in women ages 40 to 44. Prostate cancer accounted for approximately 132,000 new cases of cancer in men in 1992 and is second only to lung cancer as the leading cause of death for men. No one of any race, age, gender, or socioeconomic status is immune to the many forms of this deadly disease.

The National Cancer Institute, through its nationwide Cancer Information Service, and the American Cancer Society, through its national programs and many local offices, reach millions of people with information about disease prevention. Community service and outreach efforts promote early detection of breast and cervical cancer and increase awareness of the risks of skin cancer.

Every American should understand that the ability to destroy cancer relies on detection in its early stages. Outreach efforts are also vital in informing our citizens of the dangers of tobacco use, of the importance of a healthy diet, and of the need to maintain a desirable weight.

Fewer Americans smoke now than in 1965, and between 1964 and 1987, three-quarters of a million smoking-related deaths were avoided. The general population has become increasingly aware of the dangers of environmental exposure, poor dietary habits, and not seeking periodic examinations for early detection and treatment.

We are fortunate to live at a time when early detection techniques are improving rapidly. By investing in science and technologies, we all will benefit from medical and scientific advances in disease prevention and treatment. Even the development of a vaccine to prevent cancer may be possible in the future.

Although significant progress has been made in combatting the disease, we must renew our commitment to the work that still must be done. Through an integrated system of public education and research, we can constantly improve cancer prevention and control.

In 1938, the Congress of the United States passed a joint resolution (52 Stat. 148; 36 U.S.C. 150) requesting the President to issue an annual proclamation declaring April as "Cancer Control Month."

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the month of April 1993 as Cancer Control Month. I invite the Governors of the 50 States and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Mayor of the District of Columbia, and the appropriate officials of all other areas under the American flag to issue similar proclamations. I also ask health care professionals, private industry, community groups, insurance companies, and all other interested organizations and individual citizens to unite to publicly reaffirm our Nation's continuing commitment to controlling cancer.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-third day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and ninety-three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and seventeenth.

Rules and Regulations

Federal Register
Vol. 58, No. 79
Tuesday, April 27, 1993

This section of the FEDERAL REGISTER contains regulatory documents having general applicability and legal effect, most of which are keyed to and codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, which is published under 50 titles pursuant to 44 U.S.C. 1510.

The Code of Federal Regulations is sold by the Superintendent of Documents. Prices of new books are listed in the first FEDERAL REGISTER issue of each week.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

12 CFR Parts 207, 220, 221 and 224

Regulations G, T, U and X; Securities Credit Transactions; List of Marginable OTC Stocks; List of Foreign Margin Stocks

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Final rule; determination of applicability of regulations.

SUMMARY: The List of Marginable OTC Stocks (OTC List) is composed of stocks traded over-the-counter (OTC) in the United States that have been determined by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to be subject to the margin requirements under certain Federal Reserve regulations. The List of Foreign Margin Stocks (Foreign List) is composed of foreign equity securities that have met the Board's eligibility criteria under Regulation T. The OTC List and the Foreign List are published four times a year by the Board. This document sets forth additions to or deletions from the previous OTC List. There are no additions to or deletions from the previous Foreign List. Both Lists were last published on February 1, 1993 (58 FR 6602) and effective on February 10, 1993.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 10, 1993.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peggy Wolffrum, Securities Regulation Analyst, Division of Banking Supervision and Regulation, (202) 452-2781, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, DC 20551. For the hearing impaired only, contact Dorothea Thompson, Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) at (202) 452-3544.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Listed below are additions to or deletions from the OTC List. This supersedes the last OTC List which was effective February 8, 1993. Additions and deletions to the OTC List were last published on February 1, 1993 (58 FR 6602). A copy of the complete OTC List is available from the Federal Reserve Banks.

The OTC List includes those stocks that meet the criteria in Regulations G, T and U (12 CFR parts 207, 220 and 221, respectively). This determination also affects the applicability of Regulation X (12 CFR part 224). These stocks have the degree of national investor interest, the depth and breadth of market, and the availability of information respecting the stock and its issuer to warrant regulation in the same fashion as exchange-traded securities. The OTC List also includes any OTC stock designated under a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) rule as qualified for trading in the national market system (NMS security). Additional OTC stocks may be designated as NMS securities in the interim between the Board's quarterly publications. They will become automatically marginable upon the effective date of their NMS designation. The names of these stocks are available at the Board and the SEC and will be incorporated into the Board's next quarterly publication of the OTC List.

There are no new additions, deletions or changes to the Board's Foreign List, which was last published February 1, 1993 (58 FR 6602) and effective February 8, 1993. This notice serves as republication of that List with a new effective date of May 10, 1993. The Foreign List includes those securities that meet the criteria in Regulation T and are eligible for margin treatment at broker-dealers on the same basis as domestic margin securities. A copy of the complete Foreign List is available from the Federal Reserve Banks.

Public Comment and Deferred Effective Date

The requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 with respect to notice and public participation were not followed in connection with the issuance of this amendment due to the objective character of the criteria for inclusion and continued inclusion on the Lists specified in 12 CFR 207.6(a) and (b), 220.17(a), (b), (c) and (d), and 221.7(a) and (b). No additional useful information would be gained by public participation. The full requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 with respect to deferred effective date have not been followed in connection with the issuance of this amendment because the Board finds that it is in the public interest to facilitate investment and credit decisions based in whole or in part upon the composition of these Lists as soon as possible. The Board has responded to a request by the public and allowed approximately a two-week delay before the Lists are effective.

Airworthiness Directives; Boeing Model 737 Series Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Boeing Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes, that requires structural inspections of older airplanes. This amendment is prompted by reports of incidents involving fatigue cracking and corrosion in transport category airplanes that are approaching or have exceeded their economic design service goal. The actions specified by this AD are intended to prevent degradation of the structural capabilities of the affected airplanes. This amendment relates to the recommendations of the Airworthiness Assurance Task Force assigned to review Model 737 series airplanes, which indicate that, to assure long term continued operational safety, various structural inspections should be accomplished.

DATES: Effective May 27, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of May 27, 1993.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Boeing Commercial Airplane Group, P.O. Box 3707, Seattle, Washington 98124. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain Boeing Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes was published in the Federal Register on October 30, 1992 (57 FR 49151). That action proposed to require structural inspections of older airplanes.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comments received.

One commenter supports the proposed rule.

One commenter requests that a statement in the Summary section of the proposal be clarified to state that the incidents prompting issuance of this AD are due to fatigue cracking and corrosion in transport category airplanes that are approaching or have exceeded their "economic design service goal" rather than their "design life goal" as stated in the proposal. The FAA concurs. The final rule has been revised accordingly.

This same commenter notes that the Discussion section of the proposal stated that certain service difficulties warranted mandatory inspections rather than mandatory modifications of the airplane, and that these service difficulties could be controlled safely by inspection alone. This commenter regards this discussion as inconsistent, since the modifications described in the service bulletins identified in the referenced Boeing Document are required by AD 90-06-02, Amendment 39-6489 (55 FR 8372, March 7, 1990). The FAA does not concur. While it is true that these service difficulties warranted mandatory inspections, as well as mandatory modifications, and that these service difficulties cannot be controlled safely by inspection alone, the subject of this AD is to require inspections only. The modifications are made mandatory by separate rulemaking action as noted by the commenter. Therefore, no change to the final rule is necessary.

One commenter requests that all references to the service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document be deleted from paragraphs (a) and (b) of the proposal, since the Boeing Document specifies fully the details for accomplishment of the inspections, as well as the thresholds for the initial inspections and the intervals for the repetitive inspections. This commenter notes that all information for the specified inspections, including thresholds and intervals, should be obtained from the Boeing Document to avoid confusion. The FAA concurs. Since the possibility for confusion exists, paragraphs (a) and (b) of the final rule have been revised to clarify that the Boeing Document is to be used as the primary source of service information.

Two commenters object to the proposed compliance times because they are too stringent. One commenter objects to the compliance times for both the initial and repetitive inspections. This commenter notes that the required inspections can be accomplished only at a maintenance facility where special equipment and trained maintenance personnel will be available during "heavy" maintenance ("C" checks), but the proposed repetitive inspection intervals do not coincide with pre-established operators' maintenance schedules. One operator objects only to the proposed initial compliance times because accomplishing the proposed inspection would impose a tremendous hardship due to of the size of its fleet. The FAA infers that the commenters request that the compliance times be extended.

The FAA concurs in part. After further review of Boeing Document Number D6-38505, "Aging Airplane Service Bulletin Structural Modification and Inspection Program," Revision F, dated April 23, 1992 (referenced in the proposal as the appropriate source of service information), the FAA now considers that the initial compliance times for five of the inspections in the Boeing Document are too stringent. This especially is true for those cases in which the airplane has exceeded the threshold specified in the Boeing Document. Therefore, for airplanes for which the phase-in period will establish the applicable compliance time, paragraph (b)(2) of the final rule has been revised to extend the initial compliance time 15 months to provide all operators at least that amount of planning time to accomplish the required inspections. However, the FAA does not concur with the commenter's observation that the compliance times for the repetitive inspections must coincide with the operators' maintenance schedules. The FAA has determined that the compliance time for the repetitive inspections, as proposed, represents the maximum interval of time allowable for the affected airplanes to continue to operate prior to accomplishing the required inspections without compromising safety. Since maintenance schedules vary from operator to operator, there would be no assurance that the inspections will be accomplished during that time. Further, the FAA has verified that accomplishment of the proposed inspections does not necessitate a main base facility and, therefore, would not necessarily have to be carried out only during "heavy" maintenance ("C" checks).

This same commenter requests that, prior to issuance of the final rule, the Model 737 Structures Working Group (SWG) be given the opportunity to review the compliance times specified in the service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document. The FAA does not concur with this commenter's request. After conferring with the Chair and Co-Chair of the SWG, the FAA has determined that all aspects of the 16 service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document, including the compliance times specified in those service bulletins, were reviewed comprehensively at the SWG meetings conducted previously. Consequently, the FAA proceeded with rulemaking action to implement the SWG's recommendations to make mandatory the structural inspections described in those service bulletins at the times specified in the Boeing Document.

One commenter requests that repairs/modifications be accomplished in accordance with Federal Aviation Regulation (FAR) 43 because many of the repairs/modifications contained in the service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document have been deemed ineffective as permanent repairs. The commenter notes that without the flexibility afforded by FAR 43, maintenance facilities would be impacted severely and a tremendous burden would be imposed on them because of the out-of-service time necessary to accomplish the repair/modifications. The FAA does not concur. The FAA has not received any evidence to support this commenter's allegation that the permanent repairs/modifications that are specified in the service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document are ineffective in permanently repairing/modifying findings of discrepancies. After consideration of all the available information, the FAA finds that the repairs/modifications described in the service bulletins provide an acceptable level of safety. Furthermore, under the provisions of paragraph (e) of the final rule, the FAA may approve requests for alternative methods of compliance if data is submitted that substantiates that such methods would provide an acceptable level of safety.

One commenter notes that, in accordance with the recommendations of the SWG, the service bulletins identified in the Boeing Document should have been placed in either Section 4.0 (inspection only) or Section 3.0 (modification only), but not in both sections of the Boeing Document. The FAA does not concur. The FAA has reconfirmed with the SWG Chairman and Co-Chairman that the intent of the SWG was not to preclude the possibility for service bulletins to be placed in both sections of the Boeing Document. Further, the FAA has determined that long term continued operational safety for Boeing Model 737 series airplanes can be ensured best by requiring inspections (Sections 4.0), as well as modifications [(Section 3.0) required by AD 90-06-02], of these older airplanes as they approach or exceed their economic design service goal.

One commenter requests that the term "phase-in period," as used in paragraph (b)(2) of the proposal, be defined. The FAA concurs that clarification is necessary. A note has been added to paragraph (b)(2) of the final rule to state that the initial inspection may be accomplished at the allowable period when the required threshold specified in paragraph (b)(1) is imminent or has elapsed.

After careful review of the available data, including the comments noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes previously described. The FAA has determined that these changes will neither increase the economic burden on any operator nor increase the scope of the AD.

There are approximately 1,144 Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 464 airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 496 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $12,657,920, or $27,280 per airplane. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the requirements of this AD.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption "ADDRESSES."

§39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

93-08-04 Boeing: Amendment 39-8551. Docket 92-NM-168-AD.

Applicability: Model 737-100, -200, and -200C series airplanes, as listed in Section 4 and Appendices A.4 and B.4 of Boeing Document D6-38505, "Aging Airplane Service Bulletin Structural Modification and Inspection Program," Revision F, dated April 23, 1992; certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent degradation of the structural capability of the airplane, accomplish the following:

(a) Accomplish the inspections specified in Section 4 and Appendices A.4 and B.4 of Boeing Document D6-38505, "Aging Airplane Service Bulletin Structural Modification and Inspection Program," Revision F, dated April 23, 1992, within the times specified in paragraph (b) of this AD, and thereafter at intervals not to exceed those specified in the Boeing Document for each inspection.

(b) The maximum initial inspection times for the inspections contained in Section 4 and Appendices A.4 and B.4 of Boeing Document D6-38505, "Aging Airplane Service Bulletin Structural Modification and Inspection Program," Revision F, dated April 23, 1992, shall be the later of the times specified in either paragraph (b)(1) or (b)(2) of this AD:

(1) The threshold for inspection time for the inspection specified in the Boeing Document, measured as a total (flight cycles, time-in-service, as appropriate) accumulated on the airplane; or

(2) The phase-in period for the inspection specified in the Boeing Document, measured from a date 15 months after the effective date of this AD.

Note: The "phase-in period," for the purposes of this AD, is defined as the allowable period to accomplish the initial inspection when the required threshold specified in paragraph (b)(1) of this AD is imminent or has elapsed.

(c) If any of the discrepant conditions identified in the service bulletins are found as a result of the inspections required by this AD, the corresponding corrective action specified in the service bulletins must be accomplished prior to further flight.

(d) The terminating action for each inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD consists of the accomplishment of the modification specified in the corresponding service bulletin.

(e) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Seattle Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Seattle ACO.

Note: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Seattle ACO.

(f) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

(g) The inspections shall be done in accordance with Boeing Document No. D6-38505, "Aging Airplane Service Bulletin Structural Modification and Inspection Program," Revision F, dated April 23, 1992, which contains the following list of effective pages:

Airworthiness Directives; Rigging Innovations, Inc., Skyhook Reserve Pilotchutes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Skyhook reserve pilotchutes, that requires testing the pilotchutes to verify their spring tension, and modification of the pilotchutes, if necessary. This amendment is prompted by an incident of total pack closure of the reserve pilotchute. The actions specified by this AD are intended to ensure safe descent of the parachutist.

DATES: Effective May 27, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of May 27, 1993.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Rigging Innovations, Inc., 236-C East 3rd Street, Perris, California 92570 This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office, 3229 East Spring Street, Long Beach, California; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mauricio J. Kuttler, Aerospace Engineer, Systems and Equipment Branch, ANM-131L, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office, 3229 East Spring Street, Long Beach, California 90806-2425; telephone (310) 988-5355; fax (310) 988-5210.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain Skyhook Reserve Pilotchutes was published in the Federal Register on January 15, 1993 (58 FR 4600). That action proposed to require testing the pilotchutes to verify their spring tension, and modification of the pilotchutes, if necessary.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. No comments were submitted in response to the proposal or the FAA's determination of the cost to the public. The FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule as proposed.

There are approximately 3,194 Skyhook reserve pilotchutes of the affected design in the worldwide fleet. The FAA estimates that 2,750 pilotchutes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 1.5 workhours per pilotchute to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per workhour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $226,875, or $83 per pilotchute. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the requirements of this AD.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption "ADDRESSES."

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. App. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

93-08-02 Rigging Innovations, Inc.: Amendment 39-8549. Docket 92-NM-136-AD.

Applicability: Skyhook reserve pilotchutes, part number 2233-(), serial numbers 2405 through 5551, inclusive; certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To ensure safe descent of the parachutist, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 120 days after the effective date of this AD, conduct a field pilotchute spring test, testing procedure TP-19F001, in accordance with Rigging Innovations Service Bulletin 1513, Revision A, dated June 22, 1992. The minimum spring tension allowable for passing the test is 18 lbs.

(1) If the pilotchute passes the test, mark "SB-1513A" on the cap in indelible ink, along with the date of the test. The pilotchute may then be returned to service.

(2) If the pilotchute fails the test, the pilotchute must be removed from service. Prior to any further use of the pilotchute, it must be modified according to Rigging Innovations Product Modification Procedure PMP-1213. Once it is modified, it may be returned to service.

(b) Within 10 days after completion of the test required by paragraph (a) of this AD, the operator must notify Rigging Innovations, Inc., of all test results. The following information is to be included: Serial number of the Skyhook pilotchute, results of the test including the tension of the spring, date of the test, and name and qualification of the person performing the test. Information collection requirements contained in this regulation have been approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.) and have been assigned OMB Control Number 2120-0056.

(c) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Los Angeles ACO.

Note: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Los Angeles ACO.

(d) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

(e) The test shall be done in accordance with Rigging Innovations Service Bulletin 1513, Revision A, dated June 22, 1992, which includes Attachment A to Service Bulletin 1513, Revision A, June 22, 1992. This incorporation by reference was approved by the Director of the Federal Register in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR part 51. Copies may be obtained from Rigging Innovations, Inc., 236-C East 3rd Street, Perris, California 92570. Copies may be inspected at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, Los Angeles Aircraft Certification Office, 3229 East Spring Street, Long Beach, California; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

(f) This amendment becomes effective on May 27, 1993.

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration, DOT.

gear to detect cracks, inspection of the fitting attachment bolts to verify tightness, and replacement of the fittings or fasteners, if necessary. This amendment is prompted by reports of cracked trunnion fittings. The actions specified by this AD are intended to prevent failure of the upper drag strut trunnion fittings of the nose landing gear, which could lead to collapse of the nose landing gear.

DATES: Effective May 27, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of May 27, 1993.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from de Havilland, Inc., Garratt Boulevard, Downsview, Ontario M3K 1Y5, Canada. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the FAA, Engine and Propeller Directorate, New York Aircraft Certification Office, 181 South Franklin Avenue, room 202, Valley Stream, New York; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Jon Hjelm, Aerospace Engineer, Airframe Branch, ANE-172, FAA, New York Aircraft Certification Office, 181 South Franklin Avenue, room 202, Valley Stream, New York 11581; telephone (516) 791-6220; fax (516) 791-9024.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain de Havilland Model DHC-8-100 and -300 series airplanes was published in the Federal Register on December 29, 1992 (57 FR 61845). That action proposed to require inspection of the upper drag strut trunnion fittings of the nose landing gear to detect cracks, inspection of the fitting attachment bolts to verify tightness, and replacement of the fittings or fasteners, if necessary.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the comments received.

One commenter supports the proposed rule.

Another commenter requests that the FAA clarify the requirements for fastener replacement in paragraph (a)(4) of the proposal. The commenter notes that proposed paragraph (a)(4) states, "If any fastener, replaced in accordance with this AD, is found to be loose * * *" The commenter believes that as it is currently worded, the proposal implies that only fasteners replaced previously will require subsequent repetitive inspections. The commenter does not believe that this is the intent of the proposed AD. Rather, the commenter believes that the statement should be revised to read, "If any fastener is found to be loose during repetitive inspections * * *" The FAA concurs that clarification is necessary. This AD requires an initial inspection, at which time the fasteners are checked for proper torque. If the fasteners are found to be loose, they must be replaced to ensure that no hidden damage has occurred. Subsequent inspections are required at intervals of no more than 1,000 landings. If fasteners are found to be loose during these inspections, they must be re-tightened to the proper value; they do not need to be replaced. If any fastener is not replaced during the initial inspection, then any fastener found to be loose during subsequent inspections must be re-tightened to the value specified in the service bulletin. Accordingly, paragraph (a)(4) of the final rule has been revised to state, "If any fastener is found to be loose during any repetitive inspection required by this AD, prior to further flight, tighten the bolt to the value specified in the service bulletin."

Since issuance of the proposal, de Havilland has issued Revision 'B' of DHC-8 Alert Service Bulletin S.B. A8-53-40, dated February 24, 1993. This revision of the service bulletin is essentially identical to the original issue, but provides clarified instructions for the torque check of the bolts. Transport Canada Aviation has classified this revised service bulletin as mandatory. Accordingly, the FAA has revised paragraph (a) of the final rule to cite Revision 'B' of that service bulletin as an additional source for service information.

After careful review of the available data, including the comments noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule with the changes previously described. The FAA has determined that these changes will neither increase the economic burden on any operator nor increase the scope of the AD.

The FAA estimates that 125 de Havilland Model DHC-8-100 and -300 series airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 1 work hour per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $6,875, or $55 per airplane. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the requirements of this AD.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. App. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

93-08-03 De Havilland, Inc.: Amendment 39-8550. Docket 92-NM-198-AD.

Applicability: Model DHC-8-102, -103, -301, -311, and -314 series airplanes, certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent failure of the upper drag strut trunnion fittings of the nose landing gear, which could lead to collapse of the nose landing gear, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 500 landings after the effective date of this AD, unless accomplished within the last 500 landings, conduct a visual inspection of both upper drag strut trunnion fittings of the nose landing gear to detect cracks; and inspect the fitting attachment bolts to verify tightness; in accordance with de Havilland DHC-8 Alert Service Bulletin S.B. A8-53-40, Revision 'A', dated June 12, 1992; or Revision 'B', dated February 24, 1993.

(1) If no crack is detected in the upper drag strut trunnion fittings of the nose landing gear, and no looseness is detected in the fitting attachment bolts, repeat the inspections at intervals not to exceed 1,000 landings.

(2) If any crack is detected on either fitting, prior to further flight, replace both fittings with confirmed crack-free fittings in accordance with the service bulletin. After such replacement, the inspections required by this paragraph must continue at intervals not to exceed 1,000 landings.

(3) If any fitting attachment bolt is found to be loose during the initial inspection, prior to further flight, replace the fastener securing the fitting (nut, washer, and bolt) in accordance with the service bulletin. After such replacement, the inspections required by this paragraph must continue at intervals not to exceed 1,000 landings.

(4) If any fastener is found to be loose during any repetitive inspection required by this AD, prior to further flight, tighten the bolt to the value specified in the service bulletin.

(b) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, New York Aircraft Certification Office (ACO), ANE-170, FAA, Engine and Propeller Directorate. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, New York ACO.

Note: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the New York ACO.

(c) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

[Docket No. 92-NM-191-AD; Amendment 39-8548; AD 93-08-01]

Airworthiness Directives; Fokker Model F27 Series Airplanes

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to certain Fokker Model F27 series airplanes, that requires a one-time inspection to detect cracks in the lower skin near the ribs at certain wing stations, and repair, if necessary. This amendment is prompted by reports of fatigue cracks found in the lower skin at the runout of stringers 2 and 10 near wing station 6490 on two of these airplanes. The actions specified by this AD are intended to prevent reduced structural capability of the wings.

DATES: Effective May 27, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of May 27, 1993.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Fokker Aircraft USA, Inc., 1199 North Fairfax Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22314. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Timothy J. Dulin, Aerospace Engineer, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055-4056; telephone (206) 227-2145; fax (206) 227-1320.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to certain Fokker Model F27 series airplanes was published in the Federal Register on February 2, 1993 (58 FR 6743). That action proposed to require a one-time inspection to detect cracks in the lower skin near the ribs at certain wing stations, and repair, if necessary.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the single comment received.

The commenter supports the proposed rule.

After careful review of the available data, including the comment noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule as proposed.

The FAA estimates that 58 airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 3 work hours per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $9,570, or $165 per airplane. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the requirements of this AD.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. App. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

93-08-01 Fokker: Amendment 39-8548. Docket 92-NM-191-AD.

To prevent reduced structural capability of the wings, accomplish the following:

(a) Inspect the lower skin at the runout of stringers 2 and 10 near wing stations 6490, 5330, and 6100 to detect cracks, in accordance with Fokker Service Bulletin F27/57-69, dated April 6, 1992, at the time specified in paragraph (a)(1), (a)(2), or (a)(3) of this AD, as applicable:

(1) For airplanes that have accumulated less than 20,000 total landings as of the effective date of this AD: Prior to the accumulation of 20,000 total landings, or within 1 year after the effective date of this AD, whichever occurs later.

(2) For airplanes that have accumulated 20,000 or more total landings, but less than 30,000 total landings, as of the effective date of this AD: Prior to the accumulation of 30,000 total landings, or within 5 months after the effective date of this AD, whichever occurs later.

(3) For airplanes that have accumulated 30,000 or more total landings as of the effective date of this AD: Within 2 months after the effective date of this AD.

(b) If any crack is found as a result of the inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD, prior to further flight, repair in accordance with a method approved by the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate.

(c) Within 10 days after accomplishing the inspection required by paragraph (a) of this AD, report positive findings of cracks to Fokker, in accordance with Fokker Service Bulletin F27/57-69, dated April 6, 1992. (d) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM-113.

Note: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Standardization Branch.

(e) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

(f) The inspection and report shall be done in accordance with Fokker Service Bulletin F27/57-69, dated April 6, 1992. This incorporation by reference was approved by the Director of the Federal Register in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR part 51. Copies may be inspected at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

(g) This amendment becomes effective on May 27, 1993.

Issued in Renton, Washington, on April 15, 1993.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This amendment adopts a new airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to all Fokker Model F27 series airplanes, that requires an inspection of the noise filter capacitors mounted on the rotary flap actuator to detect damage and to determine the manufacturer and part number; and replacement, if necessary. This amendment is prompted by a recent report of damage to the aileron cable on a Model F27 series airplane, which occurred when one of two noise filter capacitors on the flap actuators became detached from its bracket, causing damage to the lower aileron cable due to electrical arcing between the capacitor and the aileron cable. The actions specified by this AD are intended to prevent reduced aileron roll control authority.

DATES: Effective May 27, 1993.

The incorporation by reference of certain publications listed in the regulations is approved by the Director of the Federal Register as of May 27, 1993.

ADDRESSES: The service information referenced in this AD may be obtained from Fokker Aircraft USA, Inc., 1199 North Fairfax Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22314. This information may be examined at the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Transport Airplane Directorate, Rules Docket, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Tim Dulin, Aerospace Engineer, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington 98055-4056; telephone (206) 227-2145; fax (206) 227-1320.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to include an airworthiness directive (AD) that is applicable to all Fokker Model F27 series airplanes was published in the Federal Register on February 2, 1993 (58 FR 6745). That action proposed to require an inspection of the noise filter capacitors mounted on the rotary flap actuator to detect damage and to determine the manufacturer and part number; and replacement, if necessary.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment. Due consideration has been given to the single comment received.

The commenter supports the proposed rule.

After careful review of the available data, including the comment noted above, the FAA has determined that air safety and the public interest require the adoption of the rule as proposed.

The FAA estimates that 25 airplanes of U.S. registry will be affected by this AD, that it will take approximately 1 work hour per airplane to accomplish the required actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $1,375, or $55 per airplane. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the requirements of this AD.

The regulations adopted herein will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this final rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this action (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A final evaluation has been prepared for this action and it is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained from the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

Adoption of the Amendment

Accordingly, pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator, the Federal Aviation Administration amends 14 CFR part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as follows:

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

1. The authority citation for part 39 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 49 U.S.C. App. 1354(a), 1421 and 1423; 49 U.S.C. 106(g); and 14 CFR 11.89.

§ 39.13 [Amended]

2. Section 39.13 is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

93-08-05 Fokker: Amendment 39-8552. Docket 92-NM-196-AD.

Applicability: All Model F27 series airplanes, excluding Model F27 Mark 050 airplanes; certificated in any category.

Compliance: Required as indicated, unless accomplished previously.

To prevent failure of an aileron control cable and subsequent reduced aileron roll control authority, accomplish the following:

(a) Within 500 hours time-in-service or 2 months after the effective date of this AD, whichever occurs first, inspect the noise filter capacitors mounted on the rotary flap actuator to detect damage and to determine the manufacturer and part number, in accordance with Fokker Service Bulletin F27/27-135, dated June 1, 1992.

(1) If no damaged capacitor is found, and if no capacitor manufactured by John E. Fast Company and having part number A-16446 is installed, no further action is required by this AD.

(2) If any damaged capacitor is found, or if any capacitor manufactured by John E. Fast Company and having part number A-16446 is found, prior to further flight, replace that capacitor with either a capacitor manufactured by P.R. Mallory Company and having part number CA275X, or a capacitor manufactured by Potter Company and having part number 1136-5004, in accordance with the service bulletin.

(b) An alternative method of compliance or adjustment of the compliance time that provides an acceptable level of safety may be used if approved by the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM-113, FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate. Operators shall submit their requests through an appropriate FAA Principal Maintenance Inspector, who may add comments and then send it to the Manager, Standardization Branch, ANM-113.

Note: Information concerning the existence of approved alternative methods of compliance with this AD, if any, may be obtained from the Standardization Branch, ANM-113.

(c) Special flight permits may be issued in accordance with FAR 21.197 and 21.199 to operate the airplane to a location where the requirements of this AD can be accomplished.

(d) The inspection and replacement shall be done in accordance with Fokker Service Bulletin F27/27-135, dated June 1, 1992. This incorporation by reference was approved by the Director of the Federal Register in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a) and 1 CFR part 51. Copies may be obtained from Fokker Aircraft USA, Inc., 1199 North Fairfax Street, Alexandria, Virginia 22314. Copies may be inspected at the FAA, Transport Airplane Directorate, 1601 Lind Avenue, SW., Renton, Washington; or at the Office of the Federal Register, 800 North Capitol Street, NW., suite 700, Washington, DC.

(e) This amendment becomes effective on May 27, 1993.

[Docket No. 930344-3044]

AGENCY: Bureau of Export Administration, Commerce.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) is amending the Export Administration Regulations (EAR) to include new requirements based on the implementation of Import Certificate/Delivery Verification (IC/DV) procedures for the Science-based Industrial Park, an entity of the National Science Council of Taiwan, located in Hsinchu, Taiwan.

The authorities on Taiwan have committed to implement an island-wide COCOM-comparable export control system. The IC/DV system at the Science-based Industrial Park is an interim step toward such a system. Because of the assurances and commitments that the IC/DV procedure in the Science-based Industrial Park represent, the Office of Export Licensing expects to be able to accelerate the processing of export license applications accompanied by the Park's IC for exports to enterprises located in the Park.

DATES: Effective date: This rule is effective April 27, 1993.

Grace period: In lieu of the 45 day grace period provided in 15 CFR 775.10(b)(2), a 60 day grace period will apply to the requirement to obtain the Hsinchu Science-based Industrial Park Import Certificate to support an export license application. During the grace period, applications will be accepted when supported by either a Form BXA-629P (Statement by Ultimate Consignee and Purchaser) or a Hsinchu Science-based Industrial Park Import Certificate.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Rod Joseph, Office of Technology and Policy Analysis, Bureau of Export Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, Telephone: (202) 482-4253.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The Bureau of Export Administration (BXA) requires a foreign importer to file an International Import Certificate (IC) in support of individual validated license applications to export certain commodities controlled for national security reasons to specified destinations. The commodities are identified by the code letter "A" following the Export Control Classification Number on the Commerce Control List, which identifies those items subject to Department of Commerce export controls. By issuing an IC, the government of the importing destination confirms that it will exercise control over the disposition of those commodities covered by an IC.

BXA also requires a Delivery Verification Certificate (DV) on a selective basis, as described in 15 CFR 775.3(i). By issuing a DV, the government of a destination to which an export has been made confirms that the exported commodities have either entered the export jurisdiction of that destination or are otherwise accounted for by the importer.

New documentation requirements and guidelines for compliance adopted by the Government of Taiwan for the Hsinchu Science-based Industrial Park warrant the inclusion of that area in the IC/DV procedure. This rule amends the EAR by adding the Hsinchu Science-based Industrial Park to the list of destinations for which International Import Certificates may be issued and by adding the name and address of the Hsinchu Science-based Industrial Park to the authorities in the list of foreign offices that administer the IC/DV systems.

Rulemaking Requirements

1. This rule complies with Executive Order 12291 and Executive Order 12661.

2. The Import Certificate/Delivery Verification (IC/DV) requirement set forth in part 775 supersedes the requirement for Form BXA–629P, Statement by Ultimate Consignee and Purchaser (approved by the Office of Management and Budget under control number 0694–0021) to accompany certain license applications for exports and reexports (approved under OMB control numbers 0694–0005 and 0694–0010 respectively) to the Science-based Industrial Park located in Hsinchu, Taiwan. The International Import Certificate issued by the Park Administration does not constitute a collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1989. As a result of this rule, there will be a decrease in the number of Statements by Ultimate Consignee, Form BXA–629P, and an increase in the number of Delivery Verifications, Form BXA–647P (approved by OMB under control number 0694–0016).

3. This rule does not contain policies with Federalism implications sufficient to warrant preparation of a Federalism assessment under Executive Order 12612.

4. Because a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment are not required to be given for this rule by section 553 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) or by any other law, under section 3(a) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 603(a) and 604(a)) no initial or final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis has to be or will be prepared.

5. The provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553, requiring notice of proposed rulemaking, the opportunity for public participation, and a delay in effective date, are inapplicable because this regulation involves a military and foreign affairs function of the United States. This rule does not impose a new control. No other law requires that a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment be given for this rule.

Accordingly, it is issued in final form. However, comments from the public are always welcome. Comments should be submitted to Patricia Muldonian, Office of Technology and Policy Analysis, Bureau of Export Administration, Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 273, Washington, DC 20044.

[Order No. 553]

I. Introduction

Before Commissioners: Elizabeth Anne Moler, Chair; Jerry J. Langdon and Branko Terzic.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) is revising the form of notice requirements for natural gas rate schedule and tariff filings in § 154.28 of the Commission's regulations.[1] The revised procedures establish requirements for filing a diskette copy of the notice.

II. Reporting Requirements

There will be no impact on the public reporting burden from requiring submission on a diskette of information that currently must be submitted in hard copy form.

III. Background and Discussion

Under section 4 of the Natural Gas Act every natural-gas company must file schedules showing all rates and charges from any transportation or sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission and the classifications, practices, rules and regulations affecting such rates, charges and services together with all contracts in any manner relating thereto. Changes to these schedules and related contracts can be made by a natural gas company only through a filing with the Commission that gives notice of the proposed changes to the Commission and to the public. Whenever a company makes such filing the company must file a form of notice of the filing suitable for publication in the Federal Register in the form specified in § 154.28. In this final rule, the Commission is revising § 154.28 of its regulations to require that the company also submit a copy of its notice on a separate 3½" diskette in ASCII format marked with the name of the company and the words "notice of filing." This revision of the notice requirements of § 154.28 will enable the Commission to speed up the process by which notice of filings is provided through publication in the Federal Register and, especially, through the Commission Issuance Posting System (CIPS), an electronic bulletin board service that requires that text be in ASCII format in order for it to provide electronic access to the text information.

IV. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA)[2] generally requires a description and analysis of final rules that will have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Most, if not all, of the companies required to comply with this final rule are interstate pipelines which do not fall within the RFA's definition of small entity. Further, most, if not all, companies already have this material on a disk and therefore, forwarding the disk to the Commission would not be a burden.

The Commission certifies that promulgating this rule does not represent a major Federal action having a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Therefore, no regulatory flexibility analysis is required.

V. Information Collection Statement

The Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) regulations[3] require that OMB approve certain information collection requirements imposed by agency rule. Since this order does not impose new information collection requirements and has no impact on current information collections there is no need to obtain OMB approval.

VI. National Environmental Policy Act Analysis

The Commission concludes that promulgating this rule does not represent a major Federal action having significant adverse effect on the human environment under the Commission's regulations implementing the National Environmental Policy Act.[4] This rule is procedural in nature and does not substantially change the effect of the regulation being amended. Therefore, this rule falls within the categorical exemptions provided in the Commission's regulations.[5] Consequently, neither an environmental impact statement nor an environmental assessment is required.

VII. Administrative Findings and Effective Date

This final rule is a matter of agency organization, procedure, or practice. Since this rule does not itself alter the substantive rights or interests of any interested persons, prior notice and comment are unnecessary under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act.[6]

This final rule is effective on May 27, 1993.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Commission amends part 154, chapter I, title 18, Code of Federal Regulations, as set forth below.

By the Commission.

Lois D. Cashell,

Secretary.

§ 154.28 Form of notice for Federal Register.

Removal of Final and Temporary Regulations Relating Primarily to Provisions of Prior Law

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Removal of final and temporary regulations.

SUMMARY: This document removes final and temporary regulations under 26 CFR parts 1, 5, 5c, 12, 54, and 602 relating primarily to provisions of prior law. This action is taken in response to the Regulatory Burden Reduction Initiative.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 27, 1993.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Paul C. Feinberg of the Office of the Associate Chief Counsel (Domestic), within the Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., NW, Washington, DC 20224, Attention: CC:DOM, (202) 622–3325, not a toll-free number.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On April 2, 1992, the Internal Revenue Service published in the Federal Register the Request for Comments on Regulatory Burden Reduction Initiative (57 FR 11277), in which the Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service solicited public comment on a program to:

(1) Close certain regulations projects that are no longer needed or will not be pursued in the foreseeable future;

(2) withdraw certain proposed regulations which there are no current plans to finalize; and

(3) redesignate certain regulations as relating to prior law in light of subsequent changes to the law.

Section III of that document listed regulations identified as relating primarily to provisions of prior law. Those final and temporary regulations which did not receive any comments or which received only comments favorable to the program are removed. Accordingly, pursuant to the announcement in the Federal Register (57 FR 11277), this document removes the final and temporary regulations set forth below from the Code of Federal Regulations system.

Special Analyses

It has been determined that these rules are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291. Therefore, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. It has also been determined that section 553(b) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 5) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (U.S.C. chapter 6) do not apply to these regulations, and, therefore, a final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not required. Pursuant to section 7805(f) of the Internal Revenue Code, these regulations have been submitted to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration for comment on their impact on small business.

Drafting Information

The principal author of these regulations is Paul C. Feinberg, Office of Associate Chief Counsel (Domestic), within the Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. Other personnel from the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

Coast Guard

33 CFR Part 100

[CGD7 93–28]

Special Local Regulations: 3rd Annual International Submarine Race, Fort Lauderdale, South Beach Park, FL

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: Special local regulations are being adopted for the 3rd International Submarine Races. This event will be held on June 16, 1993 until June 27, 1993, from 7 a.m. EDT (Eastern Daylight Time) until 5 p.m. EDT, each day. The regulations are needed to provide for the safety of life on navigable waters during the event.

EFFECTIVE DATES: These regulations become effective on June 16, 1993 and terminate on June 27, 1993, from 7 a.m. EDT until 5 p.m. EDT, each day.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: LTJG M. RUDNINGEN, Coast Guard Group Miami, (305) 535–4536.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 553, a notice of proposed rulemaking has not been published for these regulations and good cause exists for making them effective in less than 30 days from the date of publication. Following normal rulemaking procedures would have been impracticable. The information to hold the event was not received until March 9, 1993, and there was not sufficient time remaining to publish proposed rules in advance of the event or to provide for a delayed effective date.

Drafting Information

The drafters of this regulation are LT J.M. LOSEGO, Project Attorney, Seventh Coast Guard District Legal Office, and LTJG M.W. RUDNINGEN, Project Officer, Coast Guard Group Miami.

Discussion of Regulations

There will be approximately fifty (50) teams in race submarines, ranging in size from 10 to 15 feet, participating in the Florida Atlantic University 3rd International Submarine Races. Ten (10) to twenty (20) spectator craft are also expected. The event will take place in the Atlantic Ocean ¼ mile east of South Beach Park at a depth of approximately twenty (20) feet. Only competing and official vessels will be allowed to enter the regulated area because of the nature of the racing event. To ensure the safety of swimmers and divers, no propeller engines will be permitted in the regulated area. A large stable platform will be provided for vessel support, staging and testing.

Federalism

This action has been analyzed in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 12612, and it has been determined that the proposed rulemaking does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

Environmental Assessment

The Coast Guard has considered the environmental impact of this proposal consistent with Section 2.B.2.08 of Commandant Instruction M16475.1B, and this proposal has been determined to be categorically excluded. Specifically, the Coast Guard has consulted with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Marine Fisheries Service regarding the environmental impact of this event, and it was determined that the event does not jeopardize the continued existence of protected species.

In consideration of the foregoing, part 100 of title 33, Code of Federal Regulations, is amended as follows:

1. The authority citation for part 100 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 33 U.S.C. 1233; 49 CFR 1.46 and 33 CFR 100.35.

2. A temporary § 100.35–T0728 is added to read as follows:

§ 100.35–T0728 3rd Annual International Submarine Race.

(b) Special local regulations. (1) Entry into the regulated area, by other than event participants and official vessels, is prohibited, unless authorized by the Patrol Commander.

(2) All vessels near the regulated area will follow the directions of the Patrol Commander and will proceed at no more than 5 MPH when passing the regulated area.

(3) A succession of not fewer than 5 short whistle or horn blasts from a patrol vessel will be the signal for any nonparticipating vessel to stop immediately. The display of an orange distress smoke signal from a patrol vessel will be the signal for any and all vessels to stop immediately.

(4) After the termination of the 3rd International Submarine Races for each respective day, all vessels may resume normal operation.

(c) Effective dates. These regulations become effective on June 16, 1993 and terminate on June 27, 1993, from 7 a.m. EDT until 5 p.m. EDT, each day. These times are effective, unless the regulated area is sooner terminated by the Patrol Commander.

Special Local Regulations: International Bay City River Roar, Saginaw River, Bay City, MI

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Temporary final rule.

SUMMARY: Special local regulations are being adopted for the International Bay City River Roar. This event will be held on the Saginaw River on the 25th, 26th and 27th of June 1993, with an alternate date of June 28, 1993, if the weather is inclement on June 27, 1993.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These regulations become effective from 9:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. on June 25, 1993, from 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m. on June 26, 1993 and from 9:00 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. on June 27, 1993.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with 5 U.S.C. 553, a Notice of Proposed Rule Making has not been published for these regulations. Following normal rulemaking procedures would have been impracticable. The application to hold this event was not received by the Commander, Ninth Coast Guard District, until March 22, 1993, and there was not sufficient time remaining to publish proposed rules in advance of the event.

Drafting Information

The drafters of this regulation are William A. Thibodeau, Marine Science Technician Second Class, U.S. Coast Guard, project officer, Aids to Navigation & Waterways Management Branch and M. Eric Reeves, Commander, U.S. Coast Guard, project attorney, Ninth Coast Guard District Legal Office.

Discussion of Regulations

The International Bay City River Roar will be conducted on the Saginaw River between the Liberty Bridge and the Veterans Memorial Bridge on the 25th, 26th and 27th of June 1993. This event will have an estimated 70 hydroplanes which could pose hazards to navigation in the area. Any vessel desiring to transit the regulated area may do so only with prior approval of the Patrol Commander (Officer in Charge, U.S. Coast Guard Station Saginaw River, MI.).

Economic Assessment and Certification

This regulation is considered to be non-major under Executive Order 12291 on Federal Regulation and nonsignificant under Department of Transportation regulatory policies and procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979). The economic impact has been found to be so minimal that a full regulatory evaluation is unnecessary. This event will draw a large number of spectator craft into the area for the duration of the event. This should have a favorable impact on commercial facilities providing services to the spectators. Any impact on commercial traffic in the area will be negligible.

Since the impact of this regulation is expected to be minimal, the Coast Guard certifies that it will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Federalism

This action has been analyzed in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 12612, and it has been determined that this rulemaking does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

Temporary Regulations

PART 100—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for part 100 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 33 U.S.C. 1233; 49 CFR 1.46 and 33 CFR 100.35.

2. A temporary § 100.35–T0963 is added to read as follows:

§ 100.35—T0963 International Bay City River Roar, Saginaw River, Bay City, MI

(a) Regulated area. That portion of the Saginaw River from the Liberty Bridge on the north to the Veterans Memorial Bridge on the south.

(b) Special local regulations. (1) The Coast Guard will be regulating vessel navigation and anchorage by all vessel traffic in the above area from 9 a.m. (EDST) until 4:30 p.m. (EDST) on June 25, 1993, from 9 a.m. (EDST) until 6 p.m. (EDST) on June 26, 1993, from 9 a.m. (EDST) until 5:30 p.m. (EDST) on June 27, 1993. When determined appropriate by the Coast Guard Patrol Commander, vessel traffic will periodically be permitted to transit the regulated area between race heats and during breaks. Commercial vessel traffic will have priority passage.

(2) If the weather on June 27, 1993 is inclement, the river closure will be postponed until 9 a.m. (EDST) to 5:30 p.m. (EDST) on June 28, 1993. If postponed, notice will be given on June 27, 1993 over the U.S. Coast Guard Radio Net.

(3) The Coast Guard will patrol the regulated area under the direction of a designated Coast Guard Patrol Commander. The Patrol Commander may be contacted on channel 16 (156.8 MHZ) by the call sign "Coast Guard Patrol Commander". Any vessel not authorized to participate in the event desiring to transit the regulated area may do so only with prior approval of the Patrol Commander and when so directed by that officer. Transiting vessels will be operated at bare steerageway, and will exercise a high degree of caution in the area.

(4) The Patrol Commander may direct the anchoring, mooring, or movement of any boat or vessel within the regulated area. A succession of sharp, short signals by whistle or horn from vessels patrolling the area under the direction of the U.S. Coast Guard Patrol Commander shall serve as a signal to stop. Any vessel so signaled shall stop and shall comply with the orders of the Patrol Commander. Failure to do so may result in expulsion from the area, citation for failure to comply, or both.

VOL 58 ISS 79 APR 27 1993 UMI

(5) The Patrol Commander may establish vessel size and speed limitations, and operating conditions.

(6) The Patrol Commander may restrict vessel operation within the regulated area to vessels having particular operating characteristics.

(7) The Patrol Commander may terminate the marine event or the operation of any vessel at any time it is deemed necessary for the protection of life and property.

Drawbridge Operation Regulations; Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, FL

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: At the request of the Sarasota/Manatee Metropolitan Planning Council Organization (MPO) and the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT), the bridge owner, the Coast Guard is modifying the regulations of the Cortez Drawbridge, mile 87.4, at Bradenton by changing the existing 15 minute opening schedule to a year round 20 minute opening schedule and extending the periods of daily regulation. This change is being made because periods of peak vehicular traffic have changed. This action will reduce traffic congestion and still provide for the reasonable needs of navigation.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 27, 1993.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Drafting Information

The principal persons involved in drafting this document are Ian MacCartney, Project Manager, and LT. J.M. Losego, Project Counsel.

Regulatory History

On May 8, 1992, the Coast Guard published a notice of proposed rulemaking entitled Drawbridge Operation Regulations in the Federal Register (57 FR 19834). The Coast Guard received 90 letters commenting on the proposal. A public hearing was not requested and one was not held.

Background and Purpose

This drawbridge presently opens on signal except that from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and federal holidays the draw need open only on the hour, quarter-hour, half-hour and three-quarter hour. From December 1 to May 31, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the draw need open only on the hour, quarter-hour, half-hour, and three-quarter hour. The MPO and the bridge owner requested that the bridge be allowed to open only on the hour and half-hour from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends. A Coast Guard evaluation of the proposal concluded that highway traffic levels and frequency of bridge openings did not justify the 30 minute opening schedule for a drawbridge on the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway.

Extending the existing 20 minute schedule to be effective from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily throughout the year was proposed as an alternative by the Coast Guard in the notice of proposed rulemaking.

Discussion of Comments and Changes

In response to our public notice, we received 90 comments. Ten commenters were in favor of the 20 minute schedule. Eighty commenters wanted a 30 minute schedule, but did not provide any additional information to support this proposal. Several of these commenters recommended a staggered 30 minute schedule for this bridge and the Anna Maria Drawbridge which is located 1.8 miles to the north. A 60 day test of the proposed 20 minute schedule was conducted from December 1, 1992, to January 31, 1993. The results confirmed highway traffic delays were reduced while actually improving vessel movement between the Cortez and Anna Maria Drawbridges. Analysis of this temporary 20 minute schedule indicated many sailing vessels which had been unable to transit between the two bridges within the existing 15 minute schedule were no longer delayed by bridge closures. Analysis of the proposed 30 minute staggered schedule indicated vessels would be impacted similarly to the existing 15 minute schedule which will be avoided by implementing the 20 minute schedule. This change will also eliminate the extended openings thereby reducing vehicular delays and traffic congestion.

Regulatory Evaluation

This rule is not major under Executive Order 12291 and not significant under the Department of Transportation regulatory policies and procedures (44 FR 11040; February 26, 1979). The Coast Guard expects the economic impact of this rule to be so minimal that a full regulatory evaluation is unnecessary. We conclude this because the rule exempts tugs with tows.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Coast Guard must consider whether this rule will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. "Small entities" include independently owned and operated small businesses that are not dominant in their field and that otherwise qualify as "small business concerns" under section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632). Since tugs with tows are exempt from this rule, the economic impact is expected to be so minimal, the Coast Guard certifies under section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), that this rule, if adopted, will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Collection of Information

This rule contains no collection of information requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.).

Federalism

The Coast Guard has analyzed this rule in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 12612, and has determined that this rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

Environment

The Coast Guard considered the environmental impact of this rule and concluded that, under section 2.B.2.g.(5) of Commandant Instruction M16475.1B, promulgation of operating requirements or procedures for drawbridges is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. A Categorical Exclusion Determination is available in the docket.

DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS

38 CFR Part 3

RIN 2900-AG17

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation Reform Act of 1992

AGENCY: Department of Veterans Affairs.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its adjudication regulations concerning the formula for the payment of dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) to surviving spouses and children of veterans who died from service-connected causes. These amendments are necessary to implement recently enacted legislation. The intended effect of these amendments is to bring the regulations into conformance with the new statutory requirements.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These amendments are effective January 1, 1993, the date provided by Public Law 102-568.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bisset, Jr., Consultant, Regulations Staff, Compensation and Pension Service, Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 233-3005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under 38 U.S.C. 1310, VA pays DIC to surviving spouses of veterans who died from disease or injury incurred or aggravated during active military service. Prior to January 1, 1993, 38 U.S.C. 1311(a) provided that the surviving spouse's basic DIC rate be determined by the deceased veterans's military pay grade. The Dependency and Indemnity Compensation Reform Act of 1992, section 102 of the Veterans' Benefits Act of 1992, Public Law 102-568, amended 38 U.S.C. 1311(a) to provide surviving spouses eligible for DIC with a basic monthly rate of $750, without regard to the deceased veteran's military pay grade. This basic rate is increased by $165 monthly in the case of a veteran who at the time of death was receiving or entitled to receive compensation for a service-connected disability evaluated as totally disabling for a continuous period of at least eight years immediately preceding death. In determining the eight year period, only periods during which the veteran was married to the surviving spouse will be considered.

Under the statute, beneficiaries have no option to elect DIC benefits as provided prior to the enactment of Public Law 102-568. Surviving spouses of veterans who die before January 1, 1993, will receive DIC either based upon the veteran's military pay grade or under the new formula, whichever provides the greater benefit. Surviving spouses of veterans who die on or after January 1, 1993, will receive DIC only under the formula provided by Public Law 102-568. VA is amending 38 CFR 3.5(e) (1) and (2) to implement these new statutory provisions.

Public Law 102-568 also amended 38 U.S.C. 1311(b) to increase the additional amount of DIC payable to a surviving spouse with dependent children of the deceased veteran to $100 monthly for each dependent child beginning January 1, 1993; to $150 monthly during Fiscal Year 1994; and to $200 monthly thereafter.

VA is issuing a final rule to implement the statutory amendments contained in section 102 of Public Law 102-568. Because this amendment implements statutory changes, publication as a proposal for public notice and comment is unnecessary.

Since a notice of proposed rulemaking is unnecessary and will not be published, this amendment is not a "rule" as defined in and made subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601(2). In any case, this regulatory amendment will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 601-612. This amendment will not directly affect any small entity.

In accordance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, the Secretary has determined that this regulatory amendment is non-major for the following reasons:

(1) It will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more.

(2) It will not cause a major increase in costs or prices.

(3) It will not have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

For the reasons set out in the preamble, 38 CFR part 3 is amended as set forth below:

PART 3—ADJUDICATION

Subpart A—Pension, Compensation, and Dependency and Indemnity Compensation

1. The authority citation for part 3, subpart A, continues to read as follows:

Authority: 38 U.S.C. 501(a), unless otherwise noted.

2. In § 3.5, paragraph (e)(1) and (e)(2) and their authority citation are revised to read as follows:

§ 3.5 Dependency and indemnity compensation.

* * * * *

(e) Surviving spouses' rate. (1) When death occurred on or after January 1, 1993, the monthly rate of dependency and indemnity compensation for a surviving spouse shall be amount set forth in 38 U.S.C. 1311(a)(1). This rate shall be increased by the amount set forth in 38 U.S.C. 1311(a)(2) in the case of the death of a veteran who at the time of death was in receipt of or was entitled to receive (or but for the receipt of retired pay or retirement pay was entitled to receive) compensation for a service-connected disability that was evaluated as totally disabling for a continuous period of at least eight years immediately preceding death. In determining the eight year period, only periods during which the veteran was married to the surviving spouse shall be considered. The resulting rate is subject to increase as provided in paragraphs (e) (3) and (4) of this section.

(2) The monthly rate of dependency and indemnity compensation for a surviving spouse when the death of the veteran occurred prior to January 1, 1993, is based on the "pay grade" of the veteran, unless the formula provided in paragraph (e)(1) of this section results in a greater monetary benefit. The Secretary of the concerned service department will certify the "pay grade" of the veteran and the certification will be binding on the Department of Veterans Affairs. The resulting rate is subject to increase as provided in paragraphs (e) (3) and (4) of this section.

Exchange of Evidence; Social Security Administration and Department of Veterans Affairs

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its adjudication regulations concerning the exchange of evidence between the Social Security Administration (SSA) and VA. This amendment is necessary because VA's General Counsel had determined that the wording of the prior regulation was overbroad. The intended effect of this amendment is to assure that the regulations accurately reflect the statutory conditions under which evidence received by SSA is also considered evidence received by VA.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This amendment is effective May 27, 1993.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bisset, Jr., Consultant, Regulations Staff, Compensation and Pension Service, Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 233-3005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: VA published a proposal to amend 38 CFR 3.201(a) in the Federal Register of June 9, 1992 (57 FR 24446). Interested persons were invited to submit written comments, suggestions or objections on or before July 9, 1992. We received one comment.

The commenter suggested that this amendment would be contrary to a recent finding by the United States Court of Veterans Appeals (COVA) that assuming a claimant has submitted a well-grounded claim for VA benefits, and there is evidence that the claimant has filed a claim with SSA, VA must request information from SSA as part of the duty to assist claimants imposed by 38 U.S.C. 5107(a). It is unclear whether the commenter objects to the fact that the proposed regulation applied to claims for dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) only or is expressing concern with the language in the proposed rule indicating that the claimant would have the option "to request" that VA obtain a specific record from SSA.

In the COVA case at issue (see Murincsak v. Derwinski, U.S. Vet. App. No. 90-222 (April 24, 1992)), the appellant had been denied a 100% service-connected disability evaluation on the basis of unemployability. He contended that SSA had evidence which would support his claim and argued that under 38 CFR 3.201(a), VA had constructive notice of SSA records and was therefore deemed to have received them as of the date SSA received them. COVA, however, dismissed that argument, which takes the first sentence of § 3.201(a) out of context, and held that this regulation applies only to claims for DIC for service-connected deaths. The enabling statute for this regulation, 38 U.S.C. 5105, refers to joint applications for social security claims under 42 U.S.C. 401 et seq., and claims under chapter 13 of 38 U.S.C., which deals exclusively with DIC benefits.

COVA held that although VA was required to request records from SSA in this case, it was not the regulatory language at § 3.201(a), but actual notice of records in the possession of SSA that had triggered VA's duty to assist.

In order to prevent any confusion over the applicability of § 3.201(a), VA has amended the regulation to clearly specify that it applies to claims for DIC benefits only. This amendment does not, and in fact cannot, obviate VA's duty to assist under the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5107(a) once VA has actual notice of records that might have a bearing on the adjudication of a well-grounded claim for VA benefits. For the sake of clarity, we have also amended the proposed regulatory language by removing any suggestion that the claimant would have to request that VA obtain information from SSA.

VA appreciates the comment submitted in response to the proposed rule, which is now adopted with the above described amendment.

The Secretary hereby certifies that this regulatory amendment will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601-612. The reason for this certification is that this amendment would not directly affect any small entities. Only VA beneficiaries could be directly affected. Therefore, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), this amendment is exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analysis requirements of sections 603 and 604.

In accordance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, the Secretary has determined that this regulatory amendment is non-major for the following reasons:

(1) It will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more.

(2) It will not cause a major increase in costs or prices.

(3) It will not have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Exclusions From Income

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its adjudication regulations concerning exclusions from countable income under the Improved Pension program. This amendment is necessary to implement recently enacted legislation. The intended effect of this amendment is to bring the regulations into conformance with the new statutory requirements.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These amendments are effective November 4, 1992, the date that Public Law 102-585 was signed into law.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: 38 U.S.C. 1718 previously provided that payments as a result of participation in a VA therapeutic or rehabilitation activity be considered a donation from a public or private relief or welfare organization and not countable as income for pension purposes. Section 401 of the Veterans' Health Care Act of 1992, Public Law 102-585, amended 38 U.S.C. 1718 to consider payments to a veteran as a result of participation in a program of rehabilitative services provided as part of the care furnished by a State home and which is approved by VA as conforming to standards for activities under 38 U.S.C. 1718 to be a donation from a public or private relief or welfare organization, and, therefore, excluded from countable income under the Improved Pension program. VA is amending 38 CFR 3.272(l) to implement this new statutory provision.

VA is issuing a final rule to implement the statutory amendment contained in section 102 of Public Law 102-585. Because this amendment implements statutory changes, publication as a proposal for public notice and comment is unnecessary.

Since a notice of proposed rulemaking is unnecessary and will not be published, this amendment is not a "rule" as defined in and made subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601(2). In any case, this regulatory amendment will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 601-612. Veterans' Radiation Exposure Amendments of 1992

AGENCY: Department of Veterans Affairs.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its adjudication regulations concerning presumptive service connection for certain diseases resulting from exposure to ionizing radiation during military service. These amendments are necessary because Congress has added to the list of conditions for which presumptive service connection is authorized and repealed the requirement that the listed diseases must manifest themselves within a specified time after the veterans' last exposure to radiation. The intended effect of these amendments is to bring the regulations into conformance with the revised statutory requirements.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These amendments are effective October 1, 1992, the date provided by Public Law 102-578.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bisset, Jr., Consultant, Regulations Staff, Compensation and Pension Service, Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 233-3005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 2 of the Veterans' Radiation Exposure Amendments of 1992, Public Law 102-578, amended 38 U.S.C. 1112(c) to repeal the requirement that, to be presumed service connected, specified diseases of veterans who participated in a radiation-risk activity become at least 10 percent disabling within 40 years after the veterans' last exposure to radiation. Public Law 102-578 also added cancer of the salivary gland and cancer of the urinary tract to the list of conditions for which presumptive service connection is authorized for veterans who participated in a radiation-risk activity. VA is amending 38 CFR 3.309(d) to implement these revised statutory provisions.

VA is issuing a final rule to implement the specified statutory amendments contained in Public Law 102-578. Because this amendment implements statutory changes,

38 CFR Part 3

RIN 2900–AF89

Radiation Exposure Compensation Act of 1990

AGENCY: Department of Veterans Affairs.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) has amended its adjudication regulations regarding entitlement to compensation and dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) benefits. These amendments are necessary to implement the provisions of the Radiation Exposure Compensation Act of 1990 (RECA) which authorize payments by the Department of Justice (DOJ) to certain individuals for disability or death due to specific radiogenic diseases. The intended effect of these amendments is to bring VA regulations into conformance with this new law.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This amendment is effective October 15, 1990, the date Public Law 101–426 was signed into law.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bisset, Jr., Consultant, Regulations Staff, Compensation and Pension Service, Veterans Benefits Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 233–3005.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: VA published a proposal to add new § 3.715 to 38 CFR part 3 and to amend 38 CFR 3.500 in the Federal Register of September 3, 1992 (57 FR 40424–25). Interested persons were invited to submit written comments, suggestions or objections on or before October 5, 1992. Since no comments, suggestions or objections were received, the amendments have been adopted as proposed with only a minor technical change.

The Secretary hereby certifies that these regulatory amendments will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601–612. The reason for this certification is that these amendments would not directly affect any small entities. Only VA beneficiaries could be directly affected. Therefore, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), these amendments are exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analysis requirements of sections 603 and 604.

In accordance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, the Secretary has determined that these regulatory amendments are non-major for the following reasons:

(1) They will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more.

(2) They will not cause a major increase in costs or prices.

Home Improvement and Structural Alterations (HISA); Increase in the Limit for Home Improvement and Structural Alterations (HISA)

ACTION: Final regulations.

SUMMARY: The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is amending its regulations that govern expenditures for home improvements or structural alterations for veterans. The Veterans' Medical Programs Amendments Act of 1992 authorized increases for home improvements or structural alterations from $2,500 to $4,100 for service-connected veterans and from $600 to $1,200 for nonservice-connected veterans. This amendment will make the regulation consistent with the law.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This amendment is effective October 9, 1992.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Monica J. Wilkins, Policies and Procedures Division (161B2), Veterans Health Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20420; Phone: (202) 535–7439.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Veterans' Medical Programs Amendments Act of 1992, Public Law 102–405 enacted October 9, 1992, amended 38 U.S.C. 1717, by increasing the amount of the benefit payable to veterans for home improvements and structural alterations. This law applies to veterans who filed a claim for home improvements and structural alterations benefits on or after January 1, 1990. VA is, for good cause, promulgating this amendment as a final regulation without obtaining notice and comment. Because the amendment is simply making the regulation consistent with the law, there is no need to obtain public comment.

This regulatory amendment will not have a $100 million annual effect on the economy, will not cause a major increase in costs or prices, and will not have any other significant adverse effects on the economy. Consequently, this amendment does not meet the criteria for a major rule as that term is defined by Executive Order 12291.

This amendment is not subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 United States Code 601–612. The Secretary certifies that this regulation will not have a significant economic impact on the substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Any economic impact on small entities will be the result of the law, not this regulatory amendment.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The effective date for regulations published at 57 FR 38611 is delayed to August 1, 1999.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Need for Correction

As published in the Federal Register, amendments to § 21.5130, § 21.5131, § 21.5133 and § 21.5200 require that a veteran enrolled in a course leading to a standard college degree must verify monthly that he or she is still pursuing a program of education before VA (Department of Veterans Affairs) will pay that month's educational assistance.

These regulations were published with a future effective date of August 1, 1993. At the time the final regulations appeared in the Federal Register, VA planned on having a new verification processing system in place by August 1, 1993. However, due to limited resources, the department has found that it will be unable to begin the new verification system by that date. Accordingly, these final regulations will not become effective until August 1, 1999.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

40 CFR Part 52

[AL-35-5658; FRL-4608-6]

Approval of State Implementation Plans; Alabama: Approval of the Visible Emission Regulations

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The EPA is approving revisions to the Alabama State Implementation Plan (SIP). These revisions were submitted to EPA by the State of Alabama through the Alabama Department of Environmental Management on June 11, 1979. The revisions being approved incorporate the visible emission regulations into the Alabama SIP.

EFFECTIVE DATES: This action will be effective June 28, 1993 unless notice is received by May 27, 1993 that someone wishes to submit adverse or critical comments. If the effective date is delayed, timely notice will be published in the Federal Register.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the State's submittal are available for review during normal business hours at the following locations:

Public Information Reference Unit, ATTN: Jerry Kurtzweg (AN 443), Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M Street, SW., Washington, DC 20460.

Region IV Air Programs Branch, Environmental Protection Agency, 345 Courtland Street, Atlanta, Georgia 30365.

Air Division, Alabama Department of Environmental Management, 1751 Congressman W.L. Dickinson Drive, Montgomery, Alabama 36109.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joey LeVasseur of the EPA Region IV Air Programs Branch at (404) 347-2864 and at the above address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: On June 11, 1979, the Alabama Department of Environmental Management submitted amendments to the SIP pertaining to Visible Emissions (VE) and nitric acid. The VE regulations revise the Alabama regulation to incorporate EPA reference method 9 (40 CFR part 60, appendix A). These amendments were adopted by the Alabama Air Pollution Control Commission on June 5, 1979. Originally, EPA did not officially approve or disapprove the revision due to the inclusion of a "Director's Discretion" clause in the regulation. On September 10, 1992, the Alabama Department of Environmental Management submitted a letter clarifying the role of "Director's Discretion." This clarification specified the method which would be used to approve an alternative and stated that any alternative would be subject to EPA review through the Title V permit process. Therefore, EPA is today approving the VE regulation. The Alabama Department of Environmental Management in the September 10, 1992, letter indicated the nitric acid regulation was no longer relevant. Therefore EPA is not acting on this amendment.

Final Action

The Agency has determined that the aforementioned changes are consistent with Agency policies. Therefore, EPA is today approving this amendment to the Alabama SIP. This action is being taken without prior proposal because the changes are noncontroversial and EPA anticipates no significant comments on them. The public should be advised that this action will be effective June 28, 1993. However, if notice is received within 30 days that someone wishes to submit adverse or critical comments, this action will be withdrawn and two subsequent notices will be published before the effective date. One notice will withdraw the final action and another will begin a new rulemaking by announcing a proposal of the action and establishing a comment period.

If no adverse or critical comments are received by EPA under section 307(b)(1) of the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. 7607(b)(1), petitions for judicial review of this action must be filed in the United States Court of Appeals for the appropriate circuit by June 28, 1993. Filing a petition for reconsideration by the Administrator of this final rule does not affect the finality of this rule for the purposes of judicial review nor does it extend the time within which a petition for judicial review may be filed, and shall not postpone the effectiveness of such rule of action. This action may not be challenged later in proceedings to enforce its requirements (see section 307(b)(2) of the Clean Air Act, 42 U.S.C. 7607(b)(2)).

This action has been classified as a Table 3 action by the Regional Administrator under the procedures published in the Federal Register on January 19, 1989 (54 FR 2214-2225). On January 6, 1989, the Office of Management and Budget waived Table 2 and 3 SIP revisions (54 FR 2222) from the requirements of section 3 of Executive Order 12291 for two years. EPA has submitted a request for a permanent waiver for Table 2 and Table 3 SIP revisions. OMB has agreed to continue the temporary waiver until such time as it rules on EPA's request.

Nothing in this action shall be construed as permitting or allowing or establishing a precedent for any future request for a revision to any State Implementation Plan. Each request for revision to the State Implementation Plan shall be considered separately in light of specific technical, economic and environmental factors and in relation to relevant statutory and regulatory requirements.

The Agency has reviewed this request for revision of the federally approved State Implementation Plan for conformance with the provisions of the 1990 Amendments of the Clean Air Act enacted on November 15, 1990. The Agency has determined that this action conforms with those requirements irrespective of the fact that the submittal preceded the date of enactment.

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 600 et seq., EPA must prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis assessing the impact of any proposed or final rule on small entities. 5 U.S.C. 603 and 604. Alternatively, EPA may certify that the rule will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. Small entities include small businesses, small not-for-profit enterprises, and government entities with jurisdiction over populations of less than 50,000.

SIP approvals under section 110 and subchapter I, part D of the CAA do not create any new requirements, but simply approve requirements that the State is already imposing. Therefore, because the federal SIP-approval does not impose any new requirements, I certify that it does not have a significant impact on any small entities affected. Moreover, due to the nature of the federal-state relationship under the CAA, preparation of a regulatory flexibility analysis would constitute federal inquiry into the economic reasonableness of state action. The CAA forbids EPA to base its actions concerning SIPs on such grounds. Union Electric Co. v. U.S. E.P.A., 427 U.S. 246, 256-66 (S.Ct. 1976); 42 U.S.C. section 7410(a)(2).

Approval and Promulgation of Designation of Areas for Air Quality Planning Purposes; Illinois

AGENCY: United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA).

ACTION: Final rule; correction; reopening of the public comment period; delay of the effective date.

SUMMARY: On March 5, 1993, USEPA approved a request by Illinois to revise area designations for Total Suspended Particulate (TSP) from nonattainment to attainment. The approval document listed the areas being redesignated. Unfortunately, five areas were inadvertently omitted from the list of areas being redesignated to attainment. Further, the revisions to the Illinois TSP designation table were omitted from the final rulemaking. This rule corrects these omissions from the earlier rule.

DATES: The comment period on this rule is reopened until May 27, 1993. The effective date is delayed until June 28, 1993, unless notification is received that someone wishes to submit adverse comments. If the effective date is delayed, timely notice will be published in the Federal Register.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the redesignation request and other materials relating to this rulemaking are available at the following address for review: (It is recommended that you telephone David Pohlman at (312) 886-3299, before visiting the Region 5 office.) United States Environmental Protection Agency, Region 5, Air and Radiation Division, 77 West Jackson Boulevard (AR-18J), Chicago, Illinois 60604.

Written comments should be addressed to: J. Elmer Bortzer, Chief, Regulation Development Section, Regulation Development Branch (AR-18J), United States Environmental Protection Agency, 77 West Jackson Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois 60604.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY

44 CFR Part 64

[Docket No. FEMA-7568]

List of Communities Eligible for the Sale of Flood Insurance

AGENCY: Federal Insurance Administration, FEMA.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This rule identifies communities participating in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP). These communities have applied to the program and have agreed to enact certain floodplain management measures. The communities' participation in the program authorizes the sale of flood insurance to owners of property located in the communities listed.

EFFECTIVE DATES: The dates listed in the fifth column of the table.

ADDRESSES: Flood insurance policies for property located in the communities listed can be obtained from any licensed property insurance agent or broker serving the eligible community, or from the NFIP at: Post Office Box 457, Lanham, MD 20706, (800) 638-7418.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: James Ross MacKay, Acting Assistant Administrator, Office of Loss Reduction, Federal Insurance Administration, 500 C Street, SW., room 417, Washington, DC 20472, (202) 646-2717.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The NFIP enables property owners to purchase flood insurance which is generally not otherwise available. In return, communities agree to adopt and administer local floodplain management aimed at protecting lives and new construction from future flooding. Since the communities on the attached list have recently entered the NFIP, subsidized flood insurance is now available for property in the community.

In addition, the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency has identified the special flood hazard areas in some of these communities by publishing a Flood Hazard Boundary Map (FHBM) or Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM). The date of the flood map, if one has been published, is indicated in the fifth column of the table. In the communities listed where a flood map has been published, Section 102 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 4012(a), requires the purchase of flood insurance as a condition of Federal or federally related financial assistance for acquisition or construction of buildings in the special flood hazard areas shown on the map.

The Director finds that the delayed effective dates would be contrary to the public interest. The Director also finds that notice and public procedure under 5 U.S.C. 553(b) are impracticable and unnecessary.

National Environmental Policy Act

This rule is categorically excluded from the requirements of 44 CFR part 10, Environmental Consideration. No environmental impact assessment has been prepared.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Federal Insurance Administrator certifies that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., because the rule creates no additional burden, but lists those communities eligible for the sale of flood insurance.

Regulatory Impact Analysis

This rule is not a major rule under Executive Order 11291, Federal Regulation, February 17, 1981, 3 CFR, 1981 Comp., p. 127. No regulatory impact analysis has been prepared.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This rule does not involve any collection of information for purposes of the Paperwork Reduction Act, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.

Executive Order 12612, Federalism

This rule involves no policies that have federalism implications under Executive Order 12612, Federalism, October 26, 1987, 3 CFR, 1987 Comp., p. 252.

Executive Order 12778, Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets the applicable standards of section 2(b)(2) of Executive Order 12778, October 25, 1991, 56 FR 55195, 3 CFR, 1991 Comp., p. 309.

SUMMARY OF REPORT AND ORDER

I. Background

1. On March 12, 1992, the Commission released a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) 57 FR 9528, March 19, 1992 proposing changes to the rules that govern formal complaints against common carriers. 7 FCC Rcd 2042 (1992). Twenty comments and 11 reply comments regarding the proposed revisions were filed by parties who have participated in the formal complaint process as complainants, defendants, or counsel. On April 2, 1993, the commission released a Report and Order (R&O), FCC 93-131, summarized here, which amends Part 1 of the Commission's rules by adopting some of the changes to the formal complaint rules that were proposed in the NPRM.

II. Discussion

A. General Pleading Requirements (Section 1.720)

2. The Commission amended general pleading requirements (Section 1.720) to explicitly require that "all statements purporting to summarize or explain Commission orders or policies must cite, in standard legal form, the Commission ruling upon which such statements are based." However, the Commission declined to further amend pleading requirements in the manner suggested by one commenter so that parties to formal complaints would be required to include with their pleadings all documents which would be used to support assertions of fact. Considering objections voiced by other commenters, the Commission concluded that such a requirement would add a new area of potential dispute to the complaint process and place an undue burden on formal complaint parties and Commission staff.

B. Answers (Section 1.724)

3. The Commission decided against cutting ten days from the deadline for a defendant to file an answer to a formal complaint as was proposed in the NPRM. The proposed 20 day deadline would have coincided with that imposed by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. However, most commenters opposed the proposal, arguing that there are significant differences between the complaint process conducted in federal district court and the complaint process before the Commission that warrant different deadlines for parallel pleadings. The Commission concluded that commenters demonstrated that a reduction in the answer deadline would unreasonably impair a defendant's ability to answer fully a complainant's allegations without yielding a benefit sufficient to mitigate the added burden. Thus, the 30 day answer deadline was retained.

C. Replies (Section 1.726)

4. The Commission adopted a rule prohibiting complainants from filing replies to a defendant's answer to a complaint except when an answer presents specifically captioned affirmative defenses. (Section 1.724, pertaining to answers, was amended to specify the requirement that all affirmative defenses must be specifically captioned as such). In such instances, a complainant will have a right, but not an obligation, to file a reply. Noting other rule changes ensuring an opportunity to file briefs in formal complaint cases, the Commission concluded that discontinuation of routine replies should simplify the record in formal complaint cases without impinging upon a complainant's ability to meet its burden of proof.

D. Motions (Section 1.727)

5. In the NPRM, the Commission proposed several rule changes intended to curb the proliferation of motions that either address procedural issues of minimal significance or repeat substantive allegations contained in major pleadings. In general, however, most commenters opposed the proposed amendments regarding formal complaint motion practice. Even most of those parties who did not apparently quarrel with the goal of reducing the number of motions filed in formal complaint cases, believe that proposed rule changes could be counterproductive while at the same time unduly restricting a party's ability to prosecute or defend a formal complaint. The Commission was largely convinced by such objections and declined to adopt proposed rules which would have significantly altered the filing window during which motions may be submitted. However, the Commission did conclude that elimination of replies to oppositions to motions would promote compilation of a more concise record for resolution. Accordingly, that pleading opportunity was discontinued.

E. Interrogatories to Parties (Section 1.729); Other Forms of Discovery . (Section 1.730); Confidentiality of Information Produced Through Discovery (Section 1.731)

6. The Commission considered several proposals, presented in the NPRM, which were designed to simplify and expedite discovery.

1. Self-Executing Discovery

7. The Commission decided against adopting a rule whereby no discovery could be undertaken absent an affirmative order by the Commission. Although the Commission still expressed the view that discovery is not strictly necessary in all cases, it concluded that requiring affirmative action by the Commission before discovery can begin would not actually promote expedition but, instead, simply add another area of dispute and potential for delay. Thus, the Commission retained its rule permitting opposing parties to serve, without any Commission authorization, up to 30 interrogatories which must be answered within 30 days unless objections are made.

2. Discovery Timetable

8. The Commission declined to adopt proposals presented in the NPRM which would have (1) altered the time during which discovery can be initiated; (2) set the deadline for responding to interrogatories at 20 days after service instead of 30 days; (3) set the deadline for objections to the breadth of discovery at 10 days after service, rather than along with the answers to interrogatories; and (4) set the deadline for filing motions to compel discovery at 5 days, rather than 15 days, after the answer deadline or the date objections are filed. In declining to adopt such changes, the Commission was persuaded by the majority of commenters who contended the proposals would thwart the effective use of various discovery tools and increase burdens on the parties without yielding significant or demonstrable time-savings. Thus, the Commission left its discovery rules unchanged except to adjust time frames to account for the fact that replies to answers to complaints will no longer be routinely filed and to cut the time available for parties to seek Commission approval for any discovery beyond the 30 automatic self-executing interrogatories. The Commission concluded that requiring requests for additional discovery to be filed 15 days after answers to self-executing interrogatories are served, instead of the 30 days currently allowed, would not unduly hamper parties' abilities to review answers to discovery and determine whether and/or what further discovery might be necessary.

3. Bifurcation of Discovery

9. In the NPRM, the Commission asked parties to address whether the delays and expenses of protracted discovery could be ameliorated by postponing any discovery regarding damages until after a ruling on liability has been issued. The premise underlying this proposal was that the considerable time and effort expended by the parties and the Commission staff on damages discovery is effectively wasted if no violation or liability is found. Both parties supporting the general proposition of deferring damages discovery and those opposing any such bifurcated discovery plan raised concerns regarding the operation of such a system. Several parties suggested that deferring damages discovery could have the unintended effect of discouraging early settlement efforts since parties may not be adequately informed as to what the case is "worth." Considering the concerns raised by the parties and the delay which would almost certain to be experienced if two rounds of discovery should be necessary, the Commission concluded that bifurcation is not appropriate for all cases. Accordingly, the Commission adopted a rule explicitly affirming its discretion to conduct bifurcated proceedings but declined to mandate a bifurcated approach for all cases.

4. Objections Based on Relevance; Admissions Through Discovery

10. In the NPRM, the Commission solicited comment on the desirability of removing relevance as a permissible objection to discovery. The Commission had asked parties to consider the advantages and disadvantages of a system whereby parties could refuse to answer interrogatories seeking information they believed to be irrelevant. Such a refusal to answer would be deemed to be an admission, relevant only for purposes of resolving the complaints, of allegations contained in the interrogatory. Commenters were virtually unanimous in their vigorous opposition to such a system and the Commission concluded that they had demonstrated that abandoning the relevancy standard and employing the proposed admission process would transform the discovery process from its legitimate purpose as a means to gather the necessary factual information to "fishing expeditions" through which parties seek to obtain a wide range of information possibly having little bearing on the allegations of the complaint. Accordingly, the Commission kept its rule limiting discovery to those matters relevant to the complaint.

5. Treatment and Filing of Discovered Materials

11. Noting generally enthusiastic endorsement by commenters, the Commission adopted a rule providing for the confidential treatment of materials exchanged by the parties during formal complaint discovery. The rule is modeled on private protective agreements entered by parties in past complaint cases and specifically limits the manner in which an opposing party may use, duplicate, and disseminate proprietary materials obtained through discovery. The provision is available to parties who believe in good faith that materials subject to discovery fall within an exemption to disclosure contained in the Freedom of Information Act and is intended to replace the time-consuming practice of negotiating private protective agreements with uniform confidentiality standards. The Commission also adopted an NPRM proposal eliminating the requirement that materials exchanged through discovery must be filed with the Commission. Although some parties contended that the Commission should continue the filing requirement in the interests of compiling a complete documentary record and encouraging cooperative discovery, the Commission determined that ending the routine submission of materials would neither impede the establishment of a factual record necessary for resolution nor discourage parties from complying with legitimate discovery requests. The Commission noted that under the amended formal complaint rules, both complainants and defendants will be free to file briefs summarizing the factual evidence supporting their cases which has been gleaned through discovery. The Commission concluded that it has neither the need nor the resources to thoroughly review all discovered materials to ferret out what information may be of decisional significance when briefs summarizing that information may be filed.

F. Other Required Written Submissions (Section 1.732)

12. The Commission agreed with commenters who argued that parties should be accorded an automatic right to file briefs and reply briefs. Thus, the Commission amended its rules to grant parties an opportunity to file briefs in all formal complaint cases. Although the rules establish the submission of briefs as voluntary, the Commission specifically noted that it retains discretion to require submission of briefs in any case when they are determined to be necessary to the full and fair consideration of the issues. In cases where no discovery has been conducted, the Commission established a default schedule for the submission of briefs; initial briefs will be due within 90 days after service of a complaint. However, when discovery is conducted the Commission concluded that there are too many possible variables to adopt uniform filing deadlines. Thus, when discovery is conducted, the Commission staff will set a deadline for the submission of initial briefs, generally 30 days after the completion of discovery. Reply briefs will be due within 20 days after the filing deadline for initial briefs, regardless of whether discovery is conducted.

13. Responding to the concerns of various commenters, the Commission extended the page limits for briefs beyond those proposed in the NPRM. When discovery is conducted, initial briefs will be limited to 50 pages; reply briefs to 30 pages. When discovery has not been conducted, initial briefs shall not exceed 35 pages; reply briefs 20 pages.

14. The Commission also adopted a rule incorporating one commenter's suggestion that when a brief incorporates material discovered subject to protective provisions, an additional five days be allowed for submission of a redacted version to the Commission. Redacted versions are submitted to the Commission solely for the purpose of inclusion in the public file. The extra time afforded for filing of redacted briefs should ensure that proper deletions of confidential information are not overlooked in the rush to complete the brief.

G. Status Conference (Section 1.733)

15. The Commission amended its rule regarding status conferences to include explicit authorization for the staff to use status conferences with the parties to issue oral rulings on interlocutory matters. However, in response to concerns raised by commenters, the Commission altered the NPRM proposal to specify that compliance deadlines will not be calculated from the date of the oral ruling, but from the date of the written confirmation of such ruling. The Commission concluded that such a provision was necessary to ensure that the parties are afforded an opportunity to pursue their appeal rights prior to the compliance deadline.

H. Copies; Service; Separate Filings Against Multiple Defendants (Section 1.735)

16. The Commission amended this procedural rule to clarify fee and filing requirements that have been changed, pursuant to statute, since the formal complaint rules were last revised. The new rule specifies that formal complaints must be filed in accordance with fee regulations contained in 47 CFR 1.1105(1)(c) and that single complaints against multiple defendants constitute separate actions for which separate fees must be paid.

I. Miscellaneous

17. The Commission ruled on various suggestions for changes in the formal complaint rules that were made by commenters but had not been addressed in any specific NPRM proposal.

18. The Commission declined to adopt a proposal permitting complainants to serve their complaints directly on defendants, thus commencing the 30 day answer period earlier than when service is accomplished by the Commission. Although the Commission agreed that some time savings would result from self-service, it rejected such a system since it would deprive the Commission of making threshold judgments as to whether a complaint should even be served (i.e., whether it states a cause of action and otherwise meets the Commission's minimal filing requirements).

19. The Commission also declined to adopt a rule deferring either the answer deadline or initiation of discovery until any substantive motions have been decided. The Commission concluded that pleading and discovery deadlines were postponed until the Commission ruled on all substantive motions, defendants would be able to hold proceedings hostage simply by filing certain motions, regardless of whether they are justified by the facts or law.

20. The Commission rejected a proposal to add a process whereby parties can obtain admissions of fact as a standard part of the complaint process. The Commission agreed with commenters opposing the proposal that such a process is unnecessary given existing pleading requirements and rule provisions, and would simply add another area of dispute and layer of delay.

21. The Commission concluded that it is unnecessary to amend the formal complaint rules to address involvement by Administrative Law Judges (ALJs) in the resolution of formal complaints. While the Commission reiterated its authority to order evidentiary hearings in formal complaint cases, it emphasized the long-standing practice of designating formal complaints for hearing before an ALJ only when oral testimony or cross-examination is required. The Commission concluded that no purpose would be served by creating a rule to set particular guidelines for ALJ involvement.

22. Some commenters urged the Commission to adopt procedures whereby frivolous complaints would be dismissed at the earliest possible time. The Commission rejected as outside of the scope of this proceeding a proposal that a rule be adopted requiring the immediate dismissal of complaints that allege unreasonably high rates or overearnings when the rates and sharing mechanisms at issue are in compliance with relevant price cap requirements. With respect to dismissal generally, the Commission found that existing rules already provide for swift dismissal of flawed complaints. The Commission instructed the staff to pay particular attention to such matters in reviewing incoming complaints. Nonetheless, the Commission noted that while some complaints may not be as thoroughly pleaded as it might prefer, most formal complaints meet the minimal standards of the rules.

23. Although the Commission expressed a desire to discourage improper practices by attorneys in formal complaint proceedings, it concluded that adoption of sanctions specifically tailored to the formal complaint process is unnecessary given broad sanction authority under existing rules. Furthermore, the Commission noted that accusations of frivolous or abusive practice sometimes are themselves interposed for frivolous and abusive purposes. Formal complaint sanction rules could only encourage such charges and require Commission involvement in disputes that could prolong ultimate resolution of the underlying complaint.

24. Finally, the Commission rejected a proposal to add to the formal complaint rules a provision modeled after the Federal pre-trial procedures contained in Rule 16 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Commission concluded that the existing rule regarding status conferences already incorporates many of the functions covered by Rule 16, but was specifically adapted to the formal complaint process where trials are not held.

III. Paperwork Reduction

25. Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 10 hours per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed and completing and reviewing the collection of information. Send comments regarding this burden estimate or any other aspect of this collection of information, including suggestions for reducing the burden, to the Federal Communications Commission, Records Management Division, Paperwork Reduction Project (3060–0411), Washington DC 20554 and to the Office of Management and Budget, Paperwork Reduction Project (3060–0411), Washington, DC 20503.

IV. Conclusion

26. With this R&O, the Commission has adopted rules designed to improve the records compiled in formal complaint cases and expedite resolution of such cases. Specifically, the Commission has adopted rules which should ensure the confidentiality of materials exchanged through discovery. An absolute right to file briefs and uniform standards applicable to such pleadings have been established. In addition, certain unnecessary pleadings have been discontinued and the staff has been authorized to issue oral rulings on interlocutory matters.

V. Ordering Clauses

27. Accordingly, it is ordered, pursuant to sections 1, 4(i), 201(b), 208 and 403 of the Communications Act, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 151, 154(i), 201(b), 208 and 403, that § 1.720 et seq. of the Commission's rules, 47 CFR 1.720 et seq. is amended as set forth below.

28. It is further ordered that this Report and Order will be effective ninety (90) days after publication of a summary thereof in the Federal Register.

Authority: Secs. 4, 303, 48 Stat. 1066, 1082, as amended; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303; Implement, 5 U.S.C. 552, unless otherwise noted.

2. In § 1.720, paragraph (i) is added to read as follows:

* * * * *

(i) All statements purporting to summarize or explain Commission orders or policies must cite, in standard legal form, the Commission ruling upon which such statements are based.

3. In § 1.724, paragraph (e) is added to read as follows:

§ 1.724 Answers.

* * * * *

(e) Affirmative defenses to allegations contained in the complaint shall be specifically captioned as such and presented separately from any denials made in accordance with paragraph (c) of this section.

4. Section 1.726 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.726 Replies.

Within 10 days after service of an answer containing affirmative defenses presented in accordance with § 1.724(e), a complainant may file and serve a reply, which shall be responsive to only those allegations contained in affirmative defenses.

5. In § 1.727, paragraph (e) is revised and paragraph (f) is added to read as follows:

§ 1.727 Motions.

* * * * *

(e) Oppositions to motions may be filed within ten days after the motion is filed. Oppositions shall be limited to the specific issues and allegations contained in the motion; when a motion is incorporated in an answer to a complaint, an opposition to the motion shall not address any issues presented in the answer that are not also specifically raised in the motion.

(f) No reply may be filed to an opposition to a motion.

6. In § 1.729, paragraphs (a) and (d) are revised, the last sentence of paragraph (c) is revised, and new paragraph (e) is added to read as follows:

§ 1.729 Interrogatories to parties.

(a) During the time period beginning with service of the complaint and ending 30 days after the date an answer is due to be filed, any party may serve any other party written interrogatories, to be answered in writing by the party served or, if the party served is a public or private corporation or partnership or association, by any officer or agent who shall furnish such information as is available to the party. All interrogatories served on an opposing party shall be filed with the Commission at the time of service. Parties shall propound no more than 30 single interrogatories without prior Commission approval. Subparts of an interrogatory will be counted as separate interrogatories for purposes of compliance with this limit. This procedure may be used for the discovery of any nonprivileged matter which is relevant to the pleadings. Interrogatories may not be employed for the purpose of delay, harassment or to obtain information which is beyond the scope of permissible inquiry relating to the subject matter of the pleadings.

* * * * *

(c) * * * Alternately, the party may request that answers to interrogatories be discussed during a status conference, pursuant to § 1.733.

(d) Answers to interrogatories shall not be filed with the Commission unless so ordered by the Commission or its staff.

(e) The Commission may in its discretion limit the scope of permissible inquiry so that matters pertaining solely to the amount or computation of damages are not addressed until after a finding of liability has been made against the complainant. Inquiries that relate dually to liability and damages will be permitted during initial discovery conducted during the liability phase. If a bifurcated framework is implemented and a finding of liability is made, the parties shall, within 5 working days, inform the Commission whether they wish to defer damages discovery in order to enter negotiations for the purpose of settling their dispute. If the parties commence settlement negotiations, damages discovery shall not be undertaken prior to 20 days after release of the liability order.

7. In § 1.730, paragraph (c) is revised and paragraph (d) is added to read as follows:

* * * * *

(c) Motions seeking discovery may be filed only during the period beginning with the service of a complaint and ending 30 days after the date an answer is filed or 15 days after responses to interrogatories under § 1.729 are filed, whichever period is longer, except where the movant demonstrates that the need for such discovery could not, even with due diligence, have been ascertained within this period.

(d) Documents produced through discovery shall not be filed with the Commission unless so ordered by the Commission or its staff.

8. Sections 1.731 through 1.734 are redesignated as §§ 1.732 through 1.735 and new § 1.731 is added to read as follows:

§ 1.731 Confidentiality of information produced through discovery.

(a) Any materials generated or provided by a party in response to discovery may be designated as proprietary by that party if the party believes in good faith that the materials fall within an exemption to disclosure contained in the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(1)–(9). Any party asserting confidentiality for such materials shall so indicate by clearly marking each page, or portion thereof, for which a proprietary designation is claimed. If a proprietary designation is challenged, the party claiming confidentiality shall have the burden of demonstrating, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the material designated as proprietary falls under the standards for nondisclosure enunciated in the FOIA.

(b) Materials marked as proprietary may be disclosed solely to the following persons, only for use in prosecuting or defending a party to the complaint action, and only to the extent necessary to assist in the prosecution or defense of the case:

(1) Counsel of record representing the parties in the complaint action and any support personnel employed by such attorneys;

(2) Officers or employees of the opposing party who are named by the opposing party as being directly involved in the prosecution or defense of the case;

(3) Consultants or expert witnesses retained by the parties;

(4) The Commission and its staff; and

(5) Court reporters and stenographers in accordance with the terms and conditions of this section.

(c) These individuals shall not disclose information designated as proprietary to any person who is not authorized under this section to receive such information, and shall not use the information in any activity or function other than the prosecution or defense in the case before the Commission. Each individual who is provided access to the information shall sign a notarized statement affirmatively stating that the individual has personally reviewed the Commission's rules and understands the limitations they impose on the signing party.

(d) No copies of materials marked proprietary may be made except copies to be used by persons designated in paragraph (b) of this section. Each party shall maintain a log recording the number of copies made of all proprietary material and the persons to whom the copies have been provided.

(e) Upon termination of a formal complaint proceeding, including all appeals and petitions, all originals and reproductions of any proprietary materials, along with the log recording persons who received copies of such materials, shall be provided to the producing party. In addition, upon final termination of the complaint proceeding, any notes or other work product derived in whole or in part from the proprietary materials of an opposing or third party shall be destroyed.

9. In newly redesignated § 1.732, a new sentence is added to the end of paragraph (a); paragraph (b) is redesignated and republished as paragraph (g); and new paragraphs (b), (c), (d), (e), and (f) are added to read as follows:

§ 1.732 Other required written submissions.

(a) * * * Absent an order by the Commission that briefs be filed, the parties may voluntarily submit briefs in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (b) through (e) of this section.

(b) In cases when discovery is not conducted, briefs shall be filed concurrently by both complainant and defendant within 90 days from the date a complaint is served. Such briefs shall be no longer than 35 pages.

(c) In cases when discovery is conducted, briefs shall be filed concurrently by both complainant and defendant at such time designated by the staff, typically within 30 days after discovery is completed. Such briefs shall be no longer than 50 pages.

(d) Reply briefs may be submitted by either party within 20 days from the date initial briefs are due. Reply briefs shall be no longer than 20 pages in cases when discovery is not conducted, and 30 pages in cases when discovery is conducted.

(e) Briefs containing information which is claimed by an opposing or third party to be proprietary under § 1.731 shall be submitted to the Commission in confidence pursuant to the requirements of § 0.459 of this chapter and clearly marked "Not for Public Inspection." An edited version removing all proprietary data shall also be filed with the Commission for inclusion in the public file. Edited versions shall be filed within five days from the date the unedited brief is submitted, and served on opposing parties.

(f) Either on its own motion or upon proper motion by a party, the Commission may establish other deadlines or page limits for briefs.

(g) The Commission may require the parties to submit any additional information it deems appropriate for a full, fair, and expeditious resolution of the proceeding, including affidavits and exhibits.

10. In newly redesignated § 1.733, paragraph (a) introductory text is republished; paragraphs (a)(5) and (b) are revised; paragraphs (c) and (d) are redesignated as paragraphs (d) and (e), respectively; and new paragraph (c) is added to read as follows:

(a) In any complaint proceeding, the Commission may in its discretion direct the attorney and/or the parties to appear before it for a conference to consider:

* * * * *

(5) The necessity and extent of discovery, including objections to interrogatories or requests for production of documents;

* * * * * *

(b) While a conference normally will be scheduled after the answer has been filed, any party may request that a conference be held at any time after the complaint has been filed.

(c) During a status conference, the Commission staff may issue oral rulings pertaining to a variety of interlocutory matters relevant to the conduct of a formal complaint proceeding including, inter alia, procedural matters, discovery, and the submission of briefs or other evidentiary materials. These rulings will be promptly memorialized in writing and served on the parties. When such rulings require a party to undertake affirmative action not subject to deadlines established by another provision of this subpart, such action will be required within 10 days from the date of the written memorialization unless the staff designates a later deadline.

* * * * *

11. In newly redesignated § 1.735, paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

* * * * *

(b) The complainant must file an original plus three copies of the complaint, accompanied by the correct fee, in accordance with subpart G of this part. See 47 CFR 1.1105(1)(c). However, if a complaint is addressed against multiple defendants, complainant shall pay separate fee and supply three additional copies of the complaint for each additional defendant.

Paperwork Reduction

The paperwork burden estimated in the Notice of Proposed Rule Making has been adjusted to reflect changes that are being adopted in this Report and Order. The adjusted paperwork burden is pending OMB approval.

Summary of the Report and Order

1. By this action, the Commission amends 47 CFR parts 2 and 15 to prohibit the manufacture and importation of radio scanners capable of receiving frequencies allocated to the Domestic Public Cellular Radio Telecommunications Service. This action implements statutory requirements set forth in the Telephone Disclosure and Dispute Resolution Act (TDDRA), Public Law 102-556. The rules being adopted are intended to increase the privacy protection of cellular telephone users without unduly restricting legitimate uses of scanners.

2. The Domestic Public Cellular Radio Telecommunications Service ("Cellular Radio Service") provides telephone service to mobile customers. Cellular telephones use frequencies in the bands 824-849 MHz and 869-894 MHz to connect their users to other cellular system users and to the Public Switched Telephone Network.

3. As defined within our rules, scanning receivers, or "scanners," are radio receivers that can automatically switch between four or more frequencies anywhere within the 30-960 MHz band. In order to control their potential to cause harmful interference to authorized radio communications, the rules require that scanners receive an equipment authorization (certification) from the Commission prior to marketing.

4. On October 28, 1992, the President signed the TDDRA into law. Section 403 of the TDDRA amends section 302 of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 302(d)(1) and (2)) by requiring that by April 26, 1993 (180 days after enactment of the TDDRA), the Commission prescribe and make effective regulations denying equipment authorization for any scanning receiver that is capable of: (1) Receiving transmissions in the frequencies allocated to the domestic cellular radio service; (2) readily being altered by the user to receive transmissions in such frequencies; or, (3) being equipped with decoders that convert digital cellular transmissions to analog voice audio.

Further, section 302(d)(2), as amended by the TDDRA, provides that, beginning one year after the effective date of the regulations adopted pursuant to paragraph (d)(1), no receiver having such capabilities shall be manufactured in the United States or imported for use in the United States.

5. In accordance with the TDDRA, we adopted a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (Notice) proposing to deny equipment authorization to scanning receivers that: (1) Tune frequencies used by cellular telephones; (2) can be readily altered by the user to tune such frequencies; or (3) can be equipped with decoders that convert digital cellular transmissions to analog voice audio. See Notice of Proposed Rule Making in ET Docket No. 93-1, 59 FR 06769, February 2, 1993. The Notice requested comment on a proposed definition of "readily altered by the user." The Notice also proposed to deny equipment authorization (notification) to frequency converters that tune, or can be readily altered by the user to tune, cellular telephone frequencies. To assist us in determining compliance with these requirements, we proposed to require applicants for certification of scanners, and for notification of frequency converters used with scanners, to include in their applications a statement stating that the device cannot be easily altered to enable a scanner to receive cellular transmissions.

6. Some 46 parties filed comments on the Notice and 6 parties filed reply comments. A large number of commenters, presumably most of them scanner enthusiasts, oppose adoption of any rules that would restrict the tuning capabilities of scanners. Manufacturers of scanners and cellular service providers in general support the Commission's proposed changes. However, several commenters ask for clarification or expansion of the rules.

7. In accordance with TDDRA, we are adopting new rules restricting scanners and associated frequency converters generally as proposed in the Notice. Based on the comments, we are adopting several minor changes to the rules as proposed.

8. The Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is contained in the text of the Notice.

9. The TDDRA requires that the rules adopted in this proceeding become effective on or before April 26, 1993. Accordingly, due to the limited time available to meet this requirement, we find good cause for the rules adopted herein to become effective upon publication in the Federal Register. See 5 U.S.C. 553(d).

10. Accordingly, It is ordered that under the authority contained in sections 4(i), 302 and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and the Telephone Disclosure and Dispute Resolution Act, 47 CFR parts 15 and 2 are amended as set forth below. These rules and regulations are effective upon publication in the Federal Register. It is further ordered that this proceeding is terminated.

11. For further information on this proceeding, contact David Wilson, Technical Standards Branch, Office of Engineering and Technology, at 202-653-8138.

This paragraph does not prohibit the sale or use of authorized receivers manufactured in the United States, or imported into the United States, prior to April 26, 1994.

3. 47 CFR § 15.121 is added to subpart B to read as follows:

§ 15.121 Scanning receivers and frequency converters designed or marketed for use with scanning receivers.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, scanning receivers, and frequency converters designed or marketed for use with scanning receivers, must be incapable of operating (tuning), or readily being altered by the user to operate, within the frequency bands allocated to the Domestic Public Cellular Radio Telecommunications Service in part 22 of this Chapter (cellular telephone bands). Receivers capable of "readily being altered by the user" but are not limited to, those for which the ability to receive transmissions in the cellular telephone bands can be added by clipping the leads of, or installing, a simple component such as a diode, resistor and/or jumper wire; replacing a plug-in semiconductor chip; or programming a semiconductor chip using special access codes or an external device, such as a personal computer. Scanning receivers, and frequency converters designed or marketed for use with scanning receivers, must also be incapable of converting digital cellular transmissions to analog voice audio.

(b) Scanning receivers, and frequency converters designed or marketed for use with scanning receivers, that are manufactured exclusively for, and marketed exclusively to, entities described in 18 U.S.C. 2512(2) are not subject to the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section.

[Docket Nos. AO–219–A46; DA–93–05]

Milk in the Memphis, TN Marketing Area; Proposed Termination of Order

AGENCY: Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA.

ACTION: Proposed termination of rule.

SUMMARY: This document invites written comments on the proposed termination of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area. A proposed amended Memphis, Tennessee, order failed to receive the required three-fourths approval in a recent producer referendum. Since the Department has determined that the provisions of the proposed amended order are necessary to effectuate the declared policy of the applicable statutory authority, it is necessary to consider terminating the present order.

DATES: Comments are due May 12, 1993.

ADDRESSES: Comments should be filed with the USDA/AMS/Dairy Division, Order Formulation Branch, room 2968, South Building, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, DC 20090–6456.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612) requires the Agency to examine the impact of a proposed rule on small entities Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(B), the administrator of the agricultural marketing service has certified that this proposed action would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Such action would eliminate the regulatory impact of the order on dairy farmers and regulated handlers.

This proposed action has been reviewed by the Department in accordance with Departmental Regulation 1512–1 and the criteria contained in Executive Order 12291 and has been determined to be a "non-major" rule.

This proposed termination order has been reviewed under Executive Order 12778, Civil Justice Reform. This action is not intended to have a retroactive effect. If adopted, this proposed action will not preempt any state or local laws, regulations, or policies, unless they present an irreconcilable conflict with the rule.

The Act provides that administrative proceedings must be exhausted before parties may file suit in court. Under section 608c(15)(A) of the Act, any handler subject to an order may file with the Secretary a petition stating that the order, any provisions of the order, or any obligation imposed in connection with the order is not in accordance with law and requesting a modification of the order or to be exempted from the order. A handler is afforded the opportunity for a hearing on the petition. After a hearing the Secretary would rule on the petition. The Act provides that the district court of the United States in any district in which the handler is an inhabitant, or has its principal place of business, has jurisdiction in equity to review the Secretary's ruling on the petition, provided a bill in equity is filed not later than 20 days after the date of the entry of the ruling.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), the termination of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area is being considered.

All persons who want to send written data, views or arguments about the proposed termination should send two copies of them to the USDA/AMS/Dairy Division, Order Formulation Branch, room 2968, South Building, P.O. Box 96456, Washington, DC 20090–6456, by the 15th day after publication of this notice in the Federal Register. The period for filing comments is limited to 15 days because a longer period would not provide the time needed to complete the required procedures and coordinate the termination with amendatory action being taken on milk orders for neighboring markets. The comments that are sent will be made available for public inspection in the Dairy Division during normal business hours (7 CFR 1.27(b)).

Statement of Consideration

The proposed action would terminate the order regulating the handling of milk in the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area.

On February 5, 1993, the Department issued a final decision on proposed amendments to all Federal milk orders, which was published March 5, 1993 (58 FR 12634). The final decision document contained proposed amended orders for all marketing areas, including the Memphis order. The document also included a referendum order for the Memphis order, and several other orders, to ascertain whether producers approve the issuance of the amended order. The final decision concluded that amended orders were needed to effectuate the declared policy of the applicable statutory authority.

The enabling statute requires that at least three-fourths of the producers participating in a referendum must approve the individual handler pool Memphis order before it can be put into effect.

In the referendum conducted on the Memphis order, less than 20 percent of the producers participating in the referendum approved the issuance of the proposed amended order. In these circumstances, where it has been concluded that the order should be amended to effectuate the enabling statute and that the enabling statute requires approval by three-fourths of the producers, it appears that continuation of the existing Memphis order would not be in conformity with the applicable statutory authority. Therefore, it is necessary to consider terminating the present order.

The proposed action would terminate the order regulating the handling of milk in the Nashville, Tennessee, marketing area.

The Act requires that, with respect to an order with a marketwide pool—such as the Nashville order—at least two-thirds of the producers participating in a referendum must approve the order before it can be put into effect.

In the referendum conducted on the Nashville order, less than two-thirds of the producers who participated in the referendum approved the issuance of the proposed amended order. In these circumstances, where it has been concluded that the order should be amended to effectuate the declared policy of the Act, and the Act requires approval by two-thirds of the producers, it appears that continuation of the existing Nashville order would not be in conformity with the applicable statutory authority. NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

Low-Level Waste Shipment Manifest Information and Reporting

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Notice of public meeting.

SUMMARY: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) has proposed to amend its regulations to improve low-level waste (LLW) information and reporting [57 FR 14500, dated April 21, 1992]. In a letter dated August 18, 1992, following the closure of the comment period on the proposed rule, the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Forum suggested that, to produce a more effective rule, NRC sponsor a public meeting to further discuss concerns raised in the comment letters and thereby clarify the purpose of the rule. In response to this request, NRC will hold a public meeting with interested parties on June 15, 1993.

DATES: The public meeting is scheduled to be held on June 15, 1993, from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.

As discussed later in this notice, the meeting will focus on the issues, comments, and needs for clarification identified in the 40 comment letters received on the proposed rule.

ADDRESSES: The meeting will be held in room P–110 at the NRC Phillips Building, 7920 Norfolk Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: William Lahs, Office of Nuclear Material Safety and Safeguards, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555, telephone (301) 504–2569; or Mark Haisfield, Office of Nuclear Regulatory Research, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555, telephone (301) 492–3877.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

In a proposed rule that was published in the Federal Register on April 21, 1992 (57 FR 14500), the NRC sought to improve the low-level waste manifest information and reporting currently required in 10 CFR parts 20 and 61. In attempting to accomplish this goal, the NRC staff and others recognized the public health and safety interests and other multi-faceted needs that are served by manifest information: Specifically, the transportation safety interests of the U.S. Department of Transportation; the LLW disposal site performance assessment interests of NRC and Agreement States; the interests of the States or Compacts charged with the responsibility of developing LLW disposal sites; and the interests of LLW disposal facility operators. Although many of the comments on the proposed rule addressed issues entirely within the purview of NRC, others were directed at features of the rule, manifest forms, or manifest instructions that evolved as a result of other information needs.

The Low-level Radioactive Waste Forum (an association of representatives of States and Compacts established to facilitate implementation of the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1985 and to promote the objectives of low-level radioactive waste regional compacts) had advocated the development of the "uniform manifest" rulemaking from its inception and had constituted a Manifest Tracking Working Group to monitor NRC's development activities. Discussions between members of the Working Group and some affected parties in the private sector led to the suggestion for a meeting that was made in the August 18, 1992 letter from the Forum to the Chairman of the NRC.

With the intent of providing an opportunity to openly discuss issues and comments on the proposed rule, the NRC staff has decided to hold a public meeting on this rulemaking action. The staff will use the meeting as a forum to summarize significant issues raised by comment letters, provide background information, and seek individual comment from interested persons. The meeting is not for the purpose of reaching consensus advice for NRC action.

The Meeting and Proposed Agenda

The meeting will be held on June 15, 1993, in room P–110 at the NRC's Phillips Building, 7920 Norfolk Avenue, Bethesda, Maryland. The meeting will start at 9 a.m. and end about 3:45 p.m. By copy of this notice, the NRC has specifically invited all parties who provided comments on the proposed rule. The staff encourages all interested parties to attend, including those who did not comment on the proposed rule but have interests in the format and content of the LLW manifests and accompanying requirements. Please register in advance of the meeting by calling or writing to either the listed contacts.

The staff is seeking to identify those parties who will be attending the meeting who would like to speak about this rulemaking. If feasible, the staff will attempt to physically arrange the meeting room to facilitate comment from such parties. The staff is also seeking input from meeting attendees on any specific issues suitable for discussion that are not identified in the proposed agenda, described below. Notwithstanding the staff's desire to focus the meeting on those issues raised by the comments on the proposed rule, all meeting attendees will have an opportunity to comment on any applicable issue. A transcript of the meeting will be taken and will be considered together with the previously received comment letters as the NRC staff develops the final rule.

Based on review of comments on the proposed rule, the NRC has identified a variety of issues about the proposed requirements. These issues, with the exception of the general issues involving the establishment and operation of a national LLW data base, have been included in the agenda for the public meeting. The excluded issues are not immediately germane to this rulemaking and will be addressed at a later date. The tentative agenda for the meeting follows:

Discussion

A proposal to amend part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to add an airworthiness directive (AD), applicable to all British Aerospace Model ATP series airplanes, was published as a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) in the Federal Register on December 28, 1992 (57 FR 61587). That NPRM would have required an inspection to detect cracking of the aft end of the wing rib boom angles on the left and right engine, and repair or replacement of the wing rib boom angle assemblies, if necessary. That NPRM was prompted by the detection of cracks in the engine outboard rib boom angles at the main landing gear (MLG) actuator attachment point. That condition, if not corrected, could result in structural failure of the actuator attachment point, which could lead to collapse of the MLG.

Since the issuance of that notice, additional fatigue cracking has been detected in the engine outboard rib boom angles at the MLG actuator attachment point. These cracks were detected on British Aerospace Model ATP series airplanes that had been inspected in accordance with British Aerospace Service Bulletin ATP-57-13, dated September 18, 1992. (This service bulletin was referenced in the notice.) Fatigue cracking will reduce the strength of the attachment of the MLG actuator support structure to the airframe. This condition, if not detected and corrected, could result in structural failure of the actuator attachment point, which could lead to collapse of the MLG.

Based on information received as a result of the one-time visual inspection (as recommended in the original version of the service bulletin), the manufacturer has determined that cracking may occur on these airplanes as they accumulate additional hours time-in-service. Therefore, in order to detect such cracking, the manufacturer recommends a repetitive detailed visual inspection. British Aerospace (now Jetstream Aircraft Limited) has issued British Aerospace Service Bulletin ATP-57-13, Revision 1, dated January 15, 1993. This revised service bulletin adds a repetitive detailed visual inspection to detect cracking of the aft end of the engine outboard rib boom angles under the wing rib immediately outboard of the left and right engine. Revision 1 also describes procedures for replacement of cracked rib boom angle assemblies, and recommends a detailed compliance schedule for necessary replacement. The recommended compliance schedule for replacement varies, depending on crack location and size and whether cracks are detected on one or both rib boom angles. The Civil Aviation Authority (CAA), which is the airworthiness authority for the United Kingdom, has classified this service bulletin as mandatory.

Since cracks have been detected on airplanes that already have been inspected in accordance with the inspection requirement proposed in the notice, the FAA has determined that the proposed rule must be revised in order to ensure that such cracks are detected in a timely manner, and so that necessary repair or replacement can be accomplished in order to ensure continued operational safety.

This supplemental notice revises the proposed rule to add a requirement for repetitive inspections and to cite British Aerospace Service Bulletin ATP-57-13, Revision 1, dated January 15, 1993, as the appropriate source of service information.

In addition, this supplemental notice includes selective compliance schedules for replacement of cracked rib boom angle assemblies, depending on whether cracking is detected on one or both rib boom angles; in certain cases, the compliance time for such replacement would be reduced from what was proposed previously. This proposed compliance schedule is identical to the one recommended in Revision 1 to the service bulletin.

The FAA also has determined that, in order to ensure that operators have a reasonable amount of time to accomplish the initial detailed visual inspection in a timely manner on all Model ATP series airplanes, including those that will be more than 12 months old as of the effective date of this AD, the proposed compliance time for this inspection must be revised somewhat. The compliance time has been revised to specify that the initial inspection would be required within 400 hours time-in-service after the effective date of the final rule, or within 12 months since airplane manufacture, whichever occurs later.

Since these changes expand the scope of the originally proposed rule, the FAA has determined that it is necessary to reopen the comment period to provide additional opportunity for public comment.

Since the issuance of the notice, the corporate name for the company that manufactures Model ATP series airplanes has been changed from British Aerospace to Jetstream Aircraft Limited. The FAA notes, however, that the identification data plate installed on these airplanes continues to identify the manufacturer of the Model ATP as British Aerospace. Therefore, this supplemental notice continues to refer to these airplanes as British Aerospace Model ATP series airplanes.

In addition, this supplemental notice clarifies the description of the specific inspection area. The more accurate description of the inspection area is "engine outboard rib boom angles." The wording in the proposal has been revised accordingly.

The FAA estimates that 9 airplanes of U.S. registry would be affected by this proposed AD, that it would take approximately 2 work hours per airplane to accomplish the proposed actions, and that the average labor rate is $55 per work hour. Based on these figures, the total cost impact of the proposed AD on U.S. operators is estimated to be $990, or $110 per airplane. This total cost figure assumes that no operator has yet accomplished the proposed requirements of this AD action.

The regulations proposed herein would not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the national government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with Executive Order 12612, it is determined that this proposal would not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

For the reasons discussed above, I certify that this proposed regulation (1) is not a "major rule" under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a "significant rule" under the DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979); and (3) if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact, positive or negative, on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. A copy of the draft regulatory evaluation prepared for this action is contained in the Rules Docket. A copy of it may be obtained by contacting the Rules Docket at the location provided under the caption ADDRESSES.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) proposes to amend certain regulations and remove certain other regulations which were promulgated to implement section 5 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (OCSLA). In Order No. 636, the Commission established a capacity release program which is applicable for all transportation services provided by interstate pipelines that hold a Part 284 blanket transportation certificate, including OCS transactions. Hence, the Commission proposes to remove the Order No. 509 capacity allocation regulations.

I. Introduction

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) proposes to amend certain regulations and remove certain other regulations which were promulgated to implement section 5 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act (OCSLA).[1] Section 5 of the OCSLA requires open access, nondiscriminatory transportation of natural gas on the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS). The pertinent regulations are contained in subpart K of part 284 of the [1] 43 U.S.C. 1334.

VOL 58 ISS 79 AP 27 1993 UMI

Commission's regulations.[3] They are promulgated in Order No. 509, issued on December 9, 1988.[3]

Among other things, the Commission is proposing to remove the regulations governing the OCSLA capacity allocation program,[4] and the regulation which provides for abandonment authority.[5] In Order No. 636,[6] the Commission established a capacity release program which is applicable for all transportation services provided by interstate pipelines that hold a part 284 blanket transportation certificate, including OCS transactions. Hence, the Commission proposes to remove the Order No. 509 capacity allocation regulations.

A companion order to this Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NOPR) will be issued, in Docket Nos. RP89–84–007 and RP89–228–037, which will respond to a related court order remanding certain orders to the Commission for further consideration.[7] In the three Commission orders which were remanded, the Commission applied the subpart K regulations to an interstate pipeline, Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company (Tennessee). The companion order determines that the matters remanded to the Commission are resolved by this rulemaking. However, Tennessee is directed in the companion order to inform the Commission, in its comments to this NOPR, if remaining matters need to be resolved.

II. Reporting Requirements

The proposed rule, if adopted, would eliminate regulations that the Commission preliminary believes are no longer appropriate and would reduce filing burdens in several areas of Commission regulation. The Commission's proposed rule will reduce the public reporting burden by an estimated 10,320 hours for FERC–545 (1902–0154). This estimate includes the time for reviewing instructions, searching existing data sources, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and completing and reviewing the collection of information.

The reduction in burden is based on an estimated 43 copy filings related to the transportation of natural gas on the OCS. Each filing is expected to average 240 hours to prepare. Total reporting burden under FERC–545 is related to the Commission's Order No. 636. With the burden reduction proposed herein, the total burden under FERC–545 will be reduced to estimated 160,265 hours annually. Send comments regarding this burden estimate by contacting the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 941 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, DC 20426 [Attention: Michael Miller, Information Policy and Standards Branch, (202) 208–1415] and to the FERC Desk Officer, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503.

III. Background

A. Promulgation of the OCSLA Regulations

In 1988, the Commission promulgated regulations to implement section 5 of the OCSLA.[8] The Commission's OCSLA regulations provided every interstate natural gas pipeline transporting natural gas on or across the OCS with a blanket transportation certificate under subpart G of part 284 of the commission's regulations. This certificate authorized and required nondiscriminatory transportation of natural gas on behalf of others, established a capacity allocation program, and required each of these pipelines to file tariffs to reflect the part 284 blanket certificate authorization, among other things.

The Order No. 509 certificates differed from a standard part 284 blanket transportation certificate[9] in that the certificate holder was given abandonment authority for certain transportation services provided under individual certificates issued under part 157 of the regulations. Also, the OCSLA regulations provided for a capacity allocation program in order to encourage the pipelines and their customers to rely on the pipeline's new blanket certificate for transportation authorization in lieu of their individually-issued part 157 certificates.

B. Application of the Regulations

Tennessee Gas Pipeline Company (Tennessee) filed tariff sheets to comply with the then newly-adopted OCSLA regulations in Docket Nos. RP89–84 and RP89–228. The Commission issued three orders addressing these tariff filings.[10] Tennessee subsequently filed an appeal of the Commission's orders which applied these regulations to the tariff filings made by Tennessee. On August 14, 1992, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit remanded this case to the Commission for further consideration.[11]

C. Order No. 636

On April 8, 1992, the Commission issued Order No. 636. In Order No. 636, the Commission established a capacity release program applicable to all open access pipelines, among other things. By establishing a uniform capacity release program applicable to all open access pipelines, the Commission intended to create a nationwide program which would supersede all existing capacity brokering, capacity release, and upstream pipeline capacity assignment programs.

Consequently, the Commission issued a companion order to Order No. 636 which required the modification of all pre-Order No. 636 capacity brokering, capacity release, and upstream pipeline capacity assignment programs to bring those programs into conformance with the Order No. 636 capacity release program.[12]

[T]he Commission believes that the goal of Order No. 636, to place all natural gas sellers on an equal competitive footing, can only be achieved if all capacity reallocations are undertaken on the same general basis on all pipelines. Because most markets are served by more than one pipeline, and any given pipeline serves multiple markets, only by mandating generally uniform national capacity reallocation mechanisms can the Commission prevent any pipeline or firm shipper from achieving an undue advantage or incurring an undue disadvantage compared to firm shippers on other pipelines from the operation of a particular pipeline's capacity brokering program.[13]

The Algonquin order quoted above resolved any disparity between the Order No. 636 capacity release program and existing programs which had been authorized in Commission orders. However, the OCS capacity allocation program, which was established by rulemaking as opposed to Commission order, remained intact.

IV. Overview of the Proposed Revisions

It is important to note initially that the Commission is not proposing to rescind or alter the requirement that interstate pipelines that transport natural gas on the OCS offer open access transportation under a part 284 blanket transportation certificate. That requirement will continue to be imposed on all OCS pipelines, as required by Commission policy and in order to ensure that the open access, nondiscriminatory standard for OCS transportation required by section 5 of the OCSLA is maintained.

However, the Commission is proposing to remove the regulations governing the OCSLA capacity allocation program,[14] and the regulation which provides for abandonment authority.[15] As stated earlier, in Order No. 636 the Commission established a capacity release program which is applicable for all transportation services provided by interstate pipelines that hold a part 284 blanket transportation certificate, including OCS transactions. As a result of the implementation of the Order No. 636 capacity release program, the OCSLA capacity allocation program becomes redundant. Further, since the Order No. 636 capacity release program is applicable to all interstate transactions, including those offshore, a conflict arises as to which program applies to OCS transactions. The Commission believes that one uniform capacity release program applicable to all interstate transactions, offshore and onshore, will best serve the public interest. Hence, the Commission proposes to remove the Order No. 509 capacity allocation regulations.

The Commission also proposes to remove the Order No. 509 regulations governing rate filings for OCS pipelines with blanket transportation certificates issued in Order No. 509.[16] Since all OCS interstate pipelines now have rates on file for transportation service under a blanket certificate, the Order No. 509 regulations are no longer needed. Additionally, the Commission is proposing to revise the remaining Subpart K regulations in order to conform with the removal of the regulations discussed above.

VI. Discussion

Review of the Commission's changes to its open access regulations in Order No. 636, the Tennessee orders, and the Court's remand order, has culminated in this proposal to revise the OCSLA regulations.

A. Capacity Reallocation Program

The OCSLA required that interstate pipelines provide open access transportation on the OCS. In order to implement that mandate the Commission issued Part 284 blanket transportation certificates to all OCS pipelines, as defined in § 284.302. Since certain interstate gas transportation was being provided under individually-issued Part 157 certificates, a means for the pipelines to convert the part 157 services to part 284 services was needed.

Therefore, the Commission formulated the capacity reallocation program discussed above and adopted the regulations found in § 284.304 to effectuate that program.[17] This program was not provided solely as a means for initial implementation of open access, nondiscriminatory transportation on the OCS, although it was required for that initial implementation to take place smoothly. The program also was established as an ongoing program applicable to OCS transactions occurring after initial implementation. Essentially, this program allowed shippers to relinquish unneeded capacity on an OCS pipeline to other shippers. In this way, the pipeline's capacity would be reallocated to shippers who most needed the capacity. Further, the reallocation could occur without the need for further transaction-specific regulatory approval.

At the time these regulations were adopted, the Order No. 509 capacity allocation program was needed to ensure that the requirements of section 5 of the OCSLA were met. However, under Order No. 636, the Commission established a capacity release program which is applicable for all transportation services provided by interstate pipelines that hold a part 284 blanket transportation certificate. The Order No. 636 capacity releasing program will operate as follows:

The firm capacity holder will inform the pipeline that it wants to release capacity on a permanent or temporary basis, the specific quantity to be released, the period of time, and any other conditions of the release. For example, the releasing customer might state that it will release a specified amount of capacity only so long as the temperature remains above a specified degree. That is, the firm shipper may release firm capacity on an interruptible basis. In addition, the releasing customer can bring to the pipeline for posting a pre-arranged deal for releasing capacity. If no better offer is received, the pipeline must contract with the replacement shipper found by the releasing customer. If a better offer is forthcoming, the pipeline must give the replacement shipper found by the releasing customer an opportunity to match the better offer. If the replacement shipper matches the better offer, the pipeline must contract with the replacement shipper found by the releasing customer. If the releasing customer's designated replacement shipper does not match the better offer, the pipeline must contract with the person who made the better offer.

The pipeline must immediately post the capacity releasing information on its electronic bulletin board for a reasonable period of time during which applicants for capacity can agree to the releasing customer's terms and conditions. * * * [T]he pipeline may take other action to market any released capacity.

The pipeline will be required to resell that capacity under part 284 to the applicant meeting the releasing customer's specifications. The replacement shipper must, of course, satisfy all of the pipeline's tariff provisions governing shipper eligibility before it can contract with the pipeline for the capacity. Unless the pipeline otherwise agrees (such as where there is a permanent reallocation of annual capacity), the releasing customer will remain liable on its contract but will receive a credit against its bill for the capacity resold. The pipeline itself should be indifferent to the substitution because its total contract demand will remain unchanged.[18]

The Order No. 636 capacity release program reflects the current needs of the natural gas market.[19]

[19] As we stated in Order No. 636–A, III FERC Stats. & Regs. Preambles at 30,526: the Commission found [in Order No. 636] that the pre-Order No. 636 regulatory structure of the pipeline industry has, and will continue to have, a harmful impact on all segments of the natural gas industry and on the Nation. The Commission concluded that it was appropriate to take remedial action to improve the competitive structure of the natural gas industry to further the creation of an efficient national wellhead market for gas without adversely affecting the quality and reliability of the service provided by pipelines to their custom ers. The Commission

On the other hand, the Order No. 509 capacity allocation program was designed to meet the requirements of the OCSLA and is applicable only to interstate pipelines which operate on the OCS. Since an industry-wide capacity reallocation program has been established through Order No. 636, continued existence of the Order No. 509 capacity allocation program raises the question of which capacity reallocation program applies to OCS transactions. Because of this conflict in authorizations and in furtherance of our goal to implement a uniform capacity release program applicable to all interstate pipelines, the Commission is proposing to remove the regulations, found in § 284.304, which established the Order No. 509 capacity allocation program.

The Commission believes that uniform application of the Order No. 636 capacity reallocation program to all part 284 transportation service is essential to the successful restructuring of the industry under Order No. 636. In light of the development of the Order No. 636 capacity release program, which is applicable to all part 284 transportation (including transportation under the Order No. 509 transportation blankets), the Commission believes that the Order No. 509 capacity allocation program is no longer needed.

This proposed change in the regulations is consistent with the Commission's intent in promulgating the Order No. 509 regulations. While it seemed reasonable to anticipate that the onshore blanket transportation certificates and the Order No. 509 blanket transportation certificates would operate harmoniously, this did not prove to be the case. Certainly, this was the goal sought by the Commission, since "the fundamental purpose of both the OCSLA and [Order No. 509] is to ensure open access transportation of OCS gas to someplace other than another part of the OCS."[20] Even though the offshore blanket transportation certificates vary somewhat from the onshore blanket transportation certificates, due to the requirements of the OCSLA, the Commission's stated intent was to "mirror the onshore open access as closely as possible."[21] In this way, transportation from the OCS to all points onshore could occur without unnecessary regulatory interference. Therefore, the proposed revisions to the regulations would serve to further the Commission's efforts to ensure open access transportation on the OCS.

believes that its action will result in a modern, viable natural gas industry specifically fashioned to the needs of all gas consumers and the Nation for an adequate and reliable supply of clean and abundant natural gas at reasonable prices.

B. Rate Filings

The Commission also proposes to remove the Order No. 509 regulations governing rate filings for OCS pipelines with blanket transportation certificates issued in Order No. 509.[22] These regulations required the filing of Part 284 rates for service under the Order No. 509 blankets and were necessary to effectuate the Order No. 509 blanket certificates.[23] However, now that all OCS interstate pipelines have filed rates for transportation service under the certificates issued in Order No. 509, these regulations are no longer required. Additionally, the Commission is proposing to revise § 284.303 of the regulations to conform with the removal of this section.

C. New OCS Pipelines

The only remaining matter which arises out of the revisions to the regulations proposed here is the treatment of any new OCS pipelines, particularly with regard to the OCSLA requirement that interstate pipelines which transport natural gas on the OCS offer open access transportation. The Commission is not proposing to rescind or alter that requirement. Instead, revised § 284.303 would require every OCS pipeline to provide open access, nondiscriminatory transportation service pursuant to a Part 284, Subpart G blanket transportation certificate.

This provision will continue to be imposed on all OCS pipelines, new and existing, in order to ensure that the open access, nondiscriminatory standard for OCS transportation required by section 5 of the OCSLA is maintained. As a result, in order to build new facilities on the OCS and participate in OCS transactions, a part 157 certificate normally would be required for the construction of the facilities, and a part 284 blanket transportation certificate would be required in order to provide service on the new facilities.

This provision would also be imposed in a situation where the ownership of existing OCS pipeline facilities is transferred to a new party. In that event, the new owner of the facilities would be required to obtain a part 157 certificate to operate the facilities as well as part 284 blanket certificate to provide transportation service.

This provision is consistent with Commission policy, as well. The Commission recently enunciated a new policy with regard to authorizations to provide service under part 157:

> We recognize that our denial of case-specific service [part 157] authority constitutes a change in our previous policy in this regard. Pursuant to that policy, we have granted case-specific transportation certificates, even though the services could be performed by the applicants under their blanket certificates, where we were also approving construction of facilities. Because of the investments in facilities, we concluded that case-specific authority was appropriate to ensure long-term authority for the transportation services. [Citation omitted.]
> In the past, this policy was appropriate to facilitate pipelines' efforts to obtain construction financing by ensuring that their transportation authority would be of sufficient duration to recover their facilities' costs. The policy also ensured the customers in those proceedings that their pipelines would continue to have transportation authority, regardless of whether the pipelines continued open-access transportation. However, in view of the role played by open-access transportation in today's market, these assurances are no longer needed in every instance where construction authority is sought. More importantly, it would be counter to our open-access transportation policy to add major new facilities to the interstate system that are not subject to open access.[24]

Therefore, even without the requirement proposed in § 284.303, new OCS pipelines would be required to provide open access transportation service under Commission policy. Nevertheless, because the OCSLA requires open access transportation on the OCS and the ensure continued compliance with the OCSLA mandate, the Commission will impose the open access transportation requirement on OCS pipelines through our regulations, instead of on a case-by-case basis.

VII. Environmental Analysis

The Commission is required to prepare an Environmental Assessment or an Environmental Impact Statement for any Commission action that may have a significant adverse effect on the human environment.[25] The Commission has categorically excluded certain actions from these requirements as not having a significant effect on the human environment.[26] The action taken here will not have a significant adverse impact on the human environment and falls within the categorical exemptions provided in the Commission's regulations. Therefore, an environmental assessment is unnecessary and was not prepared in this rulemaking.

VIII. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

The Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (RFA)[27] generally requires a description and analysis of final rules that will have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The RFA is intended to ensure careful and informed agency consideration of rules that may significantly affect small entities and to encourage consideration of alternative approaches to minimize harm or burdens on small entities. Given the nature of this proposed rule, the Commission concludes that there will not be a significant impact on a significant number of small entities. Therefore, pursuant to section 605(b) of the RFA,[28] the Commission hereby certifies that the proposed regulations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, and that, even if the rule were to have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities, it would be to their benefit. Accordingly, no regulatory flexibility analysis is required.

IX. Information Collection Requirement

The Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) regulations require that OMB approve certain information and recordkeeping requirements imposed by agency rules.[29] The information collection requirements in this proposed rule are contained in FERC–545 "Gas Pipeline Rates: Rate Change (Non-Formal) (1902–0154).

The Commission uses the data collected in these information requirements to carry out its regulatory responsibilities pursuant to the OCSLA and the NGA. The Commission's Office of Pipeline and Producer Regulation uses the data to ensure that all rates and charges in proposed tariff sheets are just and reasonable in light of transportation activities authorized for OCS pipelines.

The Commission is submitting to the Office of Management and Budget a notification that these collections of information will no longer be required or have been modified. Interested persons may obtain information on these reporting requirements by contacting the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 941 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426 [Attention: Michael Miller, Information Policy and Standards Branch, (202) 208–1415]. Comments on the requirements of this rule can be sent to the FERC Desk Officer, Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503.

X. Comment Procedures

The Commission invites interested persons to submit written comments on the matters proposed in this notice, including any related matters or alternative proposals that commenters may wish to discuss. An original and 14 copies of the initial comments to this notice must be filed with the Commission no later than June 21, 1993. An original and 14 copies of any reply comments must be filed no later than July 21, 1993. Comments should be submitted to the Office of the Secretary, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426, and should refer to Docket No. RM93–8–000.

Written comments will be placed in the public files of the Commission and will be available for inspection during regular business hours at the Commission's Public Reference Room, room 3104, 941 North Capitol Street, NE., Washington, DC 20426.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On April 2, 1992, the Internal Revenue Service published in the Federal Register the Request for Comments on Regulatory Burden Reduction Initiative (57 FR 11277), in which the Treasury Department and the Internal Revenue Service solicited public comment on a program to:

(1) Close certain regulations projects that are no longer needed or will not be pursued in the foreseeable future;

(2) Withdraw certain proposed regulations which there are no current plans to finalize; and

(3) Redesignate certain regulations as relating to prior law in light of subsequent changes to the law.

Section II of that document listed proposed regulations to be withdrawn. Those proposed regulations which did not receive any comments or which received only comments favorable to the program are withdrawn. Accordingly, pursuant to the announcement in the Federal Register (57 FR 11277), this document withdraws the proposed regulations set forth below from the Federal Register system.

Special Analyses

It has been determined that these rules are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291. Therefore, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. It has also been determined that section 553(b) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 5) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (U.S.C. chapter 6) do not apply to these regulations, and, therefore, a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not required. Pursuant to section 7805(f) of the Internal Revenue Code, these regulations have been submitted to the Chief Counsel for Advocacy of the Small Business Administration for comment on their impact on small business.

Drafting Information

The principal author of these regulations is Paul C. Feinberg of the Office of Associate Chief Counsel (Domestic), within the Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. Other personnel from the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations.

Drafting Information

The drafters of this notice are LT E.G. Westerberg, Project Manager, First Coast Guard District, and LCDR J.D. Stieb, Project Attorney, First Coast Guard District, Legal Office.

Background and Purpose

On December 18, 1992 the sponsor, New Jersey Offshore Powerboat Racing Association submitted a request to hold an offshore power boat race in the Atlantic Ocean on the New Jersey coast. Two Special Local Regulations currently exist which regulate the event. The Coast Guard proposes to revise the permanent regulation, 33 CFR 100.505 and remove 33 CFR 100.109. The regulation would establish a temporary regulated area in the Atlantic Ocean and Manasquan Inlet for this event known as the "New Jersey Offshore Power Boat Race." The proposed regulation would provide specific guidance to control vessel movement during the limited duration of the race.

This event will include up to 90 powerboats competing on a triangular course at speeds approaching 100 m.p.h. Due to the inherent dangers of a race of this type, vessel traffic will be temporarily restricted to promote safe navigation.

The sponsor, New Jersey Offshore Powerboat Racing Association, conducted this event along the New Jersey coast in 1992. This year's race will follow a similarly marked course as in the previous year. However, the regulated area will be extended to include Manasquan Inlet.

Discussion of Proposed Amendments

The Coast Guard proposes to rewrite the existing Special Local Regulations to better regulate the event. The regulated area will include specified waters of the Atlantic Ocean adjacent to Manasquan Inlet and Seaside Park, New Jersey. Specified portions of Manasquan Inlet are included to better regulate vessel traffic in the vicinity of the race course. The Special Local Regulation will close the regulated area to all traffic from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on July 17, 1993 with a rain date July 18, 1993. This closure is needed to protect spectators and participants from the hazards that accompany a high speed powerboat race.

Regulatory Evaluation

This proposal is not major under Executive Order 12291 and not significant under Department of Transportation Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11040; February 26, 1979). The Coast Guard believes the economic impact of this proposal to be minimal and that a Regulatory Evaluation is unnecessary due to the limited duration of the race, the extensive advisories that have been and will be made, and the fact that the event is taking place on a Saturday, which is normally a light volume day for commercial marine traffic.

Small Entities

Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Coast Guard must consider whether this proposal will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. "Small entities" include independently owned and operated small businesses that are not dominant in their field and that otherwise qualify as "small business concerns" under section 3 of the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 632).

The Coast Guard expects the impact of this proposal to be minimal. For the reasons discussed in the Regulatory Evaluation, the Coast Guard certifies under 5 U.S.C. 605(b) that this proposal will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

Collection of Information

This proposal contains no collection of information requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act (44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.).

Federalism

The Coast Guard has analyzed this proposal in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 12612 and has determined that this proposal does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism Assessment.

Environment

The Coast Guard considered the environmental impact of this proposal and concluded that under section 2.B.2.c of Commandant Instruction M16475.1B, this proposal is categorically excluded from further environmental documentation. A Categorical Exclusion Determination is available in the docket for inspection or copying where indicated under ADDRESSES.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Office of Postsecondary Education

34 CFR Chapter VI

The Higher Education Amendments of 1992; Negotiated Rulemaking

AGENCY: Office of Postsecondary Education, Department of Education.

ACTION: Notice of additional meetings to conduct negotiated rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Acting Assistant Secretary for Postsecondary Education of the United States Department of Education (Department) will convene a group to participate in a negotiated rulemaking session. This is the second of two negotiated rulemaking sessions convened to implement certain provisions of the Higher Education Amendments of 1992 that relate to student financial assistance programs.

DATES: The two meetings are scheduled from April 26 through 30, 1993 and from June 14 through 18, 1993. Each full day of negotiations will begin at 9 a.m.

ADDRESSES: Both meetings will be held at the Woodfin Suites Hotel, 1380 Piccard Drive, Rockville, Maryland. Telephone number: 301/590-9880. Individuals who are hearing impaired may call the Federal Dual Party Relay Service at 1-800-877-8339 between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., Eastern time.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: If you have any questions, please contact Mr. Robert W. Evans at 202/708-8242. Individuals who are hearing impaired may call the Federal Dual Party Relay Service at 1-800-877-8339 between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m., Eastern time.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

The group of negotiators will include individuals representing students, legal assistance organizations that represent students, institutions of higher education, guaranty agencies, lenders, secondary markets, loan services, guaranty agency services, and collection agencies. This group will convene twice, once in April and again in June. The Acting Assistant Secretary, by dividing the negotiations in two meetings, hopes to provide negotiators with sufficient time to confer and get feedback from a variety of interested parties. This group will review draft proposed regulations for certain sections of parts B, G, and H of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by the Higher Education Amendments of 1992, that were not reviewed in the earlier negotiated rulemaking session. These sections deal with student assistance general provisions in 34 CFR part 668, subparts A and B; third-party servicers and consultants; ability-to-benefit; and the State postsecondary review program. The draft proposed regulations for these sections were developed following regional meetings throughout the country at which issues related to these regulations were discussed.

The Department has arranged for mediators from the private sector to mediate the upcoming negotiated-rulemaking session. The mediators will not be involved with the substantive development of the proposed regulations. Their role is to:

- Chair the negotiations;
- Help the negotiating process run smoothly;
- Help participants define issues and reach consensus.

The meetings are open to members of the public who wish to observe the process.

Issues for Negotiation

The student financial assistance issues that will be negotiated are those in certain sections of parts B, G, and H of title IV of the Higher Education Act where the Secretary has the authority to set policy. The Secretary published a selective list of these issues in the Federal Register notice announcing the regional meetings (57 FR 38639, August 26, 1992).

Background

Section 492 of part G of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended by the Higher Education Amendments of 1992, contains procedural requirements the Department is to follow in developing and issuing regulations to govern parts B, G, and H. The statute further requires that participants in this negotiated rulemaking process be chosen by the Secretary from individuals nominated by groups participating in the regional meetings that preceded the negotiating sessions. The statute requires the Secretary to select individuals as negotiators who reflect the "diversity in the industry, representing both large and small participants, as well as individuals serving local areas and national markets." The Department announced that it would hold regional meetings (57 FR 38639, August 26, 1992) and convened these meetings in San Francisco, CA; New York City, NY; Kansas City, MO; and Atlanta, GA, between September 14 and September 30, 1992.

Groups participating in these regional meetings nominated more than 275 individuals to serve as negotiators.

Participants

The following is a list of the participants whom the Department has invited to participate in the negotiated rulemaking. The list also includes the names of mediators and Federal negotiators. The Department may add additional negotiators to this list. Each participant represents one of the groups specified in the statute (section 492(a)1)). The Department has attempted to invite from among those individuals nominated by the groups represented at the regional meetings a range of individuals representing the various viewpoints of the interest groups specified in the statute and the various geographic areas of the nation.

50 CFR Part 17

Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; 1-year Finding for a Petition To List Four Plant Species Under the Endangered Species Act

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Notice of 1-year petition finding.

SUMMARY: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (Act), announces a 1-year finding on a petition to add four plant species, Amsinckia carinata (Malheur Valley fiddleneck), Eriogonum crosbyae (Crosby's buckwheat), Ivesia rhypawra var. rhypara (grimy ivesia), and Senecio ertterae (Erter's senecio), to the List of Endangered and Threatened Plants. After review of all available scientific and commercial information, the Service determines that listing is not warranted for any of the four species under consideration at this time.

The limited distribution of these plants could make them vulnerable to mining or grazing; however, these activities are not imminent threats to the plants at this time. Ivesia rhypora var. rhypara and Senecio ertterae are the subject of conservation agreements with the Bureau of Land Management in Oregon. In the event that the protective measures envisioned by the conservation agreements and by the land managing agencies are not successful, the Service could list these species at a later date.

DATES: The finding announced in this notice was made on April 21, 1993. Comments and information may be submitted until further notice.

ADDRESSES: Comments and materials regarding the petition finding may be submitted to the Field Supervisor, Boise Field Office, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 4696 Overland Road, room 576, Boise, Idaho 83705. The petition, finding, supporting data, and comments are available for public inspection, by appointment, during normal business hours at the above address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Pursuant to section 4(b)(3)(B) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (Act), for any petition to revise the Lists of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants that presents substantial scientific and commercial information, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service) is required to make a finding within 12 months of the date of the receipt of the petition on whether the petitioned action is (a) not warranted, (b) warranted, or (c) warranted but precluded from immediate proposal by other pending proposals of higher priority. Section 4(b)(3)(C) requires that petitions for which the requested action is found to be "warranted but precluded" should be treated as though resubmitted on the date of such finding, i.e., requiring a subsequent finding to be made within 12 months.

On October 8, 1991, the Service received a petition dated October 7, 1991, from Stu Garrett, to list Amsinckia carinata, Eriogonum crosbyae, Ivesia rhypara var. rhypora, and Senecio ertterae as endangered. A 90-day finding that the petition presented substantial information that the requested action may be warranted was announced on the Federal Register on November 19, 1992 (57 FR 54547).

On the basis of the best available scientific and commercial information, the Service finds that listing Amsinckia carinata, Eriogonum crosbyae, Ivesia rhypara var. rhypara, and Senecio ertterae as endangered is not warranted at the present time.

Amsinckia carinata is a synonym of A. vernicosa ssp. vernicosa, a species that the Service considers too widespread and abundant for consideration for Federal listing (55 FR 6187). Eriogonum crosbyae, Ivesia rhypara var. rhypara, and Senecio ertterae may face threats from mining, grazing, and other factors; however, the risks to these three species from these threats are currently low. Although mining claims exist, they are not as extensive as originally thought. The declining trend in mining activity is expected to continue as claim holding fees have been raised, and mineral exploration has become less profitable. In addition, the petitioned species occur on substrates that possess low mineral potential.

Grazing occurs at Ivesia rhypara var. rhypara and Senecio ertterae sites in Oregon; however, no information indicates that impacts from grazing are extensive enough to affect the survival of the species at the present time. The Service does not expect mining, grazing, or other factors to occur so quickly or extensively, as to pose substantial, immediate threats to the three species in question.

The Service currently considers threats to Eriogonum crosbyae, Ivesia rhypara var. rhypara, and Senecio ertterae to be low. Listing these species as either endangered or threatened is not appropriate at this time because they are not presently in danger of extinction or expected to become so in the foreseeable future. In the event that conditions change and the species become imperiled due to factors mentioned in the petition or other unforeseen factors, the Service could list these species as endangered or threatened under the Act. The Service will continue to provide technical assistance to State and Federal agencies to address the conservation needs of the above species.

RIN 1018–AB42

Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; Proposed Determination of Endangered Status for Argali in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Service proposes to determine endangered status for the argali (Ovis ammon), a wild sheep, in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan. The species currently is classified as threatened in those three countries and as endangered in all other parts of its range. The threatened classification, and a current special rule governing trophy importation from Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan, now appear inadequate to provide for the protection of the species. The Service seeks relevant data and comments from the public. The comments and other available information will be evaluated, and such review may lead to withdrawal or to a final rule that differs substantially from this proposal. In particular, should sufficient data be received, the final rule could maintain threatened status for the argali in one or more of the involved countries, and incorporate a revised special rule providing for limited importation.

DATES: Comments must be received by October 25, 1993. Public hearing requests must be received by June 11, 1993.

ADDRESSES: Comments, information, and questions should be submitted to the Chief, Office of Scientific Authority; Mail Stop: Arlington Square, room 725; U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Washington, DC 20240 (Fax number 703–358–2276). Express and messenger-delivered mail should be addressed to the Office of Scientific Authority; room 750, 4401 North Fairfax Drive; Arlington, Virginia 22203). Comments and materials received will be available for public inspection, by appointment, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the Arlington, Virginia address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The argali (Ovis ammon) is the largest species of wild sheep. Its historic range includes Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Uzbekistan, southern Siberia, Mongolia, north-central and western China including Tibet, Nepal, and the Himalayan portions of Afghanistan, Pakistan, and India. In a final rule published pursuant to the endangered Species Act of 1973 (Act) in the Federal Register of June 23, 1992 (57 FR 28014–28024), and becoming effective on January 1, 1993, the Service classified the argali as endangered throughout its range, except in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan, where it was designated as threatened. A special rule provided for the limited importation into the United States of argali trophies taken legally in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan, once the Service had received from the governments of those countries properly documented and verifiable certification that: (1) Argali populations are sufficiently large to sustain sport hunting; (2) regulating authorities have the capability to obtain sound data on these populations; (3) regulating authorities recognize these populations as a valuable resource and have the legal and practical means to manage them as such; (4) the habitat of these populations is secure; (5) regulating authorities can ensure that the involved trophies have in fact been legally taken from the specified populations; and (6) funds derived from the involved sport hunting are applied substantially to argali conservation. Extension of this special rule to argali populations in certain other countries, together with reclassification of such populations to threatened status, was stated to be a future possibility.

In connection with its new regulation of June 23, 1992, the Service noted that the argali (exclusive of the subspecies O. a. hodgsoni) is on Appendix II of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES), and thus until the effective date of the regulation could be imported into the U.S. upon presentation of a proper CITES export permit from the country of origin. Section9(c)(2) of the Act provides that the otherwise lawful importation of wildlife that is not an endangered species listed pursuant to section 4 of the Act, but that is on Appendix II of CITES, shall be presumed, under certain circumstances, to be in compliance with provisions of the Act and implementing regulations. There had been some question as to whether this provision of the Act might automatically require allowing the importation of a species that is both listed as threatened and on Appendix II, and preclude the issuance of more restrictive special rules covering importation. However, in a detailed discussion in the background to the final rule of June 23, 1992, the Service concluded that such special rules may be issued to provide for the conservation of the involved species.

It was emphasized that the Service's interpretation of Section 9(c)(2) was a key factor in the assignment of threatened, rather than endangered, status to the argali in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan. Had the Service been unable to issue a special rule restricting importation of trophies from those countries, and if therefore importation could have proceeded without assurances of adequate population status and management, such a situation would have become a contributory element to factor "D" of section 4(a)(1) of the Act, "the inadequacy of existing regulatory mechanisms," and likely would have been sufficient to warrant endangered classification of the involved populations. The decision to assign threatened, rather than endangered, status to those populations was made by a very narrow margin. In the final rule of June 23, 1992, the Service reported that the various problems confronting those populations were such that reclassification to endangered status remained under active consideration. It was noted that reclassification might become especially advisable if the Service found itself unable to adequately regulate the situation pursuant to a threatened classification.

In promulgating the final rule the Service acted in accordance with the requirement of section 4(d) of the Act that special rules issued for threatened species be "necessary and advisable to provide for the conservation of such species." The Service recognized that there was a reasonable argument for the proposition that controlled sport hunting may provide economic incentives contributing to the conservation of certain wildlife populations. During the periods of review and comment prior to the final rule, various interests had argued that sport hunting programs, with consequent exportation of trophies, might encourage and provide necessary funds for the conservation of the argali. Consideration of such interests, and allowance for their development and submission of information supporting their position, was a factor in the unusual length of the argali rulemaking process. There was a notice of a review on November 24, 1989 (54 FR 48723), a notice of intent to propose a rule on May 23, 1990 (55 FR 21207), a proposed rule on October 5, 1990 (55 FR 40890–40896), an extension of the comment period on February 8, 1991 (56 FR 5192), an extension of the deadline for a final rule on October 25, 1991 (56 FR 55266–55267), another reopening of the comment period on January 8, 1992 (57 FR 659), and the final rule of June 23, 1992. Throughout this publication process, and in extensive supplemental correspondence and announcements, the Service emphasized that the importation of argali trophies was feasible, provided that substantive data were made available showing that such activity was beneficial to the conservation of the overall species. The Service solicited these data from appropriate foreign governments and many other concerned parties, and gave ample opportunity for them to respond. Even upon the final rule, the effective date was set back more than six months so as not to interfere with the coming hunting season and to allow still further opportunity for response to the rule's requirement for the properly documented and verifiable certifications listed above. Moreover, as suggested in the final rule, the Service is now funding its own surveys that may help meet this requirement for certain of the involved argali populations.

Regardless of the above considerations, on January 4, 1993, just after the final rule became effective, the Service was challenged in two separate lawsuits. The plaintiffs include a number of hunting organizations and businesses. They contend, among other things, that the Service failed to give adequate notification of the argali special rule and that section 9(c)(2) of the Act does require that argali trophies be allowed to enter the United States simply upon presentation of a CITES export permit from the country or origin. These contentions, coming after the extensive opportunity offered for comment and presentation of data on the argali situation, suggest to the Service that the plaintiffs do not consider that the conditions of the final rule can be met and/or that they do not wish to assist in any effort to do so. There actions illustrate a lack of support for the conservation purposes that were a basis for the protective regulations in the final rule.

These regulations were not intended to disrupt ongoing sport hunting programs in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan, but rather to work in conjunction with such programs, provided that adequate documentation could be produced, showing that these programs were in keeping with the six factors listed above. It is regrettable that the intention of the protective regulations was misinterpreted by the plaintiffs. The regulations created a special opportunity for the three named countries to continue export of sport-taken trophies to the United States. As noted repeatedly in the final rule of June 23, 1992, the fundamental prerequisite for allowing this opportunity was provision of the required documentation. This prerequisite has yet to be satisfied with respect to any of the named countries, though the Service is developing its own surveys in Kyrgyzstan and Mongolia.

The Service is convinced of the validity of its final rule and protective regulations, but recognizes that there is legal uncertainty regarding compliance with the special rule for the three threatened populations. The Service might find itself in the position, as described above, of not being able to adequately regulate argali importation. Therefore, the current legal situation gives increased weight to factor "D" of section 4(a)(1) of the Act, "the inadequacy of existing regulatory mechanisms." This inadequacy would increase substantially should the Services's interpretation of section 9(c)(2) be set aside. The potential for such a situation, together with the many other problems of the argali, as described in the final rule of June 23, 1992, is sufficient to warrant a reclassification of the argali in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan from threatened to endangered. By proposing such reclassification, the Service both emphasizes the present need for adequate regulation of the species and is in a better position to avoid a break in such regulation.

The final rule of June 23, 1992, presented a discussion of the "Summary of Factors Affecting the Species" (57 FR 28018–28022). That discussion, as modified by the above discussion regarding Factor D, applies to this proposed rule to reclassify the argali as endangered in Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia, and Tajikistan. The Service will, at the time of announcing its decision on this proposal, summarize any new substantive information on the status of the affected argali populations.

Notwithstanding the above, the Service continues to await and to seek the properly documented and verifiable certification that could enable the importation of argali trophies as provided in the original final rule of June 23, 1992. Should such data be received, and should the legal conditions warrant, the Service could withdraw this proposal or, if there already is a new final rule, could propose to reinstate the original final rule. Alternatively, a new final rule could maintain threatened status for the argali in one or more of the three involved countries, and could establish a modified special rule, based on any new data that are received, providing for limited importation.

Available Conservation Measures

Conservation measures provided to species listed as endangered or threatened under the Endangered Species Act include recognition, recovery actions, requirements for Federal protection, and prohibitions against certain practices. Recognition through listing encourages conservation measures by Federal, international, and private agencies, groups, and individuals.

Section 7(a) of the Act, as amended, and as implemented by regulations at 50 CFR part 402, requires Federal agencies to evaluate their actions that are to be conducted within the United States or on the high seas, with respect to any species that is proposed or listed as endangered or threatened and with respect to its proposed or designated critical habitat (if any). Section 7(a)(2) requires Federal agencies to ensure that activities they authorize, fund, or carry out are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of a listed species or to destroy or adversely modify its critical habitat. If a proposed Federal action may affect a listed species, the responsible Federal agency must enter into formal consultation with the Service. No such actions are currently known with respect to the species covered by this proposal.

Section 8(a) of the Act authorizes the provision of limited financial assistance for the development and management of programs that the Secretary of the Interior determines to be necessary or useful for the conservation of endangered species in foreign countries. Sections 8(b) and 8(c) of the Act authorize the Secretary to encourage conservation programs for foreign endangered species, and to provide assistance for such programs, in the form of personnel and the training of personnel. Pursuant to these provisions of the Act, the Service now is funding surveys of the status of the argali in Kyrgyzstan and Mongolia. This effort may eventually form part of a larger project involving other forms of assistance and cooperative funding from additional organizations.

Section 9 of the Act, and implementing regulations found at 50 CFR 17.21 and 17.31, set forth a series of general prohibitions and exceptions that apply to all endangered and threatened wildlife. These prohibitions, in part, make it illegal for any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States to take (within the United States or on the high seas), import or export, ship in interstate commerce in the course of commercial activity, or sell or offer for sale in interstate or foreign commerce any endangered or threatened wildlife. It also is illegal to possess, sell, deliver, transport, or ship any such wildlife that has been taken in violation of the Act. Certain exceptions apply to agents of the Service and State conservation agencies.

Permits may be issued to carry out otherwise prohibited activities involving endangered and threatened wildlife under certain circumstances. Regulations governing permits are codified at 50 CFR 17.22, 17.23, and 17.32. Such permits are available for scientific purposes, to enhance propagation or survival, or for incidental take in connection with otherwise lawful activities. The importation of a personal trophy, taken through a carefully managed sport hunting program that provides an economic incentive for the general conservation for the involved species, may in some cases be considered to enhance the survival of that species. For threatened species, there also are permits available for zoological exhibition, educational purposes, or special purposes consistent with the purposes of the Act.

Public Comments Solicited

The Service intends that any final rule adopted will be accurate and as effective as possible in the conservation of endangered or threatened species. Therefore, comments and suggestions concerning any aspect of this proposed rule are hereby solicited from the public, concerned governmental agencies, the scientific community, industry, private interests, and other parties. Comments particularly are sought concerning the following:

(1) Biological, commercial, or other relevant data concerning any threat (or lack thereof) to the subject species, including data regarding the six points, as listed in the above "Background," for which the Service now is seeking documented certification;

(2) Information concerning the distribution of this species;

(3) Current or planned activities in the involved areas, and their possible effect on the subject species; and

(4) Details on the laws, regulations, and management programs covering each of the affected populations of this species, particularly with regard to their adequacy in providing for sport-hunting that may enhance the survival of these populations.

Final promulgation of the regulation on the subject species will take into consideration the comments and any additional information received by the Service, and such communications may lead to adoption of final regulations that differ substantially from this proposal. The Service emphasizes that it is actively seeking and evaluating information on the argali, and that this review could lead to withdrawal of this proposal, to retention of threatened status for the argali in one or more of the three involved countries, and/or to a modified special rule providing for limited importation. Interested parties are urged to consider such alternatives when examining the proposal and preparing their comments.

The Endangered Species Act provides for a public hearing on this proposal, if requested. Requests must be filed by 45 days from the date of publication in the Federal Register of the proposal, should be in writing, and should be directed to the party named in the above ADDRESSES section.

Suitability Studies for 22 Wild and Scenic Rivers, Tahoe National Forest, Placer, Yuba, Eldorado, Sierra, and Nevada Counties, CA

AGENCY: Forest Service, USDA.

ACTION: Notice of intent to prepare an environmental impact statement.

SUMMARY: The Forest Service, USDA, will prepare an environmental impact statement (EIS) to study the suitability of 22 rivers in the Tahoe National Forest in California for inclusion in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System. All 22 of the rivers are located within or form the boundary of the Tahoe National Forest. Two of the 22 rivers, Canyon Creek and the Rubicon River, are located on a shared administrative boundary with the Eldorado National Forest (Rubicon River) and the Plumas National Forest (Canyon Creek). This study also includes 22 miles of the South Yuba River beyond the National Forest boundary which is administered by the Bureau of Land Management. The Tahoe National Forest will evaluate all 22 rivers in one EIS and will develop a range of suitability alternatives from "no rivers suitable" to "all rivers suitable and recommended for designation". The agency gives notice of this study to solicit comments from interested and affected people on the scope and findings of the analysis. The proposed study will be implemented during fiscal years 1993 and 1994.

DATES: Comments on the scope of the study should be received by August 1, 1993.

ADDRESSES: Send written comments and suggestions concerning the suitability of the rivers to John Skinner, Forest Supervisor, Tahoe National Forest, P.O. Box 6003, Nevada City, CA 95959, (916) 265–4531.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Bradford, Wild and Scenic River Analysis Interdisciplinary Team Leader, P.O. Box 6003 Nevada City, CA 95959, (916) 265–4531.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This study proposes to evaluate the suitability of 22 rivers for designation as Wild and Scenic Rivers. A suitability study is the last administrative step in the Wild and Scenic Rivers process before a recommendation is made to Congress for designation. Only rivers found eligible for Wild and Scenic River status are evaluated in the suitability study.

In 1991, the Tahoe National Forest engaged in a process for determining Wild and Scenic River eligibility. At the close of the process 31 rivers were determined eligible for Wild and Scenic River status. At that point in the process, the Forest Supervisor directed that Wild and Scenic River values and classification standards be protected for the 31 eligible rivers until such time as the suitability studies are completed and new management emphasis is developed.

The EIS will address the suitability of 22 of the original 31 rivers together to maintain consistency across the western half of the Forest and complete the work efficiently. The area of consideration for each river is a minimum ¼ mile from each bank for the entire length of the eligible portion of the river. Eight of the remaining nine rivers will be addressed in a separate, "eastside rivers" suitability study in cooperation with the Bureau of Reclamation. The remaining river, the Middle Fork American River will be addressed in a separate study in cooperation with the Bureau of Reclamation's Phase III of the American River Water Resources Investigation. The 22 considered in this process are as follows:

North Yuba Ranger District: Pauley Creek, Lavezzola Creek, Empire Creek, Canyon Creek (Common boundary with the Plumas NF), Downie River, North Yuba River, Oregon Creek, and New York Ravine.

Nevada City Ranger District: Humbug Creek, Middle Yuba River, Macklin Creek, East Fork Creek, Fordyce Creek, South Yuba River, Big Granite Creek, North Fork of the the North Fork American River, and Little Granite Creek.

Truckee Ranger District: Rubicon River (Common boundary with the Eldorado NF).

Forest Hill Ranger District: Grouse Creek, Screwauger Canyon, New York Canyon, and North Fork of the Middle Fork American River.

Public participation will be especially important at several points during the analysis. The first point is the scoping process (40 CFR 1501.7). The Forest Service has and is seeking information, comments, and assistance from Federal, State, and local agencies and other individuals or organizations who may be interested in or affected by the proposed action. This input will be used in preparation of the draft environmental impact statement.

There will be an opportunity to learn more about the rivers and the process through periodic newsletters and public workshops to be held in May, June, and July of 1993. The tentative workshop locations are Auburn, Foresthill, Nevada City, and Downieville. Additional meetings may be held at other locations as needed. A notice of these meetings will be sent to people on the rivers planning mailing list and to the news media located in the Auburn, Grass Valley, Nevada City, Marysville, and Sacramento areas. Written comments or suggestions are encouraged throughout the planning process and during the public meetings.

The Tahoe National Forest is the lead Forest for the Study. The Eldorado and Plumas National Forests will provide administrative cooperation throughout the process. The Bureau of Land Management is a joint preparer of the EIS.

The draft EIS is scheduled to be completed in February of 1994. The comment period on the draft EIS will be 90 days from the date the Environmental Protection Agency publishes the notice of availability in the Federal Register.

The Forest Service believes it is important to give notice at this early stage of several court rulings related to public participation in the environmental review process. First, reviewers of a draft EIS must structure their participation in the environmental review of the proposal so that it is meaningful and alerts an agency to the reviewer's position and contentions. Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. v. NRDC, 435 U.S. 519, 553 (1978). Also, environmental objections that could be raised at the draft EIS stage but that are not raised until after completion of the final EIS may be waived or dismissed by the courts. City of Angoon v. Hodel, 803 F. 2D 1016, 1022 (9TH Cir. 1986) and Wisconsin Heritages, Inc. v. Harris, 490 F. Supp. 1334, 1338 (E.D. Wis. 1980). Because of these court rulings, it is very important that those interested in this proposed action participate by the close of the 90-day comment period so that substantive comments and objections are made available to the Forest Service at a time when it can meaningfully consider them and respond to them in the final EIS.

To assist the Forest Service in identifying and considering issues and concerns on the proposed action, comments on the draft EIS should be as specific as possible. It is also helpful if comments refer to specific pages or chapters of the draft EIS. Comments may also address the adequacy of the draft EIS of the merits of the alternatives formulated and discussed in the statement. Reviewer's may wish to refer to the Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for implementing the procedural provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act at 40 CFR 1503.3 in addressing these points.

After the comment period ends on the draft EIS, the comments will be analyzed and considered by the Forest Service in preparing the final EIS. The Secretary of Agriculture will consider the comments, responses, environmental consequences discussed in the final EIS and applicable laws, regulations, and policies in making his recommendation to the President regarding the suitability of these rivers for inclusion in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System. The decision on inclusion of a river in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System rests with the United States Congress through legislative designation.

John Skinner, Forest Supervisor, Tahoe National Forest, Highway 49 & Coyote St, Nevada City, CA 95959, is the responsible official for the suitability study. Michael Espy, Secretary of Agriculture, U.S. Department of Agriculture, room 200–A, Adm. Bldg, Washington, DC 20250, is the responsible official for recommendations for Wild and Scenic river designation within National Forest boundaries.

Foreign-Trade Zones Board

[Order No. 634]

Resolution and Order Approving With Restriction the Application of the St. Joseph County Airport Authority for Special-Purpose Subzone Status Fairmont Homes, Inc./Gulf Stream, Inc.

Resolution and Order

Pursuant to the authority granted in the Foreign-Trade Zones Act of June 18, 1934, as amended (19 U.S.C. 81a-81u), the Foreign-Trade Zones Board (the Board) adopts the following Resolution and Order:

The Board, having considered the matter, hereby orders:

After consideration of the application of the St. Joseph County Airport Authority, grantee of FTZ 125, filed with the Foreign-Trade Zones (FTZ) Board (the Board) on November 6, 1991, requesting special-purpose subzone status at the manufactured housing and recreational vehicle (RV) manufacturing facilities of Fairmont Homes, Inc., and its subsidiary Gulf Stream, Inc. (Fairmont/Gulf Stream), in Elkhart County, Indiana, the Board, finding that the requirements of the Foreign-Trade Zones Act and the Board's regulations would be satisfied, and that the proposal would be in the public interest provided approval is subject to certain conditions, approves the application, subject to the following conditions:

1. Fairmont/Gulf Stream shall elect privileged foreign status on all foreign components admitted to the subzone for use in the production of manufactured housing (mobile homes and prefabricated housing), trailers and vehicles other than Class A and Class C RVs.

3. With respect to micro-mini Class C RV production, Fairmont/Gulf Stream shall elect privileged foreign status on shipments of foreign pickup cab/chassis which exceed 5,000 units in a calendar year.

The approval is subject to the FTZ Act and the FTZ Board's regulations (as revised, 56 FR 50790–50808, 10/8/91), including Section 400.28. The Secretary of Commerce, as Chairman and Executive Officer of the Board, is hereby authorized to issue a grant of authority and appropriate Board Order.

Whereas, by an Act of Congress approved June 18, 1934, an Act "To provide for the establishment * * * of foreign-trade zones in ports of entry of the United States, to expedite and encourage foreign commerce, and for other purposes," as amended (19 U.S.C. 81a-81u) (the Act), the Foreign-Trade Zones Board (the Board) is authorized to grant to corporations the privilege of establishing foreign-trade zones in or adjacent to U.S. Customs ports of entry.

Whereas, the Board's regulations (15 CFR part 400) provide for the establishment of special-purpose subzones when existing zone facilities cannot serve the specific use involved;

Whereas, an application from the St. Joseph County Airport Authority, Inc., grantee of Foreign-Trade Zone 125, for authority to establish a special-purpose subzone for the manufactured housing and recreational vehicle manufacturing plants of Fairmont Homes, Inc., and its subsidiary, Gulf Stream, Inc. (Fairmont/Gulf Stream), located in Elkhart County, Indiana, was filed by the Board on November 6, 1991 (FTZ Docket 82–91, 57 FR 40, 1–2–92); and,

Whereas, the Board has found that the requirements of the Act and the Board's regulations would be satisfied and that the proposal would be in the public interest if approval were given subject to restriction;

Now, therefore, the Board hereby authorizes the establishment of a subzone (Subzone 125C) for the production of manufactured housing and recreational vehicles at the Fairmont/Gulf Stream facilities in Elkhart County, Indiana, at the locations described in the application, subject to the FTZ Act and the Board's regulations (as revised, 56 FR 50790–50808, 10–8–91), including section 400.28, and subject to the following conditions:

1. Fairmont/Gulf Stream shall elect privileged foreign status on all foreign components admitted to the subzone for use in the production of manufactured housing (mobile homes and prefabricated housing), trailers and vehicles other than Class A and Class C RVs.

2. With respect to Class A and Class C RVs, Fairmont/Gulf Stream shall elect privileged foreign status on foreign components except for pickup cab/chassis, chassis/suspension components, mufflers, pumps, filters, windshields, mirrors, electronic components, audio components, switches, refrigerators, panelling, hardware and fixtures.

3. With respect to micro-mini Class C RV production, Fairmont/Gulf Stream shall elect privileged foreign status on shipments of foreign pickup cab/chassis which exceed 5,000 units in a calendar year. Restriction requiring that privileged foreign status (19 CFR 146.41) shall be elected on shipments of foreign pickup cab/chassis should shipments on such items exceed 5,000 units in a calendar year.

Signed at Washington, DC, this 19th day of April, 1993, pursuant to Order of the Board.

Whereas, pursuant to § 400.32(b)(1), the Commerce Department's Assistant Secretary for Import Administration has authority to act for the Board in making decisions on new manufacturing/processing activity under certain circumstances, including situations where the proposed activity is the same in terms of products involved, to activity recently approved by the Board under similar circumstances (§ 400.32(b)(1)(i)); and,

Whereas, the FTZ Staff has reviewed the proposal, taking into account the criteria of § 400.31, and the Executive Secretary has recommended approval;

Now, Therefore, the Assistant Secretary for Import Administration, acting for the Board pursuant to § 400.32(b)(1), concurs in the recommendation and hereby approves the request subject to the Act and the Board's Regulations (as revised, 56 FR 50790–50808, 10/8/91), including § 400.28, and subject to the special restrictions (standard shipyard restrictions) and time limit described in Board Order 573.

Antifriction Bearings (Other Than Tapered Roller Bearings) and Parts Thereof From France; Preliminary Results of Antidumping Duty Administrative Reviews and Partial Termination of Administrative Reviews AGENCY: International Trade Administration/Import Administration Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of preliminary results of antidumping duty administrative reviews and partial termination of administrative reviews.

SUMMARY: In response to requests from interested parties, the Department of Commerce has conducted administrative reviews of the antidumping duty orders on antifriction bearings (other than tapered roller bearings) and parts thereof from France. The classes or kinds of merchandise covered by these orders are ball bearings (BBs), cylindrical roller bearings (CRBs), and spherical plain bearings (SPBs). The reviews cover seven manufacturers/exporters and the period May 1, 1991 through April 30, 1992. Although we initiated reviews for three other manufacturers/exporters, we are terminating these reviews because the requests for review were timely withdrawn. As a result of these reviews, the Department has preliminarily determined the weighted-average dumping margins for the reviewed firms to range from 0.00 to 66.42 percent for BBs, from 0.00 to 18.37 percent for CRBs, and 0.00 for SPBs.

We invite interested parties to comment on these preliminary results.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 27, 1993.
